RIVERS OVERWHELMINGLY SELECTED AS STRONGEST BY DELEGATES, ELECTORS TO DEFEAT TALMADGEITE

F. D. R. Reaffirms Promise To Keep Nation Out of War

World Is Warned, However, We Will Defend 'Our Neighborhood,' Although Employing Every Instrumentality of Peace

TREATY-BREAKING BLUNTLY DEPLORED

He Refers in Scathing Terms to Old World 'Racial Hatreds' and 'Political Fanaticisms.'

(Text of Address in Page 4)

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 14. (UP)—In a bitter indictment of war and its causes, President Roosevelt tonight pledged his determination to keep this nation from armed conflict at all costs.

He coupled his a plea for world peace with a warning that the United States could and would defend itself and "defend our neighborhood."

The chief executive, reviewing in blunt language the troubled world picture, pointed with satisfaction to his policy of the good neighbor as an instrument of peace in the Americas but warned of Old World "political fanaticisms" and the profiteers at home.

In his first major speech on foreign affairs since last October 4 at San Diego, Cal., Mr. Roosevelt set forth the philosophy of his peace policy and by inference held it up to the country as a political consideration of the first order.

The address, well sprinkled with Rooseveltian parables, hailed the forthcoming conference in Buenos Aires as "the hope of all chiefs of state of the Americas that this will result in measures which will banish wars forever from this vast portion of the earth." Then he added:

"Peace, like charity, begins at

Ann Charges Trickery In Sterilization Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—(AP) Petite Ann Cooper Hewitt, taking the witness stand in a surprise move against two physicians accused of mayhem conspiracy, testified today she was tricked into submitting to the operation by which she was sterilized.

The 22-year-old heiress suffered three paroxysms of coughing, however, and the sensational case was recessed for the week-end in the midst of a defense attempt to show she was being "used" in a plot against the large estate of her late father, Peter Cooper Hewitt.

Miss Hewitt testified Dr. Samuel G. Boyd and his co-defendant, Dr. Tilton E. Tillman, examined her but did not take her pulse count or temperature, did not touch her and prescribed no medicine.

Nevertheless, she said, a nurse examined her and she was taken to a hospital, ostensibly for an appendectomy.

The operation was performed in August, 1934, while Miss Hewitt still was a minor.

TRAFFIC DIRECTOR IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Haire Plan Wins Safety Committee Vote; Other Proposals Are Beaten.

Creation of a traffic director for Atlanta was favored last night by the safety committee of city council, which adversed proposals to establish a director of public safety with authority over the chief of police, and a separate traffic court to be presided over by one recorder permanently.

On the motion of Councilman Howard Haire, the committee voted to recommend to council at its meeting Monday that the traffic director office be created by ordinance, with power to regulate traffic in the city with a view to reducing the death and accident toll.

Haire offered his proposed ordinance as a substitute for the director of public safety plan as advocated by Council John A. White, who was not present at the safety committee meeting.

Jack C. Savage, city attorney, said

RUSSELL THROWS LIE AT TALMADGE AS 20,000 CHEER

Never Bought Farms or Built $10,000 Fishponds, Solon Says in Slashing Attack on Opponent.

By RALPH McGILL,
Staff Correspondent.

THOMSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—Twenty thousand Georgians, the democratic sinews of more than nine counties, heard and saw today Eugene Talmadge's own words come back here today to give him the lie.

In historic old Johnson's Grove, where Tom Watson debated, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., today produced the printed words of Eugene Talmadge's own speech in which he termed Georgia's members of the Civilian Conservation Corps "loafers and bums."

Talmadge "Bible" Jeered.

The crowd jeered the Talmadge "Bible" and Russell quieted them.

"Eugene Talmadge," he said, "was quoted as saying at Swainsboro last week that any man who said he called these Georgia boys loafers and bums was a plain liar.

"Last week a disinterested and resposible citizen of Newnan, former Mayor Billie Powell, made an affidavit he had heard Talmadge so slur the boys of the conservation camps, the boys of Georgia fathers and mothers.

And then he proceeded to employ the deadly parallel.

Talmadge had said any man lied

SPALDING TO FETE DELEGATES TODAY

Senators George and Russell Will Attend Dinner at the Biltmore.

Georgia's two United States senators, Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr., will be heard from tonight at the dinner to be given by Colonel Jack J. Spalding, of Atlanta, to the members of the Georgia delegation to the democratic national convention at Philadelphia and the electors chosen to represent the party by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Spalding will preside at the dinner, which will begin at 6 o'clock at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Of the 90 invitations sent out by Colonel Spalding, only six have sent their regrets on account of illness or vacation absences.

"We are expecting a great democratic gathering," Colonel Spalding said yesterday. "All of those invited were personally named by President Roosevelt as delegates or alternates and electors and they have long been looked upon as representative citizens and good democrats in their respective communities."

As a special compliment to the ladies attending the dinner, the Henry Grady hotel has tendered the use of Parlors A and B on the mezzanine floor for them throughout the day. Miss Irene Cox, who served as secretary to Albert S. Hardy, of Gainesville, chairman of the Roosevelt nominators' committee, will be in the parlors as hostess and assistant to the visitors.

Cobb Says: They'll Find New Taxes

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 14. Against my better judgment, I'm trying to be cheered by the announcement of the present majority leaders in congress that, looking forward to the next session, they behold no new taxes ahead. But, after election, when the lads look closer, they'll probably be able to behold quite a few.

That's why a balanced budget is like the idea of Santa Claus—something everybody talks about, but nobody ever expects to see. Excepting when a campaign is on and the voters are sort of flinching their galled backs under the load, a favorite pastime of legislators, wherever found, is thinking up more taxes to go along with the taxes they've already thunk up.

They resist the craving for just so long, and then they notice some previously overlooked dollars hiding behind the baseboard, and then—well, you might hire a henhawk to guard your henhouse, but could you depend on his word?

That special half-dollar which the treasury is issuing to commemorate Bridgeport, Conn., will bear a likeness of P. T. Barnum. If the designers are consistent about it, the motto under the picture will be: "One's born every minute:" and if they're also truthful about it, they'll add on the line: "And for every one that's born, there'll be taxes—aplenty."

Where Talmadge Called CCC Boys 'Loafers, Bums'

EUGENE TALMADGE——————Associate Editor

They are organizing camps, and in my county they are getting boys who never worked before, and they guarantee them $30.00 per month and their food and clothing, with a provision to send some back to their families. It is easy to mobilize, but when you go to mobilize people who want to loaf and be bums—you can mobilize them all right, but when it comes to the point of demobilizing, there is a great question.

At one of his recent addresses, Senator Russell charged that Governor Talmadge had called the CCC boys "loafers and bums." Talmadge vigorously denied that he had said any such thing and charged that this was one of the "campaign lies" against him. Yesterday at Thomson, Senator Russell, amid the enthusiastic applause of a tremendous audience, waved a copy of Governor Talmadge's political paper, "The Statesman," published June 24, 1933, in which, under his name, the Governor referred to the mobilization of CCC boys by the term attributed to him by Senator Russell. Photograph of the statement as made by the Governor on the editorial page of his paper is reproduced above.

JUDGE WILL JAIL THORPE WITNESS

Closes Case With Declaration Kaufman Will Be Held for Contempt.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Superior Court Judge Goodwin J. Knight termed his patience "practically exhausted" today as he stamped the Mary Astor-Dr. Franklyn Thorpe child custody case closed, and threatened one of its principals, Playwright George S. Kaufman, with a jail term.

"I'll put this man Kaufman in jail if we can ever find him," said Judge Knight as Ray Bogie, sheriff's deputy, set out armed with a bench warrant for the home of Moss Hart, Kaufman's friend and like him a prominent playwright.

Armed with a search warrant, Bogie went through Hart's house, he said, "From top to bottom," but did not find Kaufman. He said his best information is that Kaufman is in New York.

Kaufman, subpoened by Dr. Thorpe's attorneys, failed to appear in court.

A settlement in the custody case was reached last night after two days of wrangling, whereupon Roland Rich Woolley, attorney for Miss Astor, issued a statement that brought from Dr. Thorpe's counsel a threat to reopen the litigation.

Later, Joseph Anderson, attorney for Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, ex-husband of the movie star, said Dr. Thorpe had agreed not to reopen the struggle.

Impounds Diary.

Yesterday, Judge Knight approved a settlement that provided for the impounding of Miss Astor's lavendar-ink diary, and awarded the custody of her four-year-old daughter, Marylyn to the actress for nine months of the year and to Dr. Thorpe for three months.

"The Astor-Thorpe case is closed," Judge Knight said today.

After Judge Knight's approval of the settlement agreement yesterday the movie star's lawyer handed reporters a prepared statement which contained such phrases as:

"Miss Astor gallantly conceded to dismiss the annulment proceedings on the urgent insistence of the opposition. . . . We were forced to start this fight . . . in order to liberate Miss Astor from the complete bondage and from being at the mercy of Dr. Thorpe, this fight was instituted."

Threatens to Reopen Case.

Anderson immediately threatened to re-open the struggle, charging Miss Astor and her counsel with a breach of confidence.

"We agreed in chambers not to comment on the decision," Anderson said. "Now to have them come up with a statement obviously prepared in advance, giving their own interpretation of the decision and making more scurrilous statements, after the case is ended and in spite of the agreement to let the public judge for itself, is a snide, contemptible thing."

Judge Knight said today Miss As-

5,366 Rural Homes in 37 Counties In Georgia Are To Get Electricity

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Rural Electrification Administration announced today its allotments to Georgia co-operatives totalled $1,054,200, and would make electric current available to 5,366 farm homes.

With 10 projects already approved, the program is designed to extend power lines over 996.7 miles and serve farmers in 37 counties.

Homes Already Lighted.

An allotment to the Georgia Power and Light Company at Valdosta the REA said, already has meant electric current to 74 farm homes, and extensions are under construction. That project, estimated at $109,200, will include 99.1 miles of line when completed and will serve 663 farms. The affected counties will be Brantley, Brooks, Clinch, Early, Lanier, Lowndes, Pierce, Seminole, Thomas, Ware and Wayne.

Construction orders also have been given on a project of the Crisp County Farmers' Co-operative Corporation of Cordele, where a $50,000 allotment is to extend 60 miles of line into 200 farms.

The Snapping Shoals Power & Light Company, of Covington, received a $90,000 allotment for 75 miles of line, which will serve 550 farmers in Newton, Rockdale, Henry, DeKalb and Butts counties.

A $53,000 loan was approved for the Toombs County Rural Electrification Association of Lyons, which plans to provide 50 miles of line for

'Talmadge Tactics' Amuse Russell Crowd

By RALPH McGILL,
Staff Correspondent.

THOMSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—Four hours before the great sea of people gathered here to hear Senator Richard B. Russell's speech a crowd of some 400 people were already gathered near the stands.

One of them was a wag. Turning to a sheriff in the crowd he said, "Well, sheriff, I'm going to ask you to estimate this crowd."

This is a favorite ruse of the Talmadge management, which always has someone else estimate the crowd and invariably the gentleman asked seeks to make 3,000 into 20,000.

The sheriff gazed about. "Well, sir," he said, "in my opinion there are about 800,000 here and it is four hours before the speaking." And the crowd roared.

The crowd of 400 grew in two hours to 4,000, and when Senator Russell reached the platform the greatest crowd ever gathered at a state political meeting was present.

U. S. BOND HOLDING DOUBLED BY BANKS

Shift From Short to Long-Term Investments Viewed as Recovery Sign.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(UP) Administration leaders tonight followed up their "no new taxes" announcement with a disclosure that national banks more than doubled their holdings of long-term federal securities within four months.

This disclosure came in a brief report made public by Comptroller of Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, who asserted it was a favorable sign of improved business conditions and a show of confidence in the government's future.

The report followed rapidly the announcement after a White House conference by congressional and administration fiscal leaders that no new taxes would be necessary next year because of an improved outlook for the treasury.

The announcement said that a congressional study would be undertaken immediately to revise pending tax statutes, indicating that some levies might be reduced or eliminated.

Hold $1,824,660,000.

O'Connor's report, based on the bank call of last June 30, showed that the 5,375 national banks had increased their holdings of government long-term obligations from $855,563,000 on March 4 to $1,824,660,000 on June 30. The holdings on December 31, 1935, were $964,876,000.

COUGHLIN PARLEY DEVELOPS FIGHT

New York Delegation Offers Resolution To Prevent Support of Lemke.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—(AP)—With a resolution against endorsement of any presidential candidate, a New York delegation late today threw the first contest into the wildly-demonstrative convention of the Coughlin-founded National Union for Social Justice.

The resolution crystallized opposition to proposed endorsement of Representative William Lemke, of North Dakota, the union party's candidate for president, but it did not name Lemke.

It was offered by the delegation from the 25th New York congressional district after a day of tumultuous cheering, first for Father Coughlin, then for the youthful Senator Ruth D. Holt, democrat, W. Virginia, the convention keynoter.

At a press conference tonight, Father Coughlin said he believed the resolution opposing indorsement of Lemke would be "met 80 to 1."

"It is my opinion," he said, "that Mr. Lemke will be indorsed." He said, in response to a question, that there was no possibility the Townsend old-age pension plan would be indorsed.

The radio priest, who has announced his support of Lemke, said he expected introduction of a counter resolution seeking to have the convention endorse Lemke's candidacy. He emphasized he would not seek to influence the action of the convention on the question of endorsement.

Debate Delayed.

The resolution against endorsement, prepared by Gordon M. Wagner, chairman of the New York district's delegation, would confine any endorsement to congressional candidates approved by the national union.

Selection of Sylvester V. McMahon, Cleveland lawyer, as permanent chairman brought a 10-minute demonstration. Prolonged cheering broke out again when McMahon announced Father Coughlin would head the committee on adoption of a constitution.

McMahon, who is also national secretary of the union told the convention that Father Coughlin is "a great leader risen from out of the people" and "from him we have learned that the principal cause" of the economic depression "was the usurpation by un-

2 Workmen Injured As Ditch Caves In

Two men were severely injured yesterday afternoon in a cave-in at Techwood drive, near Simpson street, where WPA workers are excavating for a sewer main as part of the housing project. A fellow-worker, assisting in rescuing the men from beneath the loosened soil, fainted from exhaustion.

The injured, who were taken to Grady hospital, were Humphrey Hutchins, 36, Atlanta, R. F. D. No. 4, and William T. Blalock, 47, of 160 Mills street, N. W. Hutchins suffered a fractured fourth vertebrae and Blalock received a fractured rib. Both were severely bruised.

Arthur Cronan, 22, of 803 Harold avenue, was overcome from exhaustion when he and his companions worked for 15 minutes to rescue the men.

Hutchins and Blalock, working in a ditch about 12 feet deep, were imprisoned when one of its walls caved in. C. W. Patton, foreman, of Central avenue, directed the rescue. The cause of the cave-in was not determined.

Hutchins was removed to St. Joseph's last night, after an examination at Grady, and Blalock was permitted to go home.

70 of 80 Ballots Cast for Speaker In Impartial Poll

NOTED GEORGIANS SERVE ON STATE DEMOCRATIC BODY

Convention Delegates and Electors on List Requested To Indicate Strongest Candidate.

Following is a list of Georgia delegates to the national democratic convention at Philadelphia and of the Georgia presidential electors, the letter "E" opposite the name of each of the electors.

All of these, both delegates and electors were named by President Roosevelt after a conference with the Georgia members of congress. President Roosevelt having carried the state without opposition was authorized by the state executive committee to name both the delegates and the electors. They were chosen without reference whatsoever to the contest for governor.

To each of this list Democratic Committeeman Clark Howell sent the letter mailed last Monday asking on which of the three candidates supporting Roosevelt and the administration it would be best to unite to meet the menace of the united support of the anti-Roosevelt Talmadge combination which has centered upon a single candidate for governor.

Under the rules of the state committee, the candidate receiving a plurality vote in any county names the delegates to the state nominating convention from that county. Thus if, say, in a county casting one thousand votes Redwine received three hundred votes and the remaining seven hundred supporting the Roosevelt candidates, should be divided between the three, the anti-Roosevelt minority candidate would receive the vote of the county, thus emphasizing the importance of uniting on one of the candidates favorable to President Roosevelt and opposed to the dictatorship policy of Governor Talmadge.

The list follows:

Marion H. Allen, Milledgeville; Mack Barnes, Waycross; Emory Bass (E), Valdosta; A. S. Bradley (E), Swainsboro; Fred H. Brewster, Cedartown; Miss Ann Brumby, Cedartown; Judge Shepard Bryan, Atlanta; Thomas W. Bryan, LaFayette; Earl E. Camp (Judge), Dublin; Ernest Camp (E), Monroe; Lawrence S. Camp, Atlanta; Hugh A. Fortson Is Given 7 Votes, Larsen 1 and "Rivers or Fortson" 2 in Expression of Group Chosen by President Roosevelt.

DAILIES SAY RESULT CANNOT BE IGNORED

Heavy Response Given Letter of Democratic National Committeeman Requesting an Opinion.

Response to the poll-letters sent out last Monday by Clark Howell, as national democratic committeeman for Georgia, to get expressions as to which of the three anti-Talmadge governorship candidates is the strongest and therefore has the best chance to defeat the one candidate of the Talmadge and anti-Roosevelt forces, reveals that E. D. Rivers is the overwhelming choice.

The letters were sent by Mr. Howell to the Georgia delegates to the national democratic convention at Philadelphia, and to the electors of the state, all named by President Roosevelt after conference with the Georgia congressional delegation.

It is their overwhelming opinion that Rivers is the candidate on whom Georgia supporters of President Roosevelt can best unite in meeting the challenge of the one candidate backed by Talmadge.

Response Tabulation.

Rivers, 70.
Fortson, 7.
Larsen, 1.
Rivers or Fortson, 2.
Total, 80.

With Mr. Howell's letter, asking an expression from these representative Georgians covering every congressional district in the state, and all named by President Roosevelt without regard to the contest for governor, was inclosed a return postal card as follows:

"Of the three candidates for governor friendly to President Roosevelt, in my opinion, Rivers, Fortson and Larsen——————————(name one) is the strongest on which administration forces should unite."

In all, 80 responses were received, all with the name of one or the other candidates, with the exception of two, one saying "Fortson or Rivers could win if only one in the race, but neither can win with three anti-Talmadge candidates. Rivers will come nearest to winning."

The other said: "Close in my county between Fortson or Rivers."

Specific Indications.

With the exception of these two, all of the others specifically indicated who, in the opinion of the writers, who said he termed the boys of Georgia citizens loafers and bums.

RUSSELL HURLS LIE AT GENE TALMADGE

But before the crowd were Talmadge's own words, printed in Talmadge's paper, in which he emphatically and unmistakably did so term the boys of his state.

The crowd already was aroused by the story of the traitor in the camp, the ally of the du Ponts and the Raskobs, hand-in-glove with the infamous Liberty League in an effort to sell Georgia to the republican party.

McRae Platform Flayed.

And already they had heard the famous McRae platform, which the Governor has been forced to desert almost in entirety, flayed and destroyed.

But it grew quiet. That great crowd which stretched a city block in depth and width grew still.

This was an important moment. A demagogue was caught in his own web; his own words, taken from his own "Bible," had come back to damn him.

Calmly, Russell gave the date of the issue, June 24, 1933.

"It's from the Talmadge Bible," he said.

Reads From "Bible."

"I want the boys who have been saving these copies of the Talmadge Bible to look this up."

He leaned forward and the crowd leaned to hear him:

"'They are organizing camps, and in my home county they are getting boys who never worked before, and they guarantee them $30 per month and their food and clothing, with a provision to send some back to their families. It is easy to mobilize, but when you go to mobilize people who want to loaf and be bums—you can mobilize them all right, but when it comes to the point of demobilizing, there is a great question.'"

It was the deadly parallel which caught Talmadge in his own web of deceit.

And the storm broke. Surely the ghost of old Tom Watson heard it at Hickory Hill. Surely all Georgia heard it, the great shout that followed.

Holds Paper Aloft.

Russell stood there holding the paper aloft, with its damning indictment of a man who had challenged with "liar" and had the word thrown back in his teeth—by his own words.

This was the Russell the people of Georgia know and love—and follow with a great devotion—the great campaigner.

"Those boys were Georgia boys who did not work because they couldn't get jobs," Russell went on. "I'm glad that we were able to provide jobs for them. They were just as good as the Governor's boy. They were just as good as the Governor and you and I."

"Talmadge is a liar," chorused a score or more.

New York Speech.

The section read by Russell from the Statesman was a portion of a speech Talmadge made in New York on one of his frequent speaking trips to the north when he first got the bug to beat Rooseevlt.

Russell spoke from a platform in Johnson's grove, hardly a stone's throw from the Hickory Hill estate of the late great Tom Watson. He was in Watson's old stamping ground. His crowd stood sweltering among the hickories where two decades ago Watson and Hardwick staged an epoch-making debate. Russell wrote new history here today.

On the platform with him sat many delegates. One of them was Mrs. Julia Mary Watson Cliatt, a sister of the late Tom Watson, who supports Senator Russell. Her farm was saved by a government loan.

And today the great grove which had been waiting for the voice of democracy fighting the fight of the farmer and the average man heard it sounding to the far edges of the crowd which stretched more than a city block long on all sides of the platform.

Militant Crowd.

It was a militant crowd answering the challenge of the man who has been rooting in the garbage of republican slush funds and saying that he, Eugene Talmadge, a democratic governor of Georgia, will deliver the state to the forces of Alf Landon and the forces of the Liberty League and its membership of selfish rich.

Russell was forced to wave to quiet the crowd after his CCC revelation.

"There isn't a national guardsman here today," he said, continuing his merciless use of the deadly parallel. "And Talmadge said any man who said they were at Monroe was a liar."

"We know they were there," yelled the crowd.

Russell then read an affidavit from Chief of Police Dorsey at Monroe in which the chief said that a prominent Talmadge supporter had told him the 125 guardsmen were there in civilian clothes and were distributed in the crowd, and that it also was reported the soldiers were armed with pistols and blackjacks. The chief further stated no troops were necessary for any speaker coming to Monroe.

"I don't see my bodyguard anywhere," said Russell. The crowd roared.

What a Bodyguard!

"But it's here," he added. "I've got the Winder Girls' Drum and Trumpet corps here as my bodyguard and they are 30 of the prettiest girls you ever saw. I wouldn't swap them for all Gene's soldiers."

And the crowd cheered him again.

Russell referred to a newspaper poll in Atlanta and said: "I am a little suspicious of that. Any political observer knows my strength has grown in the past two weeks and I am just hoping there isn't any idea for that poll to show Gene out in front just before the election in an effort to influence that election. If they do that we will make that paper look like the biggest sucker in the world when the votes are in in September."

The senator was in rare form. He talked through almost continual shouts of encouragement and cheers.

He referred to the slush fund supporting Talmadge and said, "I can't pay you in money, but I will pay you in work. Gene is getting jittery. He's ducking and dodging and he's run clear off that McRae platform."

"Platform Fell Down."

"That platform fell down," yelled a farmer.

"No, it didn't, Dick blew it down," yelled another. Russell waved them quiet and went on.

"I want you to vote, but more than that I want you to see your votes are counted," he said, sounding a warning against "the republican slush fund behind Talmadge which will be used in a resperate effort to sell out the farmers and the other democrats of Georgia to the republican party."

"Standing here almost in the shadow of Hickory Hill, home of that great Georgian, Tom Watson, I want to say that if he were to come back here today and hear Gene Talmadge trying to protect the Raskobs and the du Pont wealth of New York at the expense of the Georgia farmer, he would write a piece about Gene which would send him running clear to the Pacific ocean."

Echoes in Hickory Hill.

And the crowd gave him a bellowing cheer that echoed all the way to Hickory Hill, dreaming there in the Georgia sun, waiting until today for another democrat to come to Thomson and speak out for the farmer and for taxation of the predatory wealth of the nation.

For the first time the senator referred to the great collection of farms bought by Talmadge during his tenure of office and about the time the republican haters of Franklin Roosevelt were sending down more than $41,000 to Georgia for Talmadge's now infamous grass roots convention in Georgia.

"Gene tries to make something of calling me Junior," he said.

"Well, I don't see anything wrong with a boy being named for his daddy. And I'm proud to be named for Dick Russell."

"I looked at Mrs. Russell, the young senator's mother. She was looking at him, a look of great pride and happiness on her face as her son stood there and honored her and his father.

Never Bought Farms.

"I will say this," continued Russell. "My father and I have held public office, my father for many years. And none of the Russells ever bought up a great collection of farms or built any $10,000 fish ponds on them as the Governor has done," and the crowd yelled in sheer delight.

"Burn his shirt off, Dick," they said. "Pour it into old Gene. We've done found him out." He referred to letters in his possession from the president of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association asking that members support Governor Talmadge and send funds to General Lindley Camp.

"You know," he said, "Gene referred to my votes on the bonus. And my friends in the American Legion have issued a paper which gives that the lie and shows from the Congressional Record itself that I voted for the bonus every time.

"And Gene referred to my war record. Well, I served. And I was in there like all you boys. And none of you had any say so where you went."

"Where Was Gene?"

"Well, I was under 21 then and Gene was about 32. Where was Gene, in the war? No, I'll tell you, Gene wanted to wait until he became governor of Georgia before he had his military experience. He could then use the bayonet to put out of office men elected by the people. Gene just wanted to wait until he got to be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of Georgia before he called out machine guns and bayonets. That's Gene's record."

The crowd laughed and cheered.

"I'll admit I didn't want to get killed," said Russell, but Gene is sorry I wasn't so I wouldn't be giving him so much trouble.

Waits for Sacrifice.

"I'll tell you. Gene didn't offer to be sacrificed on the altar of his country. He waited until now so he could be sacrificed on the altar of the republican party."

"Old Republican Gene, the old liar," yelled one, and other shouts of "traitor" filled the air.

Russell referred to Talmadge's platform given at McRae and showed how Talmadge who at first wanted to abolish the benefit payments the farmers had, at LaGrange on the day before yesterday, announced a new plank which promised more than Dick Russell had got for the farmers.

"Gene has had to duck and dodge and run from one plank to another so fast he has now run over on to my platform with me," said the senator and the crowd yelled in delight.

Social Security.

"I want to talk about social security legislation," he said.

"We want to hear about it," yelled hundreds of the crowd.

"Well, Gene was willing to let the people of this state vote on beer and wine legislation," he said, "but he wouldn't let the people vote on a measure which would take care of the old and helpless people of the state."

That remark told and there were angry growls from many.

"Be careful, my friends," he said, "of any man elected by the people who will not let the people vote on any measure which affects them."

"You're right," was the answer.

Russell explained how the social security legislation cared for the blind people, the parents with crippled children for whom they could not provide hospitals and also the old people who were in need.

30 States Have It.

"This security legislation is here to stay no matter what the present Governor wants to do," he said. "It isn't really an issue because more than 30 states already have it."

"And I say the old folks of Georgia are as good and as worthy as those of any other state. Gene Talmadge can fight them and deprive them of comforts if he wishes but I am going to fight and vote to have this legislation for Georgia."

Russell charged Talmadge with a "deliberate falsehood" in saying and repeating that farmers are not eligible to old age pensions. They are drawing pensions in other states. Russell added that the misrepresentation in this case is "typically Talmadge."

"We're with you," was the shout from the crowd.

Gene's Salary Uncut.

"They cut our salaries," he said, "and the president voluntarily turned back 15 per cent of his salary. And all the salaries in Georgia were cut—all but one. Gene cut everybody's salary but Gene's. He didn't touch that."

He answered the charge by Talmadge that Russell had voted for a measure which took patients out of veterans' hospitals by quoting a letter from the veterans' hospitals showing an increase in patients.

He again called attention to a statement by Charles Taft, son of the late republican president, who said that he, Taft, had refused an invitation to speak at the Lincoln Day celebration because they wanted someone to damn Franklin Roosevelt and all his works and he, Taft, wouldn't do it.

"So, when they couldn't get a republican to speak there, what did they do? They sent to Georgia and they got the governor of Georgia, elected by a democratic party in a rock-ribbed democratic state to come and say the bitter things not even the worst republican would say."

"We know that," yelled the crowd. "We won't forget it in September."

This action by Talmadge was taken at a time when he was swollen with dreams of becoming president of the United States and before he saw them collapse.

Tax Distortion Flayed.

Talmadge's willful distortion of the process tax record was denounced by the speaker.

He explained there was no connection, as charged by Talmadge, between the gin tax and the processing tax.

Talmadge's use of states having few mills, showing their receipts to have been larger in proportion than Georgia's, was denounced as a willful effort to deceive.

"The processing tax did nothing but tax the mills so the farmer would get back the four cents they were taxed and bring the price of his cotton up to 10 cents or more," said Russell.

"We know all that now," said a farmer. "We don't believe Gene any more."

He stressed the fact he had written the bill which gave the seed loan to the farmers of Georgia and reduced the interest rate on mortgages helds on farms in Georgia. He pledged himself to continue this work on behalf of the farmer.

Ridicules Talmadge.

He ridiculed Talmadge's claims he would abolish the income tax, and said Talmadge was now trying to drop that.

"Tax the wealthy who can afford to pay it," said Russell.

"And that's why Gene's against it. Those rich boy friends of his in Wall Street are back of that, but Gene's heard from the boys back home.

"He said I voted for a tax which took half a man made. Well, that's true, if a man makes a million dollars or more a year. But that doesn't touch any of you boys, does it?"

"No, no," they shouted.

"Well, I am in favor of a man who has more ability or more energy, reaping the harvest of that ability and that energy. But I am not in favor of letting great and exorbitant collections of wealth, collected largely from the people who work, be possessed by a few individuals and let them go untaxed."

"No sir," yelled the crowd.

"I say they should pay their share and if a fellow making a million a year is taxed for about half of it he still has more than $800 a day to spend. That isn't hurting them too bad, would you say?"

"No sir, no, no," came the answer.

"Well, Gene wants them to have it. They sent him $41,000 of it for his grass roots convention. So Gene is against the income tax."

Judge Speaks.

The tall pines and hickories that heard Tom Watson speak a decade ago shaded a great sea of people when Judge J. Quinn West, master of ceremonies, arose to speak:

"This platform and this meeting is held and paid for by the friends of Richard B. Russell and from no other source."

The crowd cheered.

Mayor W. A. Knox, mayor of Thomson, tall, handsome, stepped to the platform and welcomed the crowd. He then urged them to join with the democrats of his city and county in electing Richard B. Russell.

From Taliaferro county came J. A. Beasley. He said, simply and powerfully, "I know this state is going to end misrule in this state. It will not endure this man who has stifled government and who would destroy the party which honored him."

Columbia county sent Turner Clayton.

"Would Vote War."

"Eugene Talmadge," he said, "would vote for war to give the duPonts some profits out of munitions. Eugene Talmadge would make any alliance which would aid his selfish efforts to destroy his state and its democratic people."

And the crowd roared.

From Glascock county came Joe Leseur.

"I am a small businessman," he said. "I own a small gin. And I can tell you people who plow in that dirt out there that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Richard B. Russell have done more for you than any other men who have been in Washington."

And the crowd roared again.

Dr. A. W. Davis brought the message from Warren county, urging the people to support the greatest young senator in the senate of the United States.

Farmer's Magna Carta.

From Lincoln county came A. L. Zellers.

"I am a plain, small farmer," he said. He began quietly, timid before the crowd. But he gained confidence. "This government in Washington," he said, "is our refuge and our salvation."

He paused and went on, his voice growing louder.

"This New Deal," he said, "is the Declaration of Independence for the farmer. It is our Magna Carta of equal rights and equal justice."

The crowd cheered wildly.

"I once heard Thomas Watson say," he said, "that if the government did not come to the aid of the farmer every house would rot to ruin and every kitchen utensil would rust."

"I say it was a gross insult to the farmers of this state that Gene Talmadge offered when he attacked the government and his own party."

He sat down, pleased at the storm of applause that followed him.

Richmond county sent H. W. Sewell, a farmer, to raise the standards for Russell and he did it well.

DuPont Power Product.

Hancock county sent Marvin G. Towns.

"I am not," he said "supporting any du Pont power product who would sell us out to his enemies for his own gain and for the republican party."

The Honorable Clem E. Sutton, of Wilkes county, introduced Richard B. Russell, saying:

"Fellow democrats," applause interrupted him, "we have had three great eras," he said. "We know what greedy wealth can do," he said. "And we know what to do with the men who sell out for 30 pieces of silver. But we are not used to the traitor in our ranks. We will send Dick Russell back to Washington." And the answering roar came.

"I appreciate this great crowd, this magnificent crowd," Russell said. "And I appreciate the fact you are all here of your own free will, in your own cars and that not a one of you is a state employe here because you are afraid you'd lose your job.

"And just now," he said, "I see some one who has come to the platform and I want to introduce the sweetest woman I ever knew, and that's my mother."

Mrs. Russell, the speaker's mother, stood and the crowd shouted its approval.

Praises Watson.

"I am glad to be here to speak to this crowd, in this home of the Sage of Hickory Hill and McDuffie, that great Georgian, Tom Watson," Russell continued.

"He stood always for the working man. He stood for income tax on the rich so that the great wealth might be broken up and redistributed back to the farmer. When he asked for R. F. D. mail service so the farmer could keep in contact with the world they said he was a socialist. They hadn't invented the word communist then. So they called him a socialist because he was asking for something for the common man."

"That's right," yelled many in the crowd, older men who had known Tom Watson.

"The forces of reaction," he said, "have always fought any benefits for the common man.

"They did it when the idea to tax people for public schools was advanced, they said it was socialistic."

"And when Thomas Jefferson, without any authorization, took money to make the Louisiana purchase they said it was against the constitution."

Bought Goods.

"And that thing they call the Liberty League is misnamed. Under the sacred name of liberty they are seeking, with a huge slush fund to break down the party of the people. They are sending it here to a man who seeks to deceive you and sell this state and the party that has honored him to the republican party."

From there Russell went on to develop his exposure, by use of Talmadge's own words, of the Governor's claims he had not called the CCC camp boys bums and loafers. And Russell suggested the parents of Georgia boys who sent their boys to those camps, for which he had voted, had sons who were just as good as the Governor's son or anyone else's sons.

The crowd would have filled Grant field or overflowed the Atlanta baseball stands. Sheriff Britt Brown estimated it at 25,000. And it perhaps reached that total. It was an actual crowd of that number as against the 4,000 Talmadge had at Monroe estimated by one of his state appointees as about 16 or 20 thousand.

Unbroken Line.

Literally thousands of cars came here today and it was no exaggeration to say that from 8 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock the road from Winder to Thomson saw almost an unbroken parade of cars. Barrow county sent over a thousand cars and from points south, east, north and west of Thomson they came in smaller motorcades.

It was a Georgia crowd, of Georgia men and women and many young men and women.

And it was noticeable that from many cars and trucks the American flag was rippling in the breeze.

And the stand for the speaker, the barbecue served them cafeteria style by nearly 200 waiters, plus the radio time, was all paid for by friends and democrats in this section. And from no other source.

Hickory Hill, waiting for another Georgian to carry on the fight for humanity and the best interests of a farming state, had its answer today from the lips of Dick Russell.

'Talmadge Tactics' Amuse Russell Crowd

ferro county, called attention to the crowd:

"This is the largest crowd ever met to hear a speech except that one that heard President Franklin D. Roosevelt in Atlanta," he said. "If it were a Talmadge estimate it would be 150,000." The crowd roared in approval.

The barbecue pit was a show. Barbecue was prepared for 12,000 and it was not enough. The crowd reached 20,000 on an honest estimate. The pits, each eight feet long, were covered with Georgia pork simmering in sauce. This sight was visited by thousands before the speaking.

The city of Thomson was literally jammed. It was so filled with people it overflowed. Cars were parked for a mile or more out each road entering the city. It was the most spectacular day in Georgia's modern political history.

In addition to the nine counties sponsoring this rally, there were many others represented. One truck from Bulloch county had a sign on one side which read: "Bulloch County Votes Democratic," and on the other side was a sign reading: "Bulloch County Is Not for Talmadge or Landon."

HARTSFIELD PLEDGES STURDIVANT REMOVAL

Mayoralty Candidate Also Would Oust Poole If Elected.

William B. Hartsfield, mayoralty candidate, last night promised the ouster of Police Chiefs T. O. Sturdivant and A. Lamar Poole, if city council will back him after he is elected mayor in the September 2 municipal primary.

Assailing the Key administration, Hartsfield told an audience at Adair park that Key "failed to deal with the real issue of this campaign—law enforcement" when the mayor opened his campaign for renomination Thursday night. He sharply criticised Sturdivant and later, in another address, told voters he believed both Sturdivant and Poole should go for the good of the department and in the interest of law enforcement, and promised to fire both chiefs in the event of his election "if council has the courage to back me."

The Hartsfield attack came as James L. Wells, the third candidate for the nomination, took the stump at a meeting at the Bass Junior High school, held in the interest of the nomination of Paul S. Etheridge for judge of Fulton county superior court, that Atlanta needs a businessman for mayor.

"Need Businessman."

"This city needs a businessman in that office, and I am the only businessman in this race," Wells said. "I am making a bread and butter race for this job—that means that if I am elected it will mean money for taxpayers. They will then have funds with which to purchase bread and butter.

"And when I'm elected mayor, I'm not going around ridiculing the educational system of this town as the mayor has done repeatedly.

"The Atlanta police department is the most inefficient of any town I known of. There is practically no protection to citizens from the lawless element, and policemen themselves break the law and get drunk. We can't enforce the law with drunken police, and if I am elected I promise proper, ample and sober police protection."

Attack on Sturdivant.

Hartsfield's vitriolic attack on Sturdivant came as he related how he was refused access to police records when "I attempted to check up on a report that Mayor Key is remitting fines and pardoning those convicted of law infractions to the tune of $60,000 a year."

"I made a mistake when I sent an auditor down there for those records," he said. "I should have sent Ralph Owens, Atlanta's public enemy No. 1. He could have gotten them. He could have taken the records up to my office, and if they had been too heavy, Chief Sturdivant would have helped him bring them.

"I say that because Chief Sturdivant not only turned police records over for Owens' scrutiny, but Owens went to the lieutenant's office with his arm linked with Sturdivant's to see about his confiscated liquor cars.

"Chief Sturdivant told me over the telephone today, after refusing to allow the auditor to check the records, that they would not be available. Those records belong to the people of Atlanta. He cussed me out, and finally ended by saying that if I were elected mayor, he did not want to be chief under me.

"I told him not to worry. If I am elected mayor, he will not serve as chief. The mayor didn't answer the criticisms of the police administration. He can't defend it. The charges I have made are unanswerable."

Key Again Scored.

Hartsfield then criticized Key for what he said was the purchase of a school tract in the vicinity of the John A. White park for more than $2,000 an acre, and the purchase of a strip adjacent to the controversial tract for about $600 an acre, and "then refusing to pay more than $300 an acre for White park."

Candidates will speak at a meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon at a watermelon-cutting sponsored by the Cascade-Beecher Development Association at the Connally school grounds, and aldermanic and those candidates for the legislature in the Bond Almand bracket will address members of the State, County and Municipal Employes' Union No. 1,069 at 7:30 o'clock at the labor temple. Fred K. Stevens is president of the local.

Wells' Address.

"Elect me your mayor and I will give you an economically run government as only a businessman can," Wells declared. "I don't believe in making rash promises as you, my friends, are well aware. I believe in doing something other than sit in a chair and criticize bodies over which I have no control and permit the city to go further in debt. There must be a change immediately.

"We have the worst city administration of any city in the whole country and it is recognized as such. Atlanta should have the best. I am fully convinced that the good people of Atlanta, you voters, see the need of a good administration, and after looking over my platform and record will go to the polls September 2 and cast your vote for the best man. I think I am that man."

Among others who were on the stump last night were aspirants for aldermanic posts; for council and the board of education from the new fourth and sixth wards; Senator G. Everett Millican, of the 35th Georgia (Fulton county) district, and for legislative posts.

AMERICANS IN MADRID GET 'FINAL' WARNING

U. S. Charge d' Affairs Tells Citizens They Remain 'On Own Hook."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The United States government today warned all Americans still in Madrid that unless they left immediately they remained at their own responsibility.

Eric C. Wendelin, third secretary in charge of the Madrid embassy, disclosed he had warned all Americans this might be their last chance to leave the Spanish capital, and that the embassy might—if conditions warranted—be closed.

Wendelin said 186 Americans were still in Madrid, of whom 65 were in the embassy, and that he expected a considerable number to leave by train tomorrow night for Alicante where they would be picked up by the cruiser Quincy.

State Department officials explained Mr. Wendelin, like other foreign service officers acting in an emergency, has discretionary power.

The "final" warning followed earlier efforts to rescue J. O. Ambler, San Antonio (Texas) mining engineer, reported held as hostage at Huelva by loyalist forces.

Ambler and 38 members of the staff of the Rio Tinto Mining Corporation, it was reported, had been refused permission to leave the mines to take refuge on a British destroyer.

Williams Phillips, acting secretary of state, cabled Charles R. Bay, American consul at Seville, as follows:

"You are instructed immediately to get in touch with the British consul at Seville and to associate yourself in a most emphatic manner with representations looking to the safety and rescue of Mr. Ambler. Telegraph full report on this matter."

RIVERS IS SELECTED AS STRONGEST OF THREE

was the strongest candidate on which administration forces should unite.

The names of those to whom the letter was sent appear elsewhere on this page, among them being included the names of Candidates Rivers and Fortson and of the two Georgia senators, all delegates.

Those to whom Mr. Howell addressed his letters were informed that their names would not be published to their replies, but many in responding said that their names could be used.

The sentiments of many were expressed in the following telegram from Claude Rountree, of Thomasville, received yesterday by Mr. Howell:

"Noticing by press reports one of the three candidates questions the unsigned statement requested by you in determining the outstanding candidate of the three styling themselves as friends of President Rooseevlt. My answer was not signed and perhaps, like many others answering said inquiry, did not reflect my personal feeling but it did reflect the real sentiment of the masses within my county as well as every adjoining county. The answer was Rivers and if name is requested you have my permission to use same.

"CLAUDE ROUNTREE."

From Mayor Fort, of Americus.

The following telegram was received by Mr. Howell yesterday from Hon. James A. Fort, mayor of Americus, and recently elected president of the Georgia Municipal Association:

"If you will pardon an uninvited expression of opinion on the governor's race I will say Rivers or defeat."

"JAMES A. FORT."

Marked significance in the effort of Mr. Howell to obtain an expression of sentiment from the democrats named by President Roosevelt is seen in editorials published yesterday in the Augusta Chronicle and the Brunswick News.

The editors of these two papers, Thomas J. Hamilton and Clarence Leavy, were delegates to the national convention.

Mr. Hamilton, in his editorial published yesterday mornnig, 12 hours before Mr. Howell announced the result of his inevstigation, wrote under the heading "Not To Be Ignored."

NOT TO BE IGNORED.

Judge Blanton Fortson, a distinguished jurist of Athens and candidate for governor, has charged Honorable Clark Howell, democratic national committeeman from Georgia and editor of The Atlanta Constitution, with "seeking to corral the delegates to the Philadelphia national convention behind the candidacy of Ed Rivers for governor." Mr. Howell, democratic war horse and for nearly 40 years a member of the democratic national committee, denies this and expresses the highest admiration for Judge Fortson. Mr. Rivers and Judge Larsen, all gubernatorial candidates, and concludes by saying that any one of the three would make an excellent governor.

We know that Mr. Howell has an especially high personal regard for Judge Fortson, and while we do not know this, we have an idea that due to long personal friendship that has existed between the two men that perhaps Judge Fortson would be the personal choice of Mr. Howell for the governorship.

However, Mr. Howell, with the best interests of the party and the state in mind and seeking to bring about a coalition of the forces opposing Governor Talmadge and that are in favor of the President, is seeking to ascertain which is the strongest candidate, which of the three men now running has the best chance to defeat Mr. Redwine. Mr. Howell knows the dangers ahead if there is a badly divided vote for governor. It would be possible, in a county with 1,000 votes, for Mr. Redwine to poll only 300 votes and yet carry the county. Under the county unit system popular vote does not control, but the county unit vote.

There is a real menace in the possibility of Redwine winning through division of the anti-Talmadge forces and that would mean the control of the next democratic state convention and state executive committee. That would be a real danger and Mr. Howell is seeking to combine on the strongest anti-Talmadge man, whether he is Mr. Rivers, Judge Fortson or Judge Larsen. In view of Mr. Howell's high stand in the democratic party, in view of his great leadership in Georgia, his suggestion should not be ignored. We are convinced that he acted with the finest and purest motives of loyalty to the party and to the state.

JUDGE FORTSON LOSES HIS TEMPER.

We very cordially commend the action of Honorable Clark Howell, national committeeman from Georgia and editor of The Atlanta Constitution, in the effort he is making to ascertain who is the leading Roosevelt candidate for governor in the present campaign.

It has always been a source of deep regret to genuine democrats who are supporters of President Roosevelt and his administration, that the remarkable whirligig of Georgia politics succeeded in placing three anti-Talmadge candidates in the race for governor of Georgia at this particular time. This regret is profoundly accentuated by the fact that Talmadgeism is represented in the campaign by only one candidate. It doesn't take any great amount of political ability to figure out the fact that this situation is a great comfort and a great aid to Talmadgeism, while it is obviously a disadvantage to real democracy and to the three gentlemen who are representing President Roosevelt in the campaign.

Since the Fourth of July, when Talmadge placed his hand-picked candidate in the race and bedecked him in a pair of red suspenders with a "me too" attitude on all political issues now confronting the people of Georgia, we have been trying to determine which of these democratic candidates has the best chance to defeat the Talmadgeite. As an editor of a democratic newspaper, absolutely devoted to the present democratic administration in the nation and with a profound respect and love for our great democratic president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, we are quite persuaded that Hon. Clark Howell, national committeeman and also editor of a democratic newspaper, is not only within his province, but is absolutely rendering a public service to the democratic party when he sent out questionnaires to the members of the Georgia delegation to the Philadelphia convention asking for an opinion from those distinguished Georgians, who come from every section of the state, as to who is the strongest candidate as between Rivers, Fortson and Larsen.

We have no way of knowing the result of this poll of these Georgia democrats who were personally named by President Roosevelt to represent him at Philadelphia, but we do know Clark Howell—and it is our confirmed opinion that he and his great democratic newspaper—The Atlanta Constitution—will support the candidacy of that candidate who receives the majority of the votes of the Georgia delegation to Philadelphia!

For this and for obvious reasons we regret that Judge Blanton Fortson, one of the other democratic candidates, has seen fit to criticize the action of Clark Howell to which we have referred. In a statement issued in Athens yesterday, among other tart suggestions, Judge Fortson says:

"This is nothing but a part of the same play which has been going on for weeks, beclouding the issue and attempting to stampede the voters of Georgia to decide in favor of somebody they do not want in order to select somebody whom apparently the genial editor of The Constitution has for a long time wanted very much."

We have the profoundest respect for Judge Fortson and we have come to regard him as a very substantial Georgian, upstanding and well qualified for any post to which he may aspire. However, we are a little disappointed in this attitude on his part. Judge Fortson must realize that his position before the democracy of Georgia today is a subject of criticism. It must be recalled that when Judge Fortson entered this race for governor there were already two Roosevelt candidates in the field and one Talmadge candidate; in the nature of things, he must have realized that his candidacy would divide the solid democratic vote of the state and make a victory for Talmadge an easy thing to accomplish.

It has been stated in the public prints that the fine Italian hand of Governor Talmadge played a part in the Macon convention which nominated Judge Fortson. We do not know if this is true, but we do know that if Talmadge had planned for a program to aid the candidacy of his man Friday (Redwine), he could not have hit upon a better one than was afforded by that Macon convention. These are facts which the people of Georgia must bear in mind and these are the reasons why Clark Howell, as national committeeman and as a democratic editor, is seeking to find out the true situation in a matter of deep concern to all Georgians and in a matter badly clouded, in the making of which Judge Fortson played a stellar role!

We say we are sorry that Judge Fortson seems to have lost his temper and his equilibrium, for certainly he would not have used this expression unless that had been the case:

"Mr. Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution and democratic national committeeman, is seeking to corral the delegates to the Philadelphia national convention behind the candidacy of Ed Rivers for governor."

In the meantime, we shall watch the result of this Georgia delegation to Philadelphia poll with keen interest, and unless we are bad at the game of guessing, we predict that it will confirm an opinion reached by us several weeks ago, and that is that the Hon. E. D. Rivers, speaker of the house, distinguished Georgia democrat and supporter of the democratic president of the United States, is leading in this contest for the governorship of Georgia.

BOTH FACTIONS CLAIM VICTORIES IN FIGHTING

peasant and labor volunteers aiding the socialist regime in bloody endeavor to crush a fascist drive for military dictatorship and a huge Spanish army.

Loyalist troops advanced three miles on the Somo-Sierra front in the Guadarrama mountains, with capture of the village of Paredes.

From Washington came reports the state department was attempting to effect rescue of an American reported among 38 members of the staff of a British mining company held as hostages by loyalists in the Huelva mines near that city.

In line with new tactics, loyal forces abandoned intensive drives in the mountain passes outside Madrid and concentrated attack against insurgents in the northern Bay of Biscay region and in the southwest near the Portuguese border.

A Lisbon correspondent reported 1,000 government militiamen died in a mass execution by rebels at Almendralego and that the loyalist city of Badajoz was in flames.

Reds Threaten Reprisals.

San Sebastian and Irun held fascist hostages, threatening death if a rebel cruiser in the Bay of Biscay fired on the two cities, already subjected to aerial bombardment.

Capture of Pozo Blanco near Cordoba in the south and 200 rebel prisoners was reported here. Anti-aircraft brought down a plane attempting to drop food to isolated rebel strongholds near Andalusia.

The strong northern headquarters of rebels at Zaragoza were shelled by loyalist artillery moving westward from Barcelona.

Continuing detention of those suspected of fascist sympathies, the socialist government arrested General Garcia Antunez, former minister of the interior, and a number of others.

It was learned here a cablegram signed by 25 residents of the British colony had been sent to the foreign office in London "indignantly repudiating" hysterical stories published in the British press by refugees.

The government said loyalist warships were maintaining renewed vigilance on the African coast to prevent shipment of rebel troops from Spanish Morocco.

Both Sides Take Towns.

A communique asserted loyalists intercepted a telegram from Jose Gil Robles, rightist leader and former premier, to Rebel General Emilio Mola "offering funds for continuation of resistance and endeavoring by words of praise to animate rebel forces."

The Madrid militia insisted it had found proof of complicity of two members of the war ministry general staff in the rebellion and that both were friends of Mola. One now is held in jail, the other escaped.

Socialist Leader Luis Araquistian said that before the Baleratic Isle of Ibiza fell to loyalists, rebel troops seized several German refugee socialists and sent them back to nazi Germany.

Rebels captured Merida near Badajoz, loyalists admitted, but they contended this was counteracted by government victories at Navalmoral de la Mata in Caceres province. Many rebels were reported killed in battle there.

Still seeking to effect neutrality pledges in Europe, the French government was understood to have given Madrid the "friendly" suggestion that German demands for satisfaction in the reported execution of nationals be satisfied. Germany has not yet replied to the neutrality invitation advanced by France.

More than 170 Americans apparently had decided today to stay in Spain's capital city and weather the revolution.

Out of 188 United States citizens known to be in the city, only 15—all of them women—had decided to heed a warning by the American embassy and leave for the seacoast to be embarked on a ship which would take them out of range of gun and shellfire.

The 65 Americans still in the embassy, where they took refuge with dozens of others soon after the fascist rebels started their military campaign to take over the socialist government, were served notice that the embassy no longer felt called upon to give them asylum.

The embassy itself will remain open.

CATALAN GOVERNMENT BACKS MADRID REGIME

BARCELONA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Catalan government asserted tonight its leftist forces, supporting the Madrid regime, had successfully blocked a counter-attack by rebel troops defending Huesca, in northeastern Spain.

During a long battle, Catalan officials declared, a squadron of loyalist planes brought down two rebel aircraft, which crashed in flames. The insurgents made no gains, the officials stated.

A number of smaller engagements were reported near Tradienta, in the same region.

SPANISH LINER UNABLE TO MAKE PORT

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Spanish liner Cristobal Colon, loaded with 344 passengers but having no place to go, swung at anchor tonight in Saint Nazaire harbor while the puzzled captain awaited a radio message from Madrid.

Captain Edouard Sanos said the passengers and the crew had grown weary of the month's odyssey during which the ship crossed the Atlantic on its regular run from Vera Cruz, Mexico, and then wandered from port to port while the revolution raged in Spain.

DIPLOMATS PLAN TO QUIT MADRID

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Red mobs control Madrid and the Spanish foreign office admitted it could not guarantee safety of foreign representatives who were preparing to quit the capital, it was said tonight by highly reliable diplomatic quarters.

One of the diplomats still in Madrid cabled his foreign office, it was stated, and advised that a final meeting would be held tomorrow morning to dissolve the diplomatic corps and make plans to quit the country.

A landing party of British sailors may be ordered to evacuate 37 British and one American citizen from the riot into mines near Huelva, it was stated authoritatively tonight.

An armed rescue expedition to free the foreigners imprisoned in the face of a rebel advance would be "a matter for the discretion of the warship commander" of the H. M. S. Brazen, it was asserted.

CITY OF BADAJOZ CAPTURED BY REBELS

TANGIER, International Zone, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A report received here late tonight said Spanish rebels had captured and occupied the city of Badajoz, near the Portuguese border, which loyalist forces had held.

PORTUGAL ACCEPTS NEUTRALITY PLAN

PARIS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Portugal tonight accepted the French proposal for neutrality in the Spanish civil war.

Acceptance by Spain's western neighbor, regarded as one of the main conditions to final adherence by other powers, raised hopes that a general European accord on non-intervention might be reached.

Portugal had accepted the principle of neutrality on August 8 but attached many reservations to full agreement then.

France urged Madrid today quickly to meet German demands for satisfaction for the alleged slaying of German nationals and seizure of reich airplanes.

"We let the Spanish government understand France is anxious to have Madrid make peace with Berlin in order to hasten completion of the international neutrality agreement," Quay d'Orsay officials said.

The announcement confirmed earlier reports the French government had interceded in the interest of peace and was bringing no further pressure on Berlin to answer its invitation to join a general European non-intervention agreement.

ACCUSED OF NEGLIGENCE.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 14.—(Palcor Agency)—The Palestine government was accused today of negligent protection of Jews from Arab violence. The censure was voiced in funeral orations for Rabbi Alter Unger and two of his children. They were killed last night at Safed when a bomb hurled by an Arab exploded in their home. A third child died today.

New Bus Service

MAJOR PARTIES START BID FOR EASTERN VOTE

G. O. P., Democrats Both Confident of Pennsylvania Electoral Votes.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—With President Roosevelt swinging through Pennsylvania, once republican stronghold, this week and Governor Alf Mossman Landon, of Kansas, G. O. P. standard-bearer, scheduled to visit his birthplace, West Middlesex on the western border of the keystone state, a week from Saturday, this industrial commonwealth is beginning to attach principal interest in the eastern political theater of war between the two major parties.

Considered an extremely doubtful state by most political observers here but classified as "already in bag" by died in the wool Landonites and labelled "surely democratic" by such Rooseveltian admirers as Democratic National Chairman Farley, John L. Lewis, chairman of labor's non-partisan league, and Senator "Joe" Guffey, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes are now being sought by leaders on both sides of the presidential battle to be decided November 3.

Chairman Lewis, who told a group of his non-partisan leaguers here last Monday that Governor Landon, "this little man out in Topeka, Kan., has no more conception nor idea of what ails America or what to do about it than a goat herder in the hills of Bulgaria," uses no "ifs" or "buts" in his declaration that Pennsylvania will go democratic this fall."

Rely on Lewis.

And it is on Lewis that the democrats are strongly relying in their effort to take down the keystone state. In 1932 when Lewis was supporting President Hoover for re-election Pennsylvania went republican by a narrow margin. Democrats now think Lewis' shift will be just what is needed to give them the state.

Another thing, followers of President Roosevelt point to the registration figures in Pennsylvania. In Pittsburgh, for example, democrats have gained steadily since April 1. The August totals showed 135,385 democrats registered as against 127,153 republicans, a democratic lead for the first time in modern history. In Pittsburgh alone democratic registration is now six and a half times what it was in 1932.

Strong gains also have been made by democrats elsewhere in the state, Philadelphia's mayor, S. Davis Wilson, a republican, is suspected of strong pro-Roosevelt leanings.

Sour Notes Prevalent.

Because Governor Landon is opening his eastern campaign in the state, the tiny village of West Middlesex will be pushed forward in a big way on the map next week. West Middlesex is proud of the honor that has come to her native son, but there are sour notes here and there as plans for the big rally proceed.

Mayor Tinker, of West Middlesex, a republican elected despite a recent democratic landslide there, is one of the sour notes. Mayor Tinker is not for Governor Landon.

The mayor, a tall, gaunt man, who is a physician when not dallying with politics, says he thinks Roosevelt is the best man of the two.

"I am a republican all right with reservations," Mayor Tinker declared recently. "I never let sentiment play any part. I pick the best man available, weigh all their qualifications and then make my choice regardless of the party—and I think the republicans made a mighty poor choice this year.

Landon Weak Candidate.

"Alf Landon is a weak candidate, a virtual unknown, an executive who hasn't shown any sympathy or understanding toward labor. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is a strong candidate, almost unbeatable. He's a frank man, one who has made mistakes—and who hasn't, and he'll admit them freely. He has the backing of labor. Twenty-five years ago there were not 10 democrats in this town. In the last election there were 300 republican votes and 297 democratic votes. This year, well—"

Frank Blair, who looks so much like Landon that villagers say he is a perfect double, chuckles. Blair is a former banker and former republican.

"Some people think there are no democrats in this town," Blair said. "You would surmise that every blasted soul in West Middlesex is just waiting with his tongue out for Landon. Well, tain't so. I'll bet you Roosevelt carries this town. Just wait and see. I'll vote for Roosevelt this fall myself."

As another indication of how the political winds are blowing in Pennsylvania, P. T. Fagen, of Pittsburgh, state committee chairman of Lewis' non-Partisan League, has an organization with a chairman in every county, a sub-chairman in every precinct and a committee of five men and five women in every local union pledged to get out the Roosevelt vote.

1,000 Delegates Expected.

More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the big state convention of the league at Harrisburg August 22 and 23, when final plans will be made. Fagen further reports that the state is on fire for Roosevelt and that labor expects to deliver the election to him with a majority of at least 200,000 and possibly 500,000.

So, in numerous Pennsylvania villages, now almost evenly divided in political strength, G. O. P. predictions that the state will swing one way or the other.

One important switch is that of former Governor Gifford Pinchot. He was for Roosevelt in 1932. Now he is back on the G. O. P. reservation. Democrats insist the former governor is no longer politically potent, but they don't argue that very convincingly. At any rate, Pinchot succeeded in getting himself elected governor twice and beat the old republican organization doing it.

Force, Discription Of F. D. R. Lauded

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Newspaper correspondents who have covered every speech President Roosevelt has made in recent years said tonight that the paragraph in which he described war in his address here was the most forceful literary style and the most powerful description that the chief executive ever accomplished.

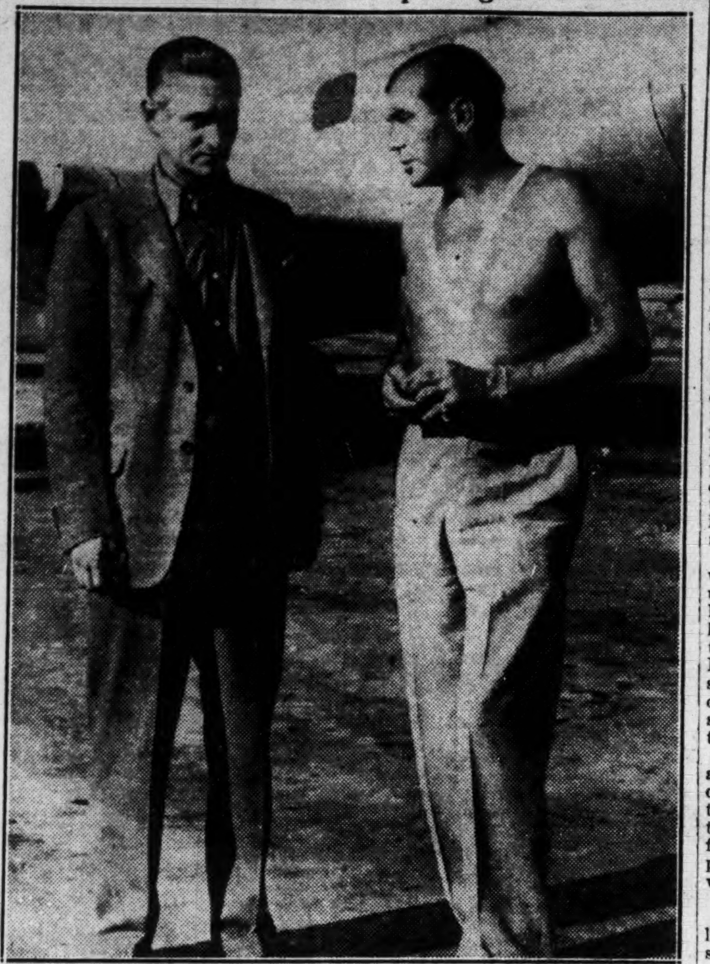
The paragraph follows:

"I have seen war. I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from the wounded. I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. I have seen cities destroyed. I have seen 200 limping exhausted men come out of line—the survivors of a regiment of 1,000 that went forward 48 hours before. I have seen children starving. I have seen the agony of mothers and wives. I hate war."

MEDICAL AUTHORITY DIES.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Dr. Richard Olding Beard, professor emeritus of physiology of the University of Minnesota and well-known medical authority, died today at his home. He was born in England in 1856 and was a graduate of Northwestern University.

Merrill Plans Round-Trip Flight to London



Dick Merrill, left, former Atlanta mail and passenger plane pilot and one of the first to fly regularly on the night trip between Atlanta and New York, is planning with Harry Richman, night club singer and sportsman-pilot, to take a big Vultee plane on a round-trip flight to London. A test flight will be made first over the Mojave desert. Merrill said the ship is equipped with "gadgets enough so the weather won't matter." Associated Press photo.

Text of Roosevelt Address

As many of you who are here tonight know, I formed the excellent habit of coming to Chautauqua more than 20 years ago. After my inauguration in 1933, I promised Mr. Bestor that during the next four years I would come to Chautauqua again; it is in fulfillment of this that I am with you tonight.

A few days ago I was asked what the subject of this talk would be, and I replied that for two good reasons I wanted to discuss the subject of peace; first, because it is eminently appropriate in Chautauqua and, secondly, because in the hurly-burly of domestic politics it is important that our people should not overlook problems and issues which, though they lie beyond our borders, may, and probably will, have a vital influence on the United States of the future.

Many who have visited me in Washington in the past few months may have been surprised when I have told them that personally and because of my own daily contacts with all manner of difficult situations I am more concerned and less cheerful about international world conditions than about our immediate domestic prospects.

STILL HOPE ENVY, MALICE, HATRED WILL PASS.

I say this to you not as a confirmed pessimist but as one who still hopes that envy, hatred and malice among nations have reached their peak and will be succeeded by a new tide of peace and good will—I say this as one who has participated in many of the decisions of peace and war before, during and after the World War; one who has traveled much and one who has spent a goodly portion of every 24 hours in the study of foreign relations.

Long before I returned to Washington as president of the United States, I had made up my mind that pending what might be called a more opportune moment on other continents, the United States could best serve the cause of a peaceful humanity by setting an example. That was why on the 4th of March, 1933, I made the following declaration:

"In the field of world policy I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor—the neighbor who resolutely respects himself and because he does so, respects the rights of others—the neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors."

This declaration represents my purpose; but it represents more than a purpose, for it stands for a practice. To a measurable degree it has succeeded; the whole world now knows that the United States cherished no predatory ambitions. We are strong; but less powerful nations know that they need not fear our strength. We seek no conquest; we stand for peace.

CANADIAN BOUNDARY MONUMENT TO PEACE.

In the whole of the western hemisphere our good neighbor policy has produced results that are especially heartening.

The noblest monument to peace and to neighborly economic and social friendship in all the world is not a monument in bronze or stone, but the boundary which unites the United States and Canada—3,000 miles of friendship with no barbed wire, no gun or soldier, and no passport on the whole frontier.

Mutual trust made that frontier—to extend the same sort of mutual trust throughout the Americas was our aim.

The American republics to the south of us have been ready always to co-operate with the United States on a basis of equality and mutual respect, but before we inaugurated the good neighbor policy there was among them resentment and fear, because certain administrations in Washington had slighted their national pride and their sovereign rights.

In pursuance of the good neighbor policy, and because in my younger days I had learned many lessons in the hard school of experience, I stated that the United States was opposed definitely to armed intervention.

HOPES TO ARBITRATE ALL BORDER DISPUTES

We have negotiated a Pan-American convention embodying the principle of non-intervention. We have abandoned the Platt amendment which gave us the right to intervene in the internal affairs of the republic of Cuba. We have withdrawn American marines from Haiti. We have signed a new treaty which places our relations with Panama on a mutually satisfactory basis. We have undertaken a series of trade agreements with other American countries to our mutual commercial profit. At the request of two neighboring republics, I hope to give assistance in the final settlement of the last serious boundary dispute between any of the American nations.

Throughout the Americas the spirit of the good neighbor is a practical and living fact. The 21 American republics are not only living together in friendship and in peace; they are united in the determination so to remain.

To give substance to this determination a conference will meet on December 1, 1936, at the capitol of our great southern neighbor, Argentina, and it is, I know, the hope of all chiefs of state of the Americas that this will result in measures which will banish wars forever from this vast portion of the earth.

Peace, like charity, begins at home; that is why we have begun at home. But peace in the western world is not all that we seek.

It is our hope that knowledge of the practical applicatoin of the good neighbor policy in this hemisphere will be borne home to our neighbors across the seas.

For ourselves we are on good terms with them—terms in most cases of straightforward friendship, of peaceful understanding.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE BITTER EXPERIENCE

But, of necessity, we are deeply concerned about tendencies of recent years among many of the nations of other continents. It is a bitter experience to us when the spirit of agreements to which we are a party is not lived up to. It is an even more bitter experience for the whole company of nations to witness not only the spirit but the letter of international agreements violated with impunity and without regard to the simple principles of honor. Permanent friendships between nations as between men can be sustained only by scrupulous respect for the pledged word.

In spite of all this we have sought steadfastly to assist international movements to prevent war. We co-operated to the bitter end—and it was a bitter end—in the work of the general disarmament conference. When it failed we sought a separate treaty to deal with the manufacture of arms and the international traffic in arms. That proposal also came to nothing. We participated—again to the bitter end—in a conference to continue naval limitations, and when it became evident that no general treaty could be signed because of the objections of other nations, we concluded with Great Britain and France a conditional treaty of qualitative limitation which, much to my regret, already shows signs of ineffectiveness.

We shun political commitments which might enangle us in foreign wars; we avoid connection with the political activities of the League of Nations; but I am glad to say that we have co-operated wholeheartedly in the social and humanitarian work at Geneva. Thus we are a part of the world effort to control traffic in narcotics, to improve international health, to help child welfare, to eliminate double taxation and to better working conditions and laboring hours throughout the world.

"I HAVE SEEN WAR AND ALL ITS HORRORS.

We are not isolationists except in so far as we seek to isolate ourselves completely from war. Yet we must remember that so long as war exists on earth there will be some danger that even the nation which most ardently desires peace may be drawn into war.

I have seen war. I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from the wounded. I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. I have seen cities destroyed. I have seen two hundred limping, exhausted men come out of line—the survivors of a regiment of one thousand that went forward forty-eight hours before. I have seen children starving. I have seen the agony of mothers and wives. I hate war.

I have passed unnumbered hours, I shall pass unnumbered hours thinking and planning how war may be kept from this nation.

I wish I could keep war from all nations; but that is beyond my power. I can at least make certain that no act of the United States helps to produce or to promote war. I can at least make clear that the conscience of America revolts against war and that any nation which provokes war forfeits the sympathy of the people of the United States.

CAUSES OF WAR ARE INFINITE AND VARIED.

Many causes produce war. There are ancient hatreds, turbulent frontiers, the "legacy of old forgotten, far off things, and battles long ago." There are new-born fanaticisms, convictions on the part of certain peoples that they have become the unique depositories of ultimate truth and right.

A dark old world was devastated by wars between conflicting religions. A dark modern world faces wars between conflicting economic and political fanaticisms in which are inter-twined race hatreds. To bring it home, it is as if within the territorial limits of the United States, forty-eight nations with forty-eight forms of government, forty-eight customs barriers, forty-eight languages and forty-eight eternal and different verities, were spending their time and their substance in a frenzy of effort to make themselves strong enough to conquer their neighbors or strong enough to defend themselves against their neighbors.

In one field, that of economic barriers, the American policy may be, I hope, of some assistance in discouraging the economic source of war and therefore a contribution towards the peace of the world. The trade agreements which we are making are not only finding outlets for the products of American fields and American factories but are also pointing the way to the elimination of embargoes, quotas and other devices which place such pressure on nations not possessing great natural resources that to them the price of peace seems less terrible than the price of war.

PRESIDENT HOLDS DECISION OF WAR OR PEACE.

We do not maintain that a more liberal international trade will stop war, but we fear that without a more liberal international trade war is a natural sequence.

The congress of the United States has given me certain authority to provide safeguards of American neutrality in case of war.

The President of the United States, who, under our constitution, is vested with primary authority to conduct our international relations, thus has been given new weapons with which to maintain our neutrality.

Nevertheless—and I speak from a long experience—the effective maintenance of American neutrality depends today, as in the past, on the wisdom and determination of whoever at the moment occupy the offices of president and secretary of state.

It is clear that our present policy and the measures passed by the congress would in the event of a war on some other continent, reduce war profits which would otherwise accrue to American citizens. Industrial and agricultural production for a war market may give immense fortunes to a few men; for the nation as a whole it produces diasaster. It was the prospect of war profits that made our farmers in the west plow up prairie land that should never have been plowed, but should have been left for grazing cattle. Today we are reaping the harvest of those war profits in the dust storms which have devastated those war plowed areas.

AMERICANS WOULD ATTEMPT TO PROFIT BY WAR.

It was the prospect of war profits that caused the extension of monopoly and unjustified expansion of industry and a price level so high that the normal relationship between debtor and creditor was destroyed.

Nevertheless, if war should break out again in another continent, let us not blink the fact that we would find in this country thousands of Americans who, seeking immediate riches—fools' gold—would attempt to break down or evade our neutrality.

They would tell you—and, unfortunately, their views would get wide publicity—that if they could produce and ship this and that and the other article to belligerent nations, the unemployed of America would all find work. They would tell you that if they could extend credit to warring nations that credit would be used in the United States to build homes and factories and pay our debts. They would tell you that America once more would capture the trade of the world.

It would be hard to resist that clamor; it would be hard for many Americans, I fear, to look beyond—to realize the inevitable penalties, the inevitable day of reckoning that comes from a false prosperity. To resist the clamor of that greed, if war should come, would require the unswerving support of all Americans who love peace.

BETWEEN PROFIT AND PEACE ONLY COURSE OPEN

If we face the choice of profits or peace, the nation will answer—must answer—"we choose peace." It is the duty of all of us to encourage such a body of public opinion in this country that the answer will be clear and for all practical purposes unanimous.

With that wise and experienced man who is our secretary of state, whose statesmanship has met with such wide approval, I have thought and worked long and hard on the problem of keeping the United States at peace. But all the wisdom of America is not to be found in the White House or in the department of state; we need the meditation, the prayer and the positive support of the people of America who go along with us in seeking peace.

No matter how well we are supported by neutrality legislation, we must remember that no laws can be provided to cover every contingency, for it is impossible to imagine how every future event may shape itself. In spite of every possible forethought, international relations involve of necessity a vast uncharted area. In that area safe sailing will depend on the knowledge and the experience and the wisdom of those who direct our foreign policy. Peace will depend on their day to day decisions.

At this late date, with the wisdom which is so easy after the event and so difficult before the event, we find it possible to trace the tragic series of small decisions which led Europe into the great war in 1914 and eventually engulfed us and many other nations.

WE ARE STRONG ENOUGH TO DEFEND OURSELVES.

We can keep out of war if those who watch and decide have a sufficiently detailed understanding of international affairs to make certain that the small decisions of each day do not lead toward war and if, at the same time, they possess the courage to say "no" to those who selfishly or unwisely would let us go to war.

Of all the nations of the world today we are in many ways most singularly blessed. Our closest neighbors are good neighbors. If there are remoter nations that wish us not good but ill, they know that we are strong; they know that we can and will defend ourselves and defend our neighborhood.

We seek to dominate no other nation. We ask no territorial expansion. We oppose imperialism. We desire reduction in world armaments.

We believe in democracy; we believe in freedom; we believe in peace. We offer to every nation of the world the handclasp of the good neighbor. Let those who wish our friendship look us in the eye and take our hand.

Democrats Cite Record To Block G. O. P. Effort To Split Labor Vote

Republican Charged That Vote for Roosevelt Is Vote for Lewis' C. I. O. Brings Proof He Has Never Taken Sides in Federation's Factional Upheaval.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(UP) Democratic leaders tonight prepared to fight for millions of organized workers' votes which were placed in the doubtful column overnight by the sudden injection into the presidential campaign of the craft-industrial union strife rocking the American Federation of Labor.

A statement by William Hutcheson, head of the republican party's labor division and member of the federation's executive council, that a vote for President Roosevelt meant a vote for the 10 "rebel" union leaders suspended from the A. F. of L., because of their affiliation with the committee for industrial organization, was interpreted here as a deliberate attempt to split the labor vote.

Hutcheson asserted that Mr. Roosevelt favored the industrial or one big union program espoused by the "rebel" leaders and said John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. aids had little support until the New Deal came into power. Democratic campaign chieftains had sought to keep the A. F. of L. quarrel out of the presidential fight, emphasizing that the President was maintaining a "hands-off" policy.

Today, New Dealers examined the administration's labor record in search of ammunition. They turned to the terms of an agreement negotiated between workers and automobile manufacturers on March 26, 1934, which prevented a strike in the industry, and which said in part:

No Expressed Preference.

"The employers agree to bargain collectively with the freely chosen representatives of groups and not to discriminate in any way against any employe on the ground of his union affiliations. . . . The government makes it clear that it favors no particular union or particular form of employe organization or representation. . . ."

Although more than any other president in years, Mr. Roosevelt has been called upon to intervene in labor disputes, a search of the records disclosed no instance in which he has publicly indicated his preference for any form of labor organization including craft, industrial or company unions.

Major George L. Berry, head of the Non-Partisan League, denied the federation fight was involved in the league's campaign to re-elect Roosevelt.

The Record.

The league made public today a group of statistics designed to refute Hutcheson's assertion. They included:

Of 106 international unions a total of 53 already have affiliated with the league and only 10 are C. I. O. unions; 21 state federations of labor and 38 central labor unions are aiding the league, and 19 individual unions associated with Hutcheson's Carpenters and Joiners' Union are working for Mr. Roosevelt's re-election.

Observers here saw in Hutcheson's statement a move in well-laid plans to swing the support of approximately 2,300,000 craft union members behind the campaign of Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, the republican presidential nominee. Lewis has thrown the aid of his 500,000 coal miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana to President Roosevelt as has Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

President William Green, of the federation, has given Mr. Roosevelt his personal indorsement but announced the A. F. of L. would maintain its traditional non-partisan policy.

F. D. R. PLEDGES PEACE, COST WHAT IT MAY

home; that is why we have begun at home. But peace in the western world is not all that we seek."

"It is our hope that knowledge of the practical application of the good neighbor policy in this hemisphere will be borne home to our neighbors across the seas.

"For ourselves we are on good terms in most cases of straightforward friendship, of peaceful understanding.

"But of necessity, we are deeply concerned about tendencies of recent years among many of the nations of other continents. It is a bitter experience to us when the spirit of agreement to which we are a party is not lived up to. It is an even more bitter experience for the whole company of nations to witness not only the spirit but the letter of international agreements violated with impunity and without regard to the simple principles of honor. Permanent friendships between nations as between men can be sustained only by scrupulous respect for the pledged word."

Disarmament Bitter Delusion.

He reminded his audience that in spite of these violations the United States had sought to co-operate and assist in international movements to prevent war.

"We co-operated," he said, "to the bitter end—and it was a bitter end—in the work of the general disarmament conference.

"When it failed we sought a separate treaty to deal with the manufacture of arms and the international traffic in arms. That proposal also came to nothing.

"We participated—again to the bitter end—in a conference to continue naval limitations, and when it became evident that no general treaty could be signed because of the objections of other nations, we concluded with Great Britain and France a conditional treaty of qualitative limitation which, much to my regret, already shows signs of ineffectiveness."

At this point Mr. Roosevelt closed his summary on the treaty phase of the world situation by observing:

"We are not isolationists except in so far as we seek to isolate ourselves completely from war.

"I have passed unnumbered hours, I shall pass unnumbered hours, thinking and planning how war may be kept from this nation."

Too Many Barriers.

The President, slowly measuring his words, then promised that he would make certain that no act of the United States helps to produce or to promote war, and observed that:

"A dark old world was devastated by wars between conflicting religions. A dark modern world faces wars between conflicting economic and political fanaticisms in which are entwined race hatreds.

"To bring it home. It is as if within the territorial limits of the United States, 48 nations with 48 forms of government, 48 customs barriers, 48 languages and 48 eternal and different varieties, were spending their time and their substance in a frenzy of effort to make themselves strong enough to conquer their neighbors or strong enough to defend themselves against their neighbors."

The President then went on to develop his thesis, remarking that in one field, that of economic barriers, the American policy appeared as a hope toward the discouragement of the economic source of war.

Trade agreements, he said, which this country was making, were finding outlets for products of field and factory and pointing the way to elimination of embargoes and quotas.

"We do not maintain," he added, "that a more liberal international trade will stop war but we fear that without a more liberal international trade, war is a natural sequence.

"The congress of the United States has given me certain authority to provide safeguards of American neutrality in case of war.

"Nevertheless—and I speak from a long experience—the effective maintenance of American neutrality depends today, as in the past, on the wisdom and determination of whoever at the moment occupy the offices of president and secretary of state."

Mr. Roosevelt's discussion at this juncture included the warning of huge profits from a war market. He recalled the economic hardships due as the result of profits from the last war, and said:

"It was the prospect of war profits that caused the extension of monopoly and unjustified expansion of industry and a price level so high that the normal relationship between debtor and creditor was destroyed.

"Nevertheless, if war should break out again in another continent, let us not be blind to the fact that we would find in this country thousands of Americans who, seeking immediate riches—fools' gold—would attempt to break down or evade our neutrality."

Pointing out that the claims of justification for their acts would get wide publicity, he observed that it would be difficult for many Americans to resist the clamor and to realize "the inevitable penalties, the inevitable day of reckoning that comes from a false prosperity."

Peace Is Only Choice.

"If we face the choice of profits or peace," he said, "the nation will answer—must answer—'we choose peace.' It is the duty of all of us to encourage such a body of public opinion in this country that the answer will be clear and for all practical purposes unanimous."

In conclusion Mr. Roosevelt praised Secretary of State Cordell Hull for his work in keeping the United States at peace.

"Of all the nations of the world today we are in many ways most singularly blessed. Our closest neighbors are good neighbors. If there are remoter nations that wish us not good but ill, they know that we are strong; they know that we can and will defend ourselves and our neighborhood.

"We seek to dominate no other nation. We ask no territorial expansion. We oppose imperialism. We desire reduction in world armaments.

"We believe in democracy; we believe in freedom; we believe in peace. We offer to every nation of the world the handclasp of the good neighbor. Let those who wish our friendship, look us in the eye and take our hand."

Continues Trip.

Mr. Roosevelt began his address in this historic rendezvous of public speakers by remarking that "envy, hatred and malice among nations have reached their peak and will be succeeded by a new tide of peace and good will."

"I say this," he said, "as one who has participated in many of the decisions of peace and war before, during and after the World War; one who has traveled much and one who has spent a goodly portion of every 24 hours in the study of foreign relations."

Mr. Roosevelt came to Chautauqua from Cleveland where for four hours he inspected public works projects, toured the city where he was acclaimed by thousands and was the honor guest at a luncheon given by the officials of the Great Lakes Exposition.

From Chautauqua he returned to Mayville, N. Y., where he boarded his special train for a continuation of a flood control inspection trip in Pennsylvania. He is scheduled to reach Hyde Park, N. Y., tomorrow night to spend a week at the summer White House before setting out on tour of the drouth regions.

F. D. R. ASSERTS NATION ENTITLED TO GOOD TIME

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 14.—(AP) In an informal address on an old car ferry anchored in Lake Erie, President Roosevelt told 400 luncheon guests of the Great Lakes Exposition the people of American are entitled to a good time after what they have been through in recent years.

The President said Cleveland, through its exposition, was performing a real service to the nation in promoting better national understanding and solidarity.

Turning to his inspection trip of eastern flood areas, Mr. Roosevelt asserted he was "especially interested in seeing work caused not by depression, not by man, but by what we used to call an act of God."

He said that by seeing flood and drouth areas first hand he could perform a better service in Washington.

He had just completed a motor trip to two federal WPA projects, at the city airport and at a boulevard along the lake.

Thousands of persons gave the chief executive a huge ovation. Multi-colored bits of paper and serpentine fluttered down from business and office buildings.

INDICTMENT OF FASCISM SEEN IN F. D. R. SPEECH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(UP) Foreign diplomats, after studying President Roosevelt's peace speech tonight, agreed that it was aimed at foreign nations as much as at citizens of this country.

In indicting war and discussing the causes of armed conflict between nations, Mr. Roosevelt obviously referred to racial hatred in Germany, to Japan's ambitions of empire in the far east, and to flouting of international treaties by these nations and Italy, diplomats said, although these nations were, of course, not mentioned by name.

In discussing the causes of war, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"There are new-born fanaticisms, convictions on the part of certain peoples that they have become the unique depositories of ultimate truth and right.

"A dark old world was devastated by wars between conflicting religions. A dark modern world faces wars between conflicting economic and political fanaticisms in which are intertwined racial hatreds."

Some diplomats interpreted this as an indictment of fascism.

The treaty-breaking charge is equally applicable to Japan for her conquest of Manchuria, to Germany for rearming in violation of the treaty that ended the World War, to Italy for her conquest of Ethiopia and to other nations for lesser acts of bad faith.

Soap Box Derby Victor Departs for Akron

SOAP-BOX WINNER ARRIVES IN AKRON

Tommy Howard Ready for All-American Championship Race Sunday.

Tommy will represent Atlanta in the running of the All-American soap-box derby championship Sunday afternoon, competing with champions from 115 other cities.

His racing car has been checked in and given an official O. K. by the judges.

After going to his hotel, Tommy received his credentials, programs, national race sweater, cap and badges. He and the other entrants inspected rubber plants and other Akron industries, and attended a theater party tonight.

The derby in Atlanta was sponsored by The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company.

U. S. BOND INVESTMENT DOUBLED BY BANKERS

House Wednesday afternoon and it was understood that he acquainted the President with the bank situation. The "no new taxes" announcement came the next morning.

Administration financial leaders attached importance to the statement, pointing out that during the depression the banks preferred short-term securities so that they could be liquidated on rapid notice.

The switch to long-term obligations, which mature after 1949, they asserted, is a sign of increasing confidence in future recovery prospects and the need for earnings by the banks.

It was pointed out that the present interest rate on long-term obligations is the lowest in history, averaging only 2.5 per cent whereas it was 3.31 in 1933.

New Rule Today.

Meanwhile the federal reserve board, striving to halt a possible credit inflation boom in the fall, prepared to put into effect after the close of business tomorrow its new regulations increasing reserve deposit requirements of member banks with reserve banks by 50 per cent.

The regulations will reduce present excess reserves of around $3,500,000,000 to about $1,750,000,000. The board has estimated originally that the reserves would be $2,000,000,000.

As a result of the new regulations, the potential credit expansion possibility on the basis of estimates by the board will be reduced from about $42,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000 which, it feels, is sufficient to meet business and recovery needs.

Bankers' Comment.

President Robert V. Fleming, of the American Bankers' Association, asserted that except for "sporadic" spots the regulations would have little effect.

Referring to the situation here, Fleming remarked:

"The additional reserve requirements probably will cause no dislocation because the banks have been carrying more reserves than the requirements."

The new regulations will affect 6,377 member banks, state and national.

O'Connor's report showed that all federal obligations held in national banks increased $661,485,000 during the four-month period.

Fully guaranteed and direct obligations of the government held by national banks stood at $7,785,879,000 on March 4 but increased to $8,447,364,000, a new high, the comptroller's report revealed.

Federal reserve board statistics showed that these holdings alone approximated one-third of the total $25,882,000,000 of all banks in the nation.

GEORGIA FARM HOMES WILL GET ELECTRICITY

208 farms in Toombs and Emanuel counties.

In Walton, Morgan and Barrow counties, 80 miles of line will reach 360 farms. A $90,000 allotment was made to the Walton Agricultural Association of Monroe.

Power will be sold to 400 farmers from 76.7 miles of line to be erected with a $74,000 allotment made to the Troup County Rural Electrification Corporation at LaGrange.

From a small project in Wilkes county, REA loaned the Rayle Electric Association $12,000 to extend 11.2 miles of line into 53 farm homes.

Touches North Georgia.

Two allocations totaling $375,000 have been made to the North Georgia Electric Membership Corporation of Ringgold, Ga., which expects to serve 2,074 farms with an estimated 353.9 miles of line. It will operate in Catoosa, Dade, Whitfield, Chattooga, Floyd, Murray, Gordon and Walker counties, Georgia; and Hamilton county, Tennessee.

An allocation of $118,000 was made to a co-operative being formed in Carroll and Heard counties. Plans call for 107.8 miles of line to serve 538 farms.

REA approved a loan of $83,000 to the Douglas county electrification committee of Douglasville to erect 83 miles of line. The project is to serve 320 farms in Douglas, Carroll, Cobb and Paulding counties.

TRAFFIC DIRECTORSHIP WINS COMMITTEE VOTE

Haire's ordinance was entirely legal, and traffic experts, including Ben R. Stroup, representative of the National Safety Council, have given his proposal their approval.

To Invite Safety Expert.

The committee also recommended that Lieutenant Frank Kreml, the traffic expert who drastically reduced accident deaths on the streets of Evanston, Ill., be invited by Mayor Key, Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant and Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman of the safety committee, to come here to aid in establishing a traffic safety system based on the methods employed in other cities in cutting their death rates.

Recognition of Kreml's outstanding ability as an expert on traffic was contained in the letter of invitation which is to be signed by the mayor, the chief and the chairman. The lieutenant's services will be free of charge to the city.

Haire's proposed ordinance, which was published in full in The Constitution Friday morning, would create a traffic division of the police department under the direction of a director with the rank of assistant chief at a salary of $3,000 a year. The duty of the director and the division would be to eliminate accidents so far as possible, using the most modern and advanced methods of controlling traffic violators.

Cone, Callaway Present.

City Recorder John Cone and City Recorder A. W. Callaway appeared to speak on the White proposal to establish a separate traffic court. Callaway said he would co-operate in anything the committee thought best for the control of traffic, while Cone strongly advocated the special court in order that one judge might sit on all cases to dispense equal justice.

Councilman Haire moved to adverse the White proposal to create a position to supercede Chief Sturdivant in authority. Savage's opinion on the legality of such a move was asked, and the city attorney replied he thought it would be legal so long as the chief remained second only to the director of public safety, but that the job of the chief could not be abolished merely by a change in the name of the position. The power over the police department is vested in the mayor and general council, he said.

Office Room Planned.

It was voted to erect a new office room in the general assembly room at the police station to house the new traffic bureau already approved.

Sturdivant also proposed to move the police women's bureau from the back to the front of the station in order that it will be more easily available to the public. The committee authorized the move.

A request by Griffin, Ga., authorities for 20 Atlanta police to aid in handling the crowd expected there Home-coming Day, when state political candidates will speak, was granted.

The committee recommended that a fine paid in police court by a negro woman for her son be refunded. It developed that the mother paid the fine and thought the release handed her was merely a receipt for her money. She went home and the son went to jail where he served his time.

LINER, FREIGHTER COLLIDE IN FOG

200 Passengers, 36 Crew Members Removed From French Ship Eubee.

RIO GRANDE, Brazil, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Two hundred passengers and 36 of the crew of the French liner Eubee were taken safely aboard the British freighter Corinaldo today after the ships crashed in a fog.

Captain Raoul Daniel and 106 men remained aboard the severely-damaged Eubee off Cape Mostardos, about 100 miles north of here.

Latest advices said they were battling a heavy inrush of water which had flooded the engine rooms and incapacitated the ship's power plant.

Both ships radioed there were no casualties.

Fears that the Eubee was in sinking condition were expressed by port authorities. Tugboats put out to her aid—but, groping through a heavy fog, were not expected to arrive before dawn Sunday.

Radio messages said there was no panic among the pessengers. Some were en route from Hamburg, Germany, to Buenos Aires, Argentina. Others went aboard at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The Corinaldo sailed with a cargo of meat from Buenos Aires for Liverpool, England.

The extent of its damages were not known, but the Corinaldo remained by the Eubee which, Captain Horsburge radioed, was seriously damaged. He gave no details.

WILL APPEAL CASE.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Thomas A. Brown, dismissed as police chief after being accused of aiding the Barker-Karpis gang in the kidnapings of William Hamm Jr., and Edward G. Bremer, here in 1933 and 1934, served notice today of intention to appeal his discharge.

Three U. S. Army Airmen Killed When Big Bombing Plane Crashes

NEW KENT COURTHOUSE, Va., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Three army airmen of the Langley field force were killed last night in the flaming wreck of their two-motored (Martin) bomber in a back-countr, cornfield, an army board of inquiry today reviewed circumstances of the crash without immediately divulging findings.

A fourth member of the crew, 21-year-old Private N. D. Flinn, of McGuffey, Ohio, frantically kicked open the plane's bomb hatch and jumped safely with his parachute a few seconds before the airship nosed-dived from an emergency-landing glide, smashed into the ground and exploded in flames.

Flinn said a motor "choked" at 5,000 feet and the pilot in charge of the training cruise, Lieutenant W. S. Marvin, of Riverside, Cal., ordered the three others to "bail out" before trying to land.

Marvin was killed, together with Privates John H. Mayher, of McKeesport, Pa., and James H. Crittenden, 23, of Richmond, Va., who sat in a double enclosed cockpit behind Flinn's bombpit.

The somersault of the plane as it flipped on its back after plunging into the ground threw Mayher 25 feet into the corn from his seat in the observer's cockpit at the rear. His clothes and body were in flames when H. B. Robinson, a tenant farmer, raced there and threw earth over him. The bodies of Marvin and Crittenden were nearly consumed by the fire.

After an ambulance had carried the three bodies to Langley field after daylight today, a board of inquiry headed by Major B. M. Giles came here to look over the wreckage. Captain Robert Fisher, post adjutant at Langley field, said the report likely would not be made public.

The investigators sought to determine why the motor stopped, but the cause, as far as the public was concerned, remained unknown. Witnesses quoted Captain John H. McCormick, who led the ambulance party from Langley field, as saying that one or both of the 750-horsepower engines halted while a switch was being made from an empty gas tank to a full one.

R. A. Burton, of Beaverdam, Va., a former licensed pilot, said the wreckage showed the plane "leveled off too flat" at a slowing rate of speed and nosed over when near the earth.

MOTHER OF 2 IS HELD IN SLAYING OF FATHER

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The young mother of two small children sobbed pleas of innocence from a jail cell today as authorities exhumed the body of her father and sought to determine if he was poisoned three years ago.

Mrs. Roy Fortner, 30, wife of a Bloomfield, Mo., farmer, was quoted by Sheriff George Barkan as saying "bad liquor" caused the death of her father, Thomas Bond, 65.

Barhan also arrested Audrey Edwards, 22-year-old neighbor, and said he was looking for two others in connection with Bond's death.

The sheriff alleged Mrs. Fortner paid Edwards and another man to purchase poison which later was placed in "home brew" which Bond drank. He said he learned Mrs. Fortner had paid the premiums on her father's $2,000 insurance oplicy.

ATLANTA, GA., AUG. 15, 1936.

$14,000,000 AT STAKE

The danger of loss to Georgia of millions of dollars in federal highway funds as the result of the diversion of the funds of the State Highway Department to other branches of the state government is emphasized in the statement by the public roads bureau that $14,500,000 of federal money is still available to the state if approval is given to "the manner in which the state has spent its own revenue from highway users' taxes."

The federal highway fund is divided among the states, but provision is made in the law creating the fund that reduction be made in payments set aside for any state that diverts its own highway taxes to other purposes.

Georgia's share of the 1936-37 federal aid fund was set at $6,336,000, of which only $1,499,000 has been used. For road building under the 1935 works program, Georgia was allotted $4,940,000, of which $3,870,000 is still unspent. Under the grade crossings allotment of $4,895,000, the state still has a balance of $4,389,000. It also has a credit of $1,330,000 out of the national industrial recovery act road funds for 1934 and 1935.

During 1935 the special motor vehicle taxes collected in Georgia, these including gasoline tax, license tax and motor carriers' mileage taxes and fees, totaled $17,458,254. Of this total $5,152,490 was allocated to the school equalization fund and the grants to counties, but the more than $12,000,000 received by the Highway Department was swelled by the $5,343,711 received from the federal government and the $6,500,000 balance in the treasury brought over from the preceding year.

Here is the way the account of the Highway Department appears on the book of the state auditor:

On hand in highway treasury Jan. 1, 1935	$ 1,788,000
In state treasury to Highway Department credit	4,754,561
Total receipts during year, including $5,343,711 from federal government, but not including $5,152,490 gasoline taxes allocated to schools and counties	16,801,665
Total	$23,294,226
Expended:
For roads, including all of the money from U. S.	$13,548,000
Transferred for schools and pensions	2,000,000
Transferred to revenue commission	28,088
Transferred to prison commission (legislative act) for making tags	86,101
Transferred to military department (Talmadge order)	96,101
Accounts held by board but returned to counties (deposits)	99,625
Refunded to the federal government	160,000
Permitted to lapse and returned to general fund to be used in retiring old debts	963,348
Balance in highway treasury end of year	6,226,705
Total	$23,294,226

Thus of the $17,458,254 taxes paid by the automobilists of Georgia during 1935, only about $8,000,000 was expended on the roads of the state, $5,152,490 being allocated to the schools and counties and nearly $4,000,000 additional being diverted for various and sundry purposes other than the building and maintaining of highways.

Even with the addition of the $5,000,000 of federal funds the total expended was only $13,000,000. The sum total of the taxes paid by the motorists of the state, the amount received from Washington and the balance brought over from 1934 is $28,000,000—more than twice as large as the money actually expended on the roads of the state.

In the face of the $5,152,490 allocation of gasoline taxes mandatory under the law, Governor Talmadge dipped further into the funds of the department to enable him to illegally conduct the state government without an appropriations act.

Under the law, Georgia cannot expect to obtain the $14,500,000 of federal funds available to the state for various kinds of highway work if the special state motor vehicle taxes are made use of for any and every purpose.

The dictatorial decision of the Governor to operate the state government without an appropriations act has already cost Georgia millions of dollars in federal grants, and is seriously threatening the loss of other millions.

With new construction work on the highways in every part of the state lagging, and with roads already paved going to wrack and ruin because of lack of proper maintenance, Georgia can ill afford to continue the illegal and destructive policies under which our highway taxes are being misused and federal funds apportioned to the state remain in Washington.

GEORGIA MASTER FARMERS

Chosen from a list of 250,000 other Georgia farmers, four of the state's most progressive agriculturists were awarded the distinction of master farmers by Dr. Clarence Poe during a special program of the farm and home week being held at the State College of Agriculture in Athens. The four also received certificates from Harry L. Brown, director of state agricultural extension service, attesting to their farm records.

Those receiving this signal honor were J. A. Johnson, of Jefferson; W. W. Seaton, of Cohutta; C. B. Gay, of Rocky Ford, and L. C. Rodgers, of Moultrie.

Thirty-two years ago Johnson started on his present farm with 20 acres of worn-out hillside land and one mule. Today he owns 1,007 acres and 27 mules. He prospered through the live-at-home method and today, in spite of the drouth, he will make plenty of food and feed and none of his tenants will need relief.

Seaton has paid special attention to livestock and has raised all the work stock needed on his 600-acre farm, together with the food and feed required for family, tenants and stock. He has raised a family of nine children, all of whom have had full educational advantages.

Gay's main money crops have been beef cattle, cotton and hogs. He inherited 350 acres of land 20 years ago and now owns four times that amount. He, too, has followed the live-at-home plan to prosperity.

Cotton, tobacco and hogs have been Rodgers' chief money crops, but he has also raised ample food and feed. His cropping system has included large acreages in corn, peanuts, velvet beans, with rotation of crops from year to year.

The large number of progressive farmers whose records were checked in making selection of the four to receive the award of master farmer for this year evidences that agriculture is a successful vocation in Georgia for those who farm with their heads as well as with their hands, and that the farmer who really tries makes money in the good years and at least "breaks even" when weather or other conditions over which he has no control are adverse.

A NEW ENTERPRISE

Manufacture of shoes began on a small scale in a new plant just opened in Waycross, with 30 people employed, and expectations that up to 500 will be given employment when the plant attains full operation.

Georgia already has two large shoe making establishments, one of which is the largest in the south and compares favorably in size and output with some large northern factories.

Most of the leather used in their manufacture of shoes is imported; some from other states and some from foreign countries.

With the rapid increase in the beef cattle industry in the state, affording a larger supply of hides, we may now anticipate an increase in the state's tannery industry.

Such new industries, with enlargement of those now operating in a small way, will gradually increase gainful employment for citizens of Georgia, keep within the state money that is now going elsewhere, and bring here additional sources of wealth.

One devastating effect of the Spanish shooting is that it may be years before the bulls regain their confidence.

According to our point system, Finland is tops in the javelin throw, the distance runs and standing high integrity.

You can't fairly judge a nation by the deportment of its Olympic crowd. Maybe the good sports are at home, getting it by radio.

This is national beef month, but, after all, in a campaign year what is one beef among so many?

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Merciless And Pitiless.

MADRID.—This civil war is worse than war. In a war between two states at least some laws are respected. Killing prisoners and committing the most atrocious acts of cruelty are not a general rule. But here it is. Here in Spain they are killing without trial, without any discussion, without the slightest pity or quarter.

I saw three young rebel officers at Nevarracado, who had surrendered, planked against the wall and shot down like dogs. One of them smiled bravely into the rifle barrels pointed at his chest. Another hid his face in his hands and wept. The third made the sign of the cross 10, 20 times over, till the salvo rang out and he pitched forward on his face. The anti-fascist militia, following the example of the insurgents, are now shooting all prisoners, except the regular soldiers, who come over to surrender and who declare that they had been forced by their officers to march against Madrid.

In Nevarracado, which has been evacuated for the seventh time by the rebels in the last 10 days, all the principal streets were covered with corpses. Citizens who had witnessed the rebel occupation said: "The insurgents suddenly appeared from all sides. The loyalists in the little main square were surrounded. They gave up, not having a single cartridge left. There may have been 300. Ten minutes later they were all slaughtered."

"Here," said a witness, pointing to a group of five dead boys, "these kids were made to knee down and cry out: 'Long live fascist Spain!' They obeyed tremblingly. But they had their brains battered out just the same."

I could go on citing similar incidents ad infinitum. What a terrible responsibility weighs on those who started this rebellion and who do not hesitate to ruin their country by fire and sword.

Such Calm Is Upsetting.

As I am shut off from the world and cannot judge of what is going on in the opposite camp, I find it extremely difficult to arrive at an estimate of the general situation. The one moment I fear that the rebels will break through the line up north, which means that they will be here in Madrid in a few days and riot and ruin, and the next, when a column of attackers is reported thrown back, I believe that the people's militia will yet pull through and overwhelm the rebellion.

Madrid is calm, too calm. You feel as if you were sitting on dynamite. There are tens of thousands in this city just waiting for a signal that the rebels have broken through, to throw themselves against the back of the defenders. I make one prediction: if the rebels do break through there will be no Madrid to occupy. It will be one vast smoking ruin. If the Spanish republic is to disappear from the scene of history, it will slam the door so hard in getting out that the capital will not survive the catastrophe . . . Nor Europe for very long.

As I write, someone comes in to tell me that a rebel column has reached the top of the Samosierra and is 40 kilometers from the outskirts of the city. This has happened before. The whole question is: if they do come what will happen to all foreigners. Where will we hide? The people's militia will fight back every step of the way. They will blow up houses and streets as they retreat. The way to the coast is long. The countryside swarms with armed bands, who shoot first and investigate afterwards whom they have shot.

Saragossa Holding Out.

I think that the situation in Addis Ababa was preferable to what is taking place here. The government gives out so many optimistic communiques that they get on my nerves. I only listen for one thing on the radio; if Saragossa falls into the hands of the loyalists, I know the rebellion's back is broken. So long as it does not, the rebels come nearer and nearer to Madrid. Saragossa is the key to the situation in the north. It is holding out in spite of incessant artillery and aerial bombardment. I am placing this letter on an airplane which is running over to Paris. They say there will be another plane out the day after tomorrow.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE AUTHOR OF BEAUTY.

The world is everywhere filled with beauty, if only we have eyes to see. Just now when the recent rains have refreshed all growing things, one need not go to distant scenes to have his soul flooded with earth's glorious pictures of natural beauty. Have you seen a corn field in tassel? A sloping meadow, green and fresh with its carpet of grass, bordered with fragrant summer flowers? A fence covered with morning glories at sunrise? A hillside of green tapestry with newly-born buds of trees and shrubs?

Driving through Georgia on a leisurely motor trip, our little family is enjoying as never before the beauty of fields and forest. By the time this issue of the paper reaches the reader, we expect to be in Florida, where the scene will shift from sweeping vistas of Georgia's coastal plains to the lovely lakes and then the sea and the everglades. We have agreed again as we have ridden along from Atlanta down state, that Georgians are blessed, indeed. How wonderful are the developments of our state within these brief two centuries, and how much awaits the touch of willing hands and amitious hearts!

Who gave us all this vast outlay of natural resources? Who fashioned it all in such abiding beauty? These questions lead one straight to God. I would go beyond the poet's suggestion that there is a sermon in every stone and in every running stream—I would say in every growing thing. God hath made all things beautiful. Only man has marred the picture, the perfect picture. And now God beckons man upward, pointing the way to a new heaven and a new earth, wherein all things shall again be free from stain and soil of sin.

"I sought for Beauty and I found it throb
 In the deep cadence of an organ strain,
In lamp-lit windows of a mountain home,
 In old hands folded till they work again,
In sunset's islands in a sapphire sea,
 The feel of rose leaves, and the willow's scent,
Land newly plowed, a sacrificial gift,
 In aching lips that smile, the deep content

Mohammedan Era.

The Mohammedan era began in 622 A. D., with the hejira (flight) from Mecca of Mohammed Hasham, 52, founder of what is today the faith of more persons than there are Protestants. (World count: Mohammedans—210.000.000; Protestants 207.000.000.)

He fled as Meccans threatened to kill him because he committed sacrilege in denouncing the Koreish gods. Today Mecca is the holy city which devout Mohammedans must visit before they die.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

RA-A-WTHER! WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The surface serenity of this campaign is deceptive. Just because the candidates are not making noisy news does not mean that things are as lofty and impersonal as they seem. From the inside, to date, this is easily the most shrewdly schemed contest in modern politics.

CAUGHT Around the White House, there is no outward evidence that a campaign is in progress. President Roosevelt's calling lists rarely contain the name of a politician. His public utterances are devoted mainly to selected subjects of the moment, such as drouth, relief expenditures, flood control, international affairs.

Chairman Farley and the lowly politicians are kept at headquarters in New York. They are on their own, out of the White House picture. The President is presumed never to talk to anyone about such mundane things as votes.

This perfect campaign strategy might have proceeded undetected for an indefinite period, except for Mr. Roosevelt's slip in getting caught attending an extraordinarily secret meeting of Maryland politicians at the Welles hideout near here a few days back. A Maryland politician naturally let a Maryland news friend know all about the meeting. Subsequent White House denials that any politics was involved only served to remind all political observers that there was not supposed to be any politics in drouth, flood control or international affairs either.

Thus was unleashed the current flood of comment concerning the smartness of Mr. Roosevelt's indirect campaigning methods.

MANEUVERING The basic idea is not new. Essentially it is the same strategy employed by Mr. Coolidge in his campaign for re-election, only it has been carried much farther. (A wise politician once said: "Politics is like war; always changing but always the same; you always develop strategies, but you never drop any of the old ones.")

You can see the extent of the maneuvering by measuring what has happened so far, from the Philadelphia convention floor up. While the campaign is supposed to have not yet begun officially, Mr. Roosevelt has made these following swift strokes to crowd his opponent into the background and to draw public attention to his accomplishments:

FOREIGN AFFAIRS Centered attention on the rescue of Americans in Spain and protection of American property there, in contrast to previous lack of interest in "dollar diplomacy" during the Cuban revolution and the Ethiopian war.

SPEAKING A few days after Governor Landon announced his first big speaking engagement at Chautauqua, N. Y., the democratic national committee adviser on the religious vote, Stanley High, hastily made an engagement for Mr. Roosevelt to speak there 10 days ahead of Mr. Landon. In recent presidential campaigns, none of the candidates has considered Chautauqua worth attending. The significant subject chosen by the President for his speech was "Foreign Affairs," in line with what democratic politicians have been saying, that Landon, a governor of Kansas, could not possibly know anything about foreign affairs.

FLOOD CONTROL This is the subject of the moment. It has been stressed as the reason Mr. Roosevelt returned from Hyde Park and the reason for his present trip. Of course, local communities receiving money appropriated for flood control from the last session of congress will naturally connect them with the President's visit. But the unstressed main purposes of the trip were to make the foreign affairs speech, and to have Mr. Roosevelt show himself in Cleveland (which has no flood control problem) on the day that the Coughlinites are meeting in convention there.

DROUTH Administration relief activities in the last month have called daily attention to Mr. Roosevelt's policies, revived the Rural Resettlement Administration, caused the President to arrange another non-political inspection trip next month.

Note—Few politicians on either side will question the complete legitimacy of this type of campaigning, recognizing only the cleverness of it. The only deep political inferences they see is that it may indicate far more presidential doubt about the outcome than Farley has conceded to date.

OPEN HOUSE The Landon strategy has likewise been lifted from the Coolidge book, but from a different chapter.

While Mr. Roosevelt's basic problem is to call attention to his accomplishments without seeming to be doing it, for political purposes, Governor Landon's is to keep the biggest possible open door and open house for all who want to vote against Mr. Roosevelt.

Political grandfathers know the country has voted negatively more often than affirmatively in presidential elections. In 1920, it was not so much pro-Harding as anti-Wilson; in 1924, afraid of La Follette as much as for Coolidge; in 1928, anti-Smith; in 1932, against more of Hoover. This year most political seers agree the outcome will be decided by the size of the anti-Roosevelt, not the strictly pro-Landon, vote.

QUIETUDE The Landon strategy at and since the convention seems to have been based on the assumption that his main problem is to collect rather than convert. It explains why he has spoken infrequently and kept both his platform and his acceptance speech couched in terms of a general rather than a specific invitation.

While many of his foolhardy followers are howling for him to take a particular stand on every issue under the sun, every time he takes a stand on a debatable issue, he runs the risk of alienating a voter on the other side of the issue who would otherwise cast a vote against Roosevelt.

The absence of fire and sword in this type of conflict may lead the unwary to surmise that there is no contest, but the fact seems to be that few past campaigns have been as skillfully handled on both sides at this stage of the game.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Ambulance screams
Down the Lawrenceville road,
Somebody's dying
Or dead.
We rouse from sleep
To the siren's goad
On our nerves,
And fret in
The bed.

The dogs awake
And whine at the moon,
Somebody's dying
Or dead.
I wish that boy
Of mine would come home,
I'd feel safer
With him
In his bed.

Do You Know Your Bible?

Found a gag in the London Era which appealed to me as clever. Tried it on a number of friends and received little more than blank stares. Investigation revealed a sad lack of the Biblical knowledge requisite to understanding of the joke. Do you remember your Bible? Here's the item:

Shirley Temple, it is pointed out, is to receive a Shetland pony, sent all the way from Scotland. And the Era remarks:

"The animal will be named 'Samuel'—because he was dedicated to the service of the Temple."

Another "Era" Comment.

And the same sapient publication remarks, a few paragraphs further down:

News From Old Friend.

While on the general subject of Hollywood, it may be seemly to mention here a letter received from a good old friend, Ted Toddy. Ted was, for years, in charge of exploitation in the south, with offices here, for one of the larger film producers.

Now Ted is in Hollywood himself, all set to make the pictures he used to sell to the public so expertly.

He writes that, in partnership with James Guerin, they have organized a company under the name "Unusual Pictures." They promise the product will live up to the name and offer, as proof thereto, the subject and title of their first picture, which will be about and called "Polygamy."

He adds that several stories of extremely unusual type have been bought and a number of well-known film players put under contract.

Here's a Chance For Some of Us.

There is a line at the end of his letter that offers encouragement to would-be scenario authors. He writes:

"Unusual Pictures are interested in receiving unusual stories, synopses or ideas for unusual plots."

Ted deserves the best and all who knew him in Atlanta will be pulling for big success for his new company.

And we'll do all we can, so long as he sticks to "unusual" as his adjective and does not drag in that word, so generally misused, "unique."

Der Feuhrer Affronted Again.

From San Francisco comes the news that Dr. August Ponschab, the German consul there, is said to have protested the exhibition of a newsreel containing shots of Hitler on the ground that the commentator "spoke with a Jewish accent."

And, according to reliable information, among recent American films banned from the screen in Germany by the Goebbels department are "The Prisoner of Shark Island," "The Country Doctor," "A Message to Garcia," "The Great Ziegfeld,' "Whipsaw," "Last of the Pagans," "Mary Burns," "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Give Us This Night."

Unless it is that Herr Goebbels really has a sense of artistic values, we cannot imagine why the ban.

New Opening For Entertainers.

It is said that in the larger American cities an industrious "amateur" can earn $60 a week or better by appearing as a contestant in "Amateur Night," programs.

Many professional performers are reported as doing quite well since they entered the "amateur" ranks.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, August 15, 1911:

"'Buddy,' the gay and debonair young Boston bull terrier, who attached himself to the Piedmont Driving Club, became "a full member in good standing" and the mascot of that organization, is dead. He just grieved himself to death mourning for the loss of a faithful and loyal friend who died about five weeks ago. Mrs. John Hill was Buddy's mistress and the friend for whom he mourned so deeply was Mrs. Hill's cook."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Sunday, August 15, 1886:

"Washington, D. C., August 14.—(Special)—President Cleveland today appointed Captain W. T. Newman, of Atlanta, to be judge of the United States circuit court of the northern district of Georgia, to succeed the late Judge McCay. He was at once commissioned. The appointment was received with perfect satisfaction by the many Georgians here."

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Rap F. D. R. Extravagance. NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—It amuses me to hear our friends, the republicans, holler and carry on about Roosevelt's extravagance and the tax burden which he is building up for posterity because if they were to elect their man tomorrow he would have to go right ahead with the extravagance and the debt or face a revolution. Rather than provoke the revolution, Mr. Landon would continue to toss the money around although, for the sake of appearances, he would feel bound to cancel some of Mr. Roosevelt's schemes and substitute others of his own, just as expensive.

Up to now Mr. Landon has revealed no definite plan by which he, as president, would shut off the national government's assistance to the people but that isn't to be wondered at because there is no way short of strict fascism, which he, naturally, cannot propose in open meeting at this stage of the game. True, Hearst has been playing footie with Mussolini and Hitler in persistent plugs for dictatorship in other countries, in such a way as to suggest that it might be a good thing for us. But Hearst doesn't speak officially for Landon and, anyway, you can bet that if he got what he is crying for he wouldn't like it. Because, under fascism a lot of republican gang politicians would step in and run his business for him and make him absorb more employes than he normally uses. And they would soon have him screaming murder with their special taxes and forced contributions to support the unemployed in public improvements no different from Roosevelt's and in semi-military organizations of government tough guys.

Feed Money To Business. Landon might try to feed the money to business with the intention it should reach the people through the pay rolls of private industry, instead of shoving it directly to the unemployed through government work. But that wouldn't work as well as Roosevelt's way. Private industry would chisel too much off the top just as the big cotton planters gypped the share-croppers under Roosevelt and set them out on the road with their ragged little kids and scabby dogs. The big planters could get away with that because the share croppers are scattered and weak and ignorant and the negro question operates against both white and negro peons. In the big industrial centers where the help is concentrated in masses there would be hell to pay. City workmen are smarter and more truculent and it isn't possible to tar and feather labor organizers and agitators and run them out of town as happened in Arkansas.

Our friends, the republicans, are right in one important and very ominous contention. They insist that Roosevelt doesn't have a plan and the obvious truth is that he hasn't, worse luck. He is just going along on a week-to-week basis, maintaining the capitalistic democratic system by gradual concessions to the people and hoping that after four more years things will come right, somehow. But he doesn't foresee a solution and his next term will just defer the blow-off four years more. By that time a lot of us will be dead and the rest of the country will have been slowly prepared for some tough mugg like John Lewis who will take over as president-dictator and rattle our teeth with direct methods.

Democracy A Bystander. It is too bad that the liberties of the American system can't be preserved but they will have to go because our democracy is just an innocent bystander in the row and hasn't the belly for a fight or a leader to remind the people what freedom means. The poor old American system will stop a lot of punches and half-bricks thrown from both sides and will be trampled flat in the scuffle. Right now I get hundreds of letters from people who want to spit on freedom, as the Germans say, and destroy the liberties that Washington and Jefferson handed down to us. Just for the pleasure of slugging a few individuals that they don't like. We seldom hear a chirp from our democracy nowadays. The principals in the fight are communism and fascism, both of which detest freedom, and democracy is in the middle, being belted from both sides.

Sure, Roosevelt is extravagant and wasteful. He knows it. He might save a few hundred millions or a billion if he were of a mind to but that wouldn't make much difference. He is throwing the lap robes and our coat and vest and pants to the wolves and, like the Russian in the sleigh, he might have to toss out the old lady and the kids in that effort to distract them in the long dash to the settlement. But that's just the catch. There ain't no settlement.

Talmudic Tales

BY DAVID MORANTZ.

Number 393.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which work contains the civic and canonical laws and traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

QUESTIONS I'VE BEEN ASKED.

What is Shavouth? Feast of Weeks. It was also known as Pentecost, from the Greek word meaning the "fiftieth day." It falls on the sixth day of the Jewish month of Sivan, which corresponds to May 28, 1936.

It is also known as "The Feast of the Early Harvest." In Palestine the harvest season extended over seven weeks. Beginning with the second day of Passover, each day was carefully counted, which ceremony is called "Counting of the Omer" and the fiftieth day was celebrated as the Festival of the Fruits. On this day, Shavouth, the first and finest fruits and grain were brought to the temple and dedicated to God.

It is also celebrated as the anniversary of the day when the law was given as Mount Sinai.

What is "The Scholar's Festival?" Lag B'Omer, which is observed on the eighteenth day of Iyar, which falls on May 10 during the year of 1936. Because of the sad memories of cruel treatment of the Jews by the Romans, various activities and festive celebrations are prohibited from Pasosver until this day, which is the 33d day of the counting of the Omer. On this day, however, the prohibitions are removed and it is made a joyous occasion.

Another reason for this happy celebration is to commemorate the miraculous cessation of a plague that raged among the pupils of the school of Rabbi Akiba. Hence, it also became known as "The Scholar's Festival," and on that day the importance of study and education is stressed.

Suitor: Indeed not. Let's try to reason with her.

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

Finding a perfect girl, outside the movies, is much like hunting for a needle in a haystack. Walk behind one who has a perfect figure, and when she turns you discover that she is homely. Find one who has perfect features, hair and teeth, and when she stands you see heavy ankles or an awkward posture.

These are misfortunes imposed by an ungenerous nature and deserve compassion.

But yesterday I saw one whose imperfection was self-made, and all she deserved was spanking.

She had everything. Her figure was perfect. Her copper hair and deep violet eyes and long lashes and glistening teeth were perfect. Her slender feet and hands were perfect. Her laugh was low and musical and her voice like the mellow notes of a cello. Oh, she was a story-book girl, and even an old has-been like me felt his pulse quicken and envied the collegiate boy friend who squired her.

Then an older couple joined them and the girl became a different person. Maybe the newcomers were important enough to inspire the jitters, or maybe she was embarrassed and excited by the presence of her boy friend.

Whatever the reason, she gushed. She put on. Her voice lifted an octave and screeched. Her words came out in little explosions and fell flat like dabs of melted taffy.

It was like seeing a favorite horse fall at the last barrier. I knew how the heathen felt when he discovered the clay feet of his god.

Why does a girl gush, anyway? I can't believe she does it on purpose—not if she has ordinary good sense.

I believe it is caused by panic. Her tongue is like a skittish horse when the reins break. It dashes away licketty-split, its wits destroyed by the discovery that it isn't under control. And the poor rider can only sit in a terrified trance and let it race.

If that is the explanation, the remedy or preventive is simple. Don't let your tongue get loose. When you feel your poise slipping, smile and keep still. Hold everything, no matter what happens, till you are steady enough to choose your words. It's the one sure way to keep from shaming yourself.

Love,
DAD.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

In my experience the birth of babies from 15 to 30 per cent larger and heavier than average has not been more difficult than ordinary labor. Not that I have borne so many, but, after all, I've been master of ceremonies at a number of blessed events and, hard-boiled though one be and inured to throes and all that, one cannot help observing the most awe-inspiring spectacle of life.

Believe it or not, I was not hard-boiled, cold-blooded nor unsympathetic in my early years of practice. On the contrary, I was a pushover for the deadbeats for miles around. That is, for all but one, and that one was pretty mad, threatened to have my licensed revoked, when I refused to rush to his aid at the last minute a second time, having warned him after the first occasion that it would be quite useless to attempt to work the same dodge on me again. The dodge was to wait until the arrival of the baby impended and then summon the unsuspecting doctor to render first aid in an emergency—a woman dying. Still, even if a doctor feels justified in talking turkey to the ordinary D. B. who seeks his services, it is a different situation when a miracle is concerned. And even if the woman herself is party to the conspiracy to beat the doctor, there is always one innocent party vitally concerned, and the doctor simply can't leave the baby out of consideration. Surely the baby can't help it if one or both parents are dishonest. Note, I say dishonest—not poor, out of work, stranded, supported by charity or by the kindness of relatives, but just plain dishonest. The instance mentioned above illustrates what I'm talking about. Had that wily bird come to the doctor six months in advance to engage his service, there would have been no hitch at all. But I can't stomach the liars who deliberately choose to worry along with false pretenses.

Nowadays it seems to be the practice of some physicians to prescribe restricted diet for the expectant mother in the final months for the purpose of limiting the size of the baby and presumably assuring an easier confinement. Not only is this principle based upon unsound ideas of nutrition, but in actual practice it proves unsuccessful or perhaps harmful.

If the prospective mother's nutrition is scientifically and sensibly maintained on the plus or optimal side of what we know to be adequate, neither she nor her baby will become too large or too fat. This is not a question to be left until the last few weeks, but must be considered in the instructions given by the physician and the antenatal treatment or regime from the time the woman becomes aware she is to become a mother.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Crystalline Iron.

Had my husband get four ounces iron and ammonium citrate to make up the home medicine for anemia. The druggist gave it to him in crystal form. I take it from your booklet to mean a liquid form. . . . (Mrs. P. F.)

Answer—No, that's right. Iron and ammonium citrate comes in thin, transparent, garnet-red scales more or less crystalline in form. The booklet "Blood and Health" gives full instructions. For copy send 10 cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Typhoid.

Will a person have typhoid fever more than once? . . . (C. H. W.)

Answer—In the rather rare instances in which a second attack of typhoid fever occurs, there is generally a question about the accuracy of the diagnosis. Still, it might happen. One attack confers immunity for many years, I believe.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—The Will Hays office and several important film executives are said to be responsible for the sudden termination of the fight between Mary Astor and her husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, for the custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marrylyn. The intervention of Hollywood bigwigs was as much to save the movie industry from the stigma of immorality as to save further names in the sensational diary from publication. Since the case started, Hollywoodites are avoiding the printed or written word as a means of communication. Only the telephone is regarded safe.

Lily Pons kissed Andre Kostelanetz in full view of 25,000 enthusiastic fans at the conclusion of their joint concert in the Hollywood Bowl. . . . The Douglas Fairbankses have started a vogue among film stars for 15-day jaunts to Europe and back via the Hindenburg. Herbert Marshall is the latest to choose this quick method of travel for visiting his native country—his first trip in three years. Marshall will leave Hollywood upon completion of "Daddy and I," fly to New York, take the Hindenburg to Germany, plane to Croyden, England, spend five days in London, and return by the same route.

Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda vacationing and looking over the movie situation. . . . John Otterson is reputed to have been paid $200,000 in settlement of his contract with Paramount. . . . The child actors of Screenland are organizing a screen boys' club, for the purpose of holding their own in the studios. Mickey Rooney is running for president.

The way they get even in the movies: Gary Cooper kills Porter Hall in "The General Died at Dawn," but Porter gets his revenge by killing Cooper in "The Plainsmen". . . . Jimmy Gagney has bought a farm in Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and will spend part of each vacation there. . . . Mamo Clarke, the South Sea beauty who captured Clark Gable in "Mutiny on the Bounty," will not appear in a picture until her accent is completely Americanized. . . . The radio program featuring Hollywood stars is now rated the second most popular in the country. . . . Hollywood is full of young Englishmen hoping to emulate ex-army officer, David Niven, who gate-crashed the movies because of his aristocratic background. Niven has proved a first-rate actor and gets an important role in "Love Under Fire," starring Merle Oberon, his favorite girl friend.

Mae West is going horticulturist in a big way. The French Norman bungalow in the Emanuel Cohen studio, filming the most famous curves in the world, will be surrounding by an informal garden unlike any other in Hollywood. Flowers representing every country in the world will be planted in a floral league of nations, with a special plot of unique double bluebells directly in front of the entrance. The original bluebell has been developed by Professor Jules De Lanvin to simulate the hourglass shape made famous by Miss West. Whatever will they think up next?

JUDGE PLANS TO JAIL THORPE CASE WITNESS

tor and her attorney had been quick to accede to his suggestion that neither side comment on the final judgment. However, in declining to reopen the case, he said:

"The court is powerless to prevent ill-advised or irresponsible statements by litigants or their attorneys.

Not Available for Comment.

"Custody of the child as awarded to the mother and father is sufficient evidence of the confidence reposed by the court in each parent at this time. No further 'justification' or 'vindication' is or should be necessary."

Neither Woolley nor Miss Astor was available for comment. Anderson said Dr. Thorpe "was gracious enough, fortified as he was with an abundance of evidence to yield partial custody rather than introduce the evidence which might materially harm the mother and thereby indirectly cast a reflection upon the child."

He presumably referred to the diary in which he claimed Miss Astor had set down the names of numerous men, prominent in the movie colony, the New York theater Rilato, and elsewhere. It was in possession of Dr. Thorpe. As part of the settlement, it has been turned over to the custody of the court, to be placed in a secret depositary.

The diary may be returned to light and used as evidence in the future, the judgment stipulated.

Kaufman was mentioned prominently in the hearing. Miss Astor testified she told her husband "you've known about George Kaufman since last fall. You've condoned it." At another time, she said she talked "very frankly" to Dr. Thorpe about Kaufman.

The playwright was served with a subpoena, but did not answer it. Later, Judge Knight issued a warrant for his arrest.

"I'll put that man in jail if I ever lay my hands on him," he said.

Hollywood Relieved.

Hollywood, not particularly disturbed by this conflagration, which was minor in comparison with scorching revelations dribbled daily from the actress' purple document—which she claims Dr. Thorpe stole from her—breathed easier at the legal conclusion of the case.

Final chapter of the celebrated case was written in a stifling courtroom. While the actress-mother sat, her head bowed in one hand, Judge Knight issued a scathing denunciation of the entire action.

After the judge had read his order, three affidavits were presented by A. P. Michael Narlian, one of Dr. Thorpe's counsel, reportedly in an effort to "clear the names" of two women placed in the physician's bedroom by testimony in the case.

The affidavits were made by Mrs. Lillian Logan Miles, her mother, Mrs. Mary Logan, and Mrs. Mary Scofield.

Attorney Roland Rich Woolley, for Miss Astor, objected this was an attempt to "whitewash testimony that was entered formally."

Narlian protested that the case was being closed with "aspersions still remaining on these women's names."

Judge Knight announced he would admit the affidavits only if they contained denials and did not make counter-accusations.

The square-jawed young jurist made it plain the decision finally reached between the squabbling pair would "end the Astor-Thorpe case once and for all."

He said three other suits brought by Miss Astor against her ex-mate—an annulment proceeding, based on allegations Dr. Thorpe already was married when he married her at Yuma, Ariz., in 1931; a suit to set aside a property settlement, and one to void Dr. Thorpe's legal guardianship over their daughter—all would be included in the settlement.

The case, which has dragged through three weeks of intermittent sessions and plastered the film world with romantic revelations culled from Miss Astor's diary, was on the verge of a new collapse when Judge Knight collected the principals in his chambers at court opening today.

Miss Astor, formerly a Warner Brothers star, is now under contract to Columbia Pictures, and is being costarred in the filming of Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Dodsworth," which has not been released.

Picture people were silent on the effect the publicity given her battle to regain custody of her daughter, which she surrendered in a pre-divorce agreement with Dr. Thorpe last year, would have on the star's future status in films. Reports in the trade were that exhibitors all over the country were clamoring for Astor pictures, in order to capitalize on the publicity.

Still Under Contract.

Miss Astor admitted she had been "approached" concerning a contract with a London company, but said her contract with Columbia was still in effect.

The diminutive star, born Lucille Langhanke, in Quincy, Ill., 30 years ago, has been in films about 10 years, getting her first starring role in "Don Q.," one of Douglas Fairbanks' great pictures of silent film days.

She was married to Kenneth Hawks, director who died in an airplane accident six years ago, and it was while Dr. Thorpe, dapper, suave film colony physician, was treating her for a nervous ailment after that tragedy that the pair fell in love.

Marlyn was born a year after their marriage and Dr. Thorpe filed suit for divorce three years later. Miss Astor did not contest the suit, and in her present action she charged she was under the surgeon's "hypnotic influence" when she agreed to surrender custody of her daughter.

Dr. Thorpe charged she acceded to his demands in fear of exposure of her admitted romance with Kaufman, comments in the diary, which she says was stolen from her bedroom, about which she jotted down ecstatic

Mary Astor and Dr. Thorpe Will Share Daughter

FORTSON'S FORCES RAP 'PROPAGANDA'

Manager Reports Three Additional Papers Have Indorsed Jurist.

"Propaganda that Ed Rivers is the man to beat Redwine is losing its effect," speakers on a radio forum for Judge Blanton Fortson declared here last night. Austin F. Dean, editor of the Gainesville Eagle, presided.

John L. Hemphill, Coweta county farmer, asserted that "up to a few weeks ago the Rivers propaganda had some effect, and for a while a great many of us swallowed this bait, hook, line and sinker. But, upon reflection, we are changing our minds."

J. W. Cantrell, of Haralson county, said, "When I vote for Judge Blanton Fortson on September 9, I will feel prouder of the privilege of the ballot than I have felt in a long, long time."

Tate Wright, campaign manager for Fortson, announced three additional newspapers have editorially indorsed Fortson in the last 10 days, the Cordele Dispatch, Crisp; Tri-County Advertiser, Habersham, and the Waynesboro True-Citizen, Burke.

B. F. Thomas, of Douglas county, said "I am not prepared to believe that the people of Georgia are going to establish the custom of electing the candidate who can make the most noise, instead of choosing their governor on the basis of fitness, character and ability to carry out the program he advocates. Judge Fortson will win this race."

E. B. Braswell, publisher Athens Banner-Herald, said: "The Banner-Herald was established in 1828, and the first candidate it supported was Andrew Jackson for president. It has been democratic ever since. The people of Clarke county are proudly supporting Judge Fortson because they know he is a really great man."

GARLAND WILL SPEAK AT WARM SPRINGS

Reuben Garland, candidate for attorney general in the September 9 state primary, left Atlanta last night for a speaking engagement at 10 o'clock this morning at Warm Springs.

The political rally is under the sponsorship of the Warm Springs Chamber of Commerce and counties for several miles around will send delegations to hear candidates for various state offices.

LEWIS, OFF TO LONDON, MAKES NO COMMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' leader who organized the committee for industrial organization, sailed for London late today, declining to comment on the suspension order of the American Federation of Labor.

"I will make no comment upon that letter now," Lewis said. "You can merely say I am making a deferred trip abroad."

'Ginger Ale Shaves' End As City Turns Water On

READING, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A week of "ginger ale shaves" and no baths, that saw dirty dishes stacked high in kitchen sinks and housewives doing the family wash at 3 a. m., ended today as the city of Reading sent water through faucets in hundreds of homes in five suburban communities.

The water famine started when a court order closed a spring, the principal source of supply of the Sinking Spring Water Company, because it was tainted with gasoline.

More than 5,000 persons exhausted every resource during the last week in attempting to perform personal household cleannig chores.

Hundreds of families were able to obtain water only from basement pipes, and then only in trickles, while others had no water at all.

TALMADGE MODIFIES STAND ON ROOSEVELT

By GLENN RAMSEY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Governor Talmadge, New Deal critic, said in a campaign speech today for the United States senate, he would "stand with President Roosevelt when I think he is right."

"And if I think he is wrong, I will stand up and fight when I think I am right," the Governor added.

Talmadge, opposing Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., spoke at Kennedy's Grove, about a mile and a half from the Dawson city limits.

He criticized members of the Roosevelt official family and many of the New Deal policies, describing his campaign as "a fight within the party to restore sanity in government."

"A fight to get back state sovereignty and away from a dangerous trend toward central control," the Governor added, "away from the frightful waste and burdensome tactics that are stopping progress.

Warns Wallace, Ickes.

"My opponent says I can't take my army and navy to Washington, but you just let Wallace (secretary of agriculture) and Ickes (secretary of the interior) go to fooling with me and I'll make them think there's an army up there.

"They are charging the millionaires are helping Talmadge. That's just a smoke screen to hide that great slush fund Jim Farley has. The hard working people of Georgia are the ones who are furnishing the Talmadge campaign fund."

He charged the Philadelphia national convention abolished the two-thirds rule "because Jim Farley wants to be the next nominee of the democratic party."

"The school book issue is just as dead as my opponent says the processing taxes are," Talmadge declared in saying he already had given free school books to the children of the state for this fall.

"When I went into office as governor," he continued, "I began looking around."

"What did you see?" someone in the crowd asked.

"I saw a great deal," Governor Talmadge replied. "I found that my opponent had sat in the governor's office for two years without raising his hand to lower freight rates, electric rates and bus rates."

Rate Cut Credit.

Referring to charges by Russell that he (Talmadge) was not responsible for lower electric rates, but that the reduction was due to the TVA, Talmadge said:

"The lower rates in Georgia were put in force six months before the TVA rates went into effect."

"Junior says one man can't do much up there in Washington," Talmadge said. "But if they don't listen to me I will ask my farmer friends throughout this country to pay for a radio hook up and I'll tell on 'em."

A farm woman in the audience shouted: "Tell 'em about it, Gene. Pour it into Dick."

"My opponent claims I am a republican," the Governor said. "He approved Ickes, a republican from Illinois; he approved a woman cabinet member who won't even take her husband's name, and she was a republican. He approved Wallace, from Iowa, another republican."

Benefits to Farmers.

Talmadge said the Roosevelt administration paid from $30 to $40 an acre not to plant certain crops in eastern and midwestern states, while some of the farmers present here today said they received from $4.75 to $17 an acre.

He renewed his attack on the social security act and its provision for old-age pensions, saying negroes would receive 90 per cent of the benefits.

"When my opponent answers that Georgia is a white man's country," he said, "I agree with him. Here in Georgia it is a white man's country, but when it comes out of Washington they'll send 32 negroes to the national convention, let one of them make a seconding speech and another lead it in prayer.

"If the people up north would leave the negroes alone we would have in Georgia a contented people."

Other candidates speaking were J. Ellis Pope, for lieutenant governor; Tom Linder, seeking re-election as commissioner of agriculture; J. B. (Tobe) Daniel for state treasurer; Clem Rainey, for prison commissioner, and Homer C. Parker, for comptroller general.

5 PERSONS ARRESTED IN NEWSPAPER STRIKE

Teamsters, Loggers and Longshoremen's Union Back Guild.

SEATTLE, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Police reported three persons beaten and five arrested today in disorders attending the strike of Newspaper Guild workers at the Post-Intelligencer.

Hundreds of pickets wearing symbols of the guild and the teamsters, loggers' and longshoremen's union kept the Post-Intelligencer building surrounded but there was no activity inside because the paper had suspended publication.

Both the Times and the Star editorially condemned Seattle labor leaders, charging they forced the Post-Intelligencer, a Hearst publication, to suspend.

Police said Harold H. Hiatt, 40, a guard at the newspaper building, had been beaten. Hospital attendants said his condition was "satisfactory" despite a serious head injury. Officers did not name the other two persons allegedly beaten.

Harry Mineken, 45, and Randolph Harrison, 33, truck drivers, were arrested after the alleged beating but released by orders from Mayor John F. Dore.

Don't Believe in Bail.

"I don't believe in bail, anyway," said Dore. "It ought to be abolished. These men will appear for trial. I know that."

The Star commented that the right of publication had been suppressed "by the force of a minority in its own interests."

The Times said:

"By the order of a labor leader, the Post-Intelligencer, Seattle's oldest newspaper, was compelled to suspend publication.

"Out of the quiescent fingers of a complacent mayor and chief of police slipped the government of this once great city. Today it rests in the firm hands of Dave Beck and his brawny crew of teamsters, loggers and longshoremen."

Guild Has Sympathy.

Beck, president of the joint council of teamsters, said earlier in the day the presence of teamsters in the newspaper picket line did not mean the council had any connection with the strike. He said he sympathized as a labor leader with the attempts of the Post-Intelligencer staff to organize but that he felt the strike should be settled through conferences rather than violence.

The Post-Intelligencer, in a statement, blamed the situation on its discharge of two editorial employes "one for inefficient and wasteful methods, the other for gross insubordination."

The guild issued a statement saying:

"Heart fired two veteran members of the Post-Intelligencer staff for activity in organizing a local chapter of the American Newspaper Guild. Immediately the guild's battle for the reinstatement of "Slim" (Frank) Lynch and Everhardt Armstrong became organized labor's battle."

PROPERTY LIEN FILED AGAINST MRS. CAPONE

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The government today filed notice of a lien against property of Mrs. Mae Capone for $51,498.08 in income tax claimed as due from Al Capone, her husband and imprisoned Chicago gangster.

In extending the lien to Mrs. Capone, the Internal Revenue Department followed its usual procedure, agents here explained, where assets belonging to one person may have been transferred to another to evade payment of taxes.

Mrs. Capone was not at her Palm Island estate in Biscayne bay when a copy of the lien notice was delivered there. Other copies were recorded in federal and state courts.

Capone, now serving an 11-year sentence in Alcatraz prison for tax evasion, also is required to pay the tax and penalties. The $51,498.08 represents the claimed tax, penalties and interest for 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

WPA AID WILL ATTEND TECHWOOD'S OPENING

Col. Horatio B. Hackett Notiffies Mayor Key of Plans.

Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, assistant WPA housing administrator, yesterday informed Mayor Key he will come to Atlanta and participate in the dedication of Techwood low cost federal housing project here September 1.

In a letter to Key, his personal friend, Hackett stated he will attempt to arrange his schedule so he can be present when Techwood, the first federal low cost housing project in the nation, is formally opened for occupancy.

A portion of Colonel Hackett's letter read:

"I feel particularly interested in this project because it is the first one actively started during my time as dirrector of housing. I congratulate Atlanta on having this wonderful development and trust it will bring much joy and happiness to those of your citizens who may be privileged to dwell in it."

As Atlanta families begin moving into the new Techwood homes this morning, the Roosevelt administration's three-year, $131,000,000 program to provide modern, comfortable homes for slum dwellers becomes a reality.

Atlanta's new model housing development is the first of 50 slum clearance projects now under way. For the first time in history, Uncle Sam is playing landlord to wage-earning families.

Families that will reside in Techwood, which replaces a slum area, earn around $20 to $30 a week. PWA officials plan to move in 24 families the first week, and 100 a week thereafter until the 11-block development of buildings and parks is full.

Of the $131,000,000 spent on the 50 projects now under way, 45 per cent is a government grant and the remaining 55 per cent is a loan which will be returned to the Treasury through collection of rents over a period of 20 years.

Although republican critics of the projects have contended the rents to be charged for the homes are too high for slum families, housing officials state surveys conducted in Atlanta show they will be paying only slightly more for modern, sanitary homes than they have for dwellings without conveniences.

SIX NEGROES ARE HELD IN MISSISSIPPI SLAYING

WESSON, Miss., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Copiah county officers were holding six negro suspects for questioning tonight in their investigation of the robbery-slaying last night of Sam Flynn, 27, and his 18-year-old wife, an expectant mother.

The blood-soaked bodies of Flynn and his pretty blonde wife, clad only in underclothing, were found by a negro helper, Wade Hampton, early today.

Sheriff W. E. Hester arrested Earl Joiner and "Slim" Ross, negroes, and held them for "further investigation" after the officer said they admitted they were at Flynn's modest country home last night shortly before shots were heard in the neighborhood. Four other negroes were being detained, but had not been booked.

BAXLEY CROWD HEARS ADDRESS BY RIVERS

BAXLEY, Ga., Aug. 14.—E. D. Rivers, candidate for governor, spoke today to a large crowd in front of the Appling county courthouse here while standing on a flag-draped truck, on which was a bale of cotton donated by his Appling county friends. The cotton was auctioned off and sold for 20 cents a pound, to go to his campaign expenses. Rivers was introduced by Mayor H. C. McCrackin, of Baxley, who was introduced by G. A. Ray, Appling county representative in the general assembly.

E. T. Kennedy, 90-year-old Confederate veteran, who has been a member of the Appling county school board for 65 years, and who saw Sherman's army during its march from Atlanta to the sea, made a speech indorsing Rivers and his stand for old-age pensions and free school books.

A large motorcade, led by W. L. Veal, of Baxley, met at Reidsville and escorted Rivers to Baxley. En route 150 farmers and women met Rivers at W. W. Stanley's store in Toombs county and pledged their support. A large motorcade delegation attended from the north as far as Sumter county, east as far as Chatham, and west and south to the Alabama and Florida lines.

Mr. Rivers said:

"If I am elected governor, after January 1, 1937, we will have old-age pensions for our old people; free school books for every white child through high school grades, full-length terms of school for the county children and every route in the state highway system."

"After I am nominated on September 9, I intend to stump every doubtful state as governor-elect of Georgia in the interest of the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt to let the people of the nation know that Georgia, his southern home, is loyally behind the President."

The reaction of the voters here indicates Rivers has strong support in Appling county.

Representatives of other counties were in Baxley to hear Rivers, among them being Glenn Thomas, of Jesup, supporters from Coffee county, and some visitors from as far away as Dalton. Several who attended school with him at Young Harris were in the crowd.

Although millions of sheep have been bought and sold on the basis of judging age by the animals' teeth, a test of 2,300 sheep in Montana indicates that the usual rules for such judging are too simple—"the teeth tend to get ahead of the old schedule" and there is considerable variation.

WE'LL MEET AGAIN

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

INSTALLMENT XXI.

It was snowing when Gay came out of the shop. It settled on her hair and shoulders. Ride or walk, she wondered. Better walk. It saved a dime and it was good to walk in the fresh clean air even when life opposed you at every turn. She might have been Alan's wife now, she thought, edging her way through the heavy evening crowds, and Lucia would never wear that exquisite dress nor Alan give a bachelor dinner. She might have been Alan's wife with Lucia's ring on her finger had not that picture, "Night in Nassau," cleared the mist in her mind and recalled Chris.

Crossing the street, she paused, looking through the thick flakes and she heard her name, "Gay! Gay!" and a long foreign car stopped.

Millicent Randolph, luxurious in mink, cried, "Oh, my dear, get in this minute!" She opened the door and Gay got in. "I went to the shop and you were gone. I'm not taking you home, my dear. I'm taking you to my apartment. You look positively frozen."

Frozen, shabby and discouraged, she thought, "I look like a working girl now. My clothes show hard wear. Only my hair is bright these days. That, at least, hasn't lost its lustre."

The roaring fire felt good. A maid brought in tea and little sandwiches, and looked a moment in wonderment at the slim young girl curled up on the sofa dressed so simply in a brown skirt and yellow sweater.

Millicent changed into a mauve tea gown.

"Gay, stop being a martyr, my child. Gregg is so much in love with you that since you refused him with that terrific honesty of yours, he's been going at a mad pace trying to forget. Frankly, I'm afraid for him. So many girls, you know, are anxious to marry Gregg's money, but not Gregg himself. I don't want that to happen to my boy. I want him to marry the girl he loves."

"We can do so much for you, dear. I feel close to you. I loved your father very dearly and I love Diana. When I saw you today, caught up in the crowds, picking your way across the street in the snow . . .oh, my dear, not Stephen's precious daughter.

Gay's eyes filled. Millicent said, "You've been very brave to carry on this long alone. Won't you love my son a little? I want my son to marry Stephen's daughter. Gay I want to see you bright and lovely—as you were meant to be."

This room. How peaceful it was. Not cluttered or disorderly as the little studio was. She could live in a room like this. There was no confusion in this life, no awakening out of a tired sound sleep by the shrill cry of an alarm, no hurriedly prepared breakfasts eaten with one eye on the clock, no impatient, jostling crowds . . . There was peace and order and refinement in this life offered to her by a woman who loved her and a man who wanted to marry her.

She took a deep breath and smiled sadly. "Do you want Gregg to marry a failure who ran into his arms because she wasn't big enough to face her own problems?"

"They're too big for you, child."

Gay smiled again and met Millicent's wise, tolerant eyes. "They're mine. I'm stuck with them and I won't run out on them. It will hurt Gregg more to know he married a girl who doesn't love him than if I never see him again." Her eyes softened. "You've been wonderful."

"I won't urge you," Millicent said.

Gay had been gone only a little while when Gregg came.

"I saw Gay. She was here," Millicent said. "Poor child." She looked at her tall blond son. "Gay will have to touch deeper depths than she has touched yet before she'll marry you. She'll have to be—licked."

"That won't be quite fair," he said.

She smiled. "Love rarely is, my dear. Be patient."

Gay's shoulders were covered with snow when she opened the door of the studio.

Penny came toward her. "Gay I have to tell you this. They—they took Diana to the hospital. She's had a nervous breakdown."

They would not let Gay see her mother the first week and she went about in a kind of coma scarcely realizing that she was eating and sleeping and working. Mixed with her fears for Diana's life was the constant thought of money. She did not know how she could pay the hospital and specialist's bills, and she wondered how, without Diana's small salary, she would pay her share of the rent and other expenses of the studio.

At dinner Penny said, "I have a little money saved, Gay. It's yours."

"I can't take your money, Penny. You want to take a cruise this summer and you've worked hard." Her mouth, usually red and curving, was grim. Diana in the hospital prostrate and ill! The thought tore at her.

"Have I failed Mother in any way, Penny?" She looked up from a dinner plate she had scarcely touched. "I mhight fail other people but never her. I'm helpless and tied. She can never work again. How am I going to support her when I can do nothing except what I'm doing now? I've seen her fighting this, and there was nothing I could say or do."

Tired as she was she could not sleep. She looked this way and that and barred doors met her.

Gay had phoned Patti the night their mother was taken to the hospital but Patti and Richard were out of Washington on a motor trip. The butler was noncommittal. He did not know where they had gone or when they would return.

She went to see Marchand.

"What is is this time?" he asked sharply. "I'm busy and . . ."

Gay put her hands on his desk. Her eyes had never been more deeply blue. There was a desperate nede in them. Sh looked thinnr. The knitted dress hung loosely on her.

"My mother is in the hospital and I've got to have more money." She hurried on . . . "I've been here months and I've worked hard. I'm trained now and being paid considerably less than the others. Can't you . . ."

"Can I be a good Samaritan to the girls who work for me? No, Miss Van Avery, I can't. If I did, I wouldn't have a business."

"But can't you understand?" Her voice broke a little. "I'll do anything, anything, but I've got to have some money. I haven't spared anything for my mother. I'm giving her the best. But I don't know how . . ."

"And so you come to me." He folded his hands. "You're too proud to go to your friends. Miss Baring wouldn't refuse you. She's spending a fortune on her trousseau. And Mrs. Randolph and her son . . ."

"I'd much rather be obligated to my employer."

"You think I'm a villain, don't you? But I'm only a businessman." He nodded. "All right. I'll give you a $5-a-week increase, although I can't see how that will help you very much."

"It will help some. I'm very grateful."

When she left he said to his secretary, "There's only one way out for her. I have to lose her. She's a good model. And the one way out for her is something most girls would jump at. She's an odd girl."

The first time she was permitted to see iDana her face showed none of the emotion she felt. Was this Diana, this thin, pale, wasted little woman lying in bed? Was this the charming hostess of silky white hair who had made her court debut when she was young and who had entertained every celebrity who had come to New York in the past two decades?

"Darling," said Diana, stretching out a thin white hand, "I have missed you so much and worried about you."

Don't cry, Gay thought. Are there any tears left in you? Smile and be cheerful. Don't let her know . . .

"Penny and I . . . miss your good dinners," she said hoarsely, "and the little scotties look lonesome. You—you'll have to hurry and get well. Penny has some new pictures she wants to show you and—and," she paused, feeling Diana's fingers grip hers, "it—it's getting to be spirng outside, darling, and this summer, . . ."

Diana merely looked at her with complete understanding.

The next time Gay went to the hospital there was a large bouquet of spring flowers next to the red roses she had been sending every day. In spite of everything, there had to be a touch of color and beauty in a room as dead-white as Diana herself.

"Aren't my flowers lovely?" Diana asked. 'I had to think a moment who the sender was."

Gay looked at the card. Gordon Bannister.

"He never missed his afternoon tea," Diana said.

"I remember him now."

Each day she hurried from the shop to the hospital, trying to close her mind to the hostility of the shop and Diana's illness and the pressing bills that were like a weight upon her.

It was spring now. Bright colors punctuated the avenue. To take some of the dreariness out of her heart she wore an impudent green hat and a yellow tweed suit the day she met Gordon Bannister visiting her mother at the hospital.

Sunlight streamed through the windows of Diana's room. It seemed to give Gay's eyes a new warmth. Flowers that she had sent and those Gordon had sent gave a cheerful note.

Diana was like a white-haired fragile doll on the very white bed.

"I've been away," Gordon Bannister said. "I didn't know your mother was ill."

"The flowers you've been sending are very lovely," said Gay.

Diana looked rested and peaceful as she looked proudly at her daughter. How sweet and gallant Gay had been! She had not said a word about the staggering bills that must be piling up! Not a word except cheer and comfort. Did she still love Alan? Did she think of Chris? How safe she'd be if she could love Gregg!

Gay knew that afternoon that her mother liked Gordon Bannister though she wondered about him. Beneath his humor, his quick mind, there was a burden she could not penetrate. White was mixed with the black of his hair and htough his brown eyes had experience and wisdom in them, his smile was youthful.

When he drove her back to the studio and said casually, "I was in the war," she knew that the war had given his eyes wisdom. There is something in the eyes of every man who was in the war. They have looked so often upon death and if they were fortunate enough to come out of it alive, it has given them spirituality and tolerance.

Very often she found him with her mother during the days that followed. Humor was an effort for her. With Lucia's wedding day and the night of the charity ball drawing closer and the desk in the studio piled high with bills, ner strength and humor were drained from her. Gordon could make Diana smile with stories of the places he'd been and the people he'd met.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Never give advice to an outdoor cook.

People who feel that they know all about open fires and outdoor cooking should never be crossed while plying their art. They are potential maniacs. There's something peculiar about cooking a steak over logs which gets into their blood and makes them obstinate, cocksure, authoritative, and unwieldy.

Men are especially easy victims of the malady. You have to watch them. A husband who seems very gentle at home, and who never says a word about the way you cook a steak on the gas stove, will suddenly develop into a harsh-tongued man of the woods when faced with an open fire.

There's nothing to be done about these people except to let them have their way on picnics. And when there are two of them on the same picnic, try to delegate the duties—fire-building to one, and steak-cooking to the other. Then keep your distance. They may disagree.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Today is the birthdate of two noted men, Napoleon Bonaparte and Sir Walter Scott. Both have been dead for a long while, but one lives in blood-stained pages of history and the other lives in the pages of the books he wrote.

Napoleon was born on August 15, 1769, on the island of Corsica which juts up from the sea between France and northern Italy. At the age of 10, he was placed in a school where he began to learn to be a soldier.

The years passed, and as a young man he came to be a corporal in the French army. Later he rose to other offices. The French revolution broke out, and he was put at the head of the armies of the new republic.

Some leaders of the republic did not trust him. They feared that after winning victories on the battlefield he would try to make himself master of France, perhaps king or emperor. Those men were right. Napoleon seized power, and made himself emperor.

After becoming emperor, Napoleon won many other victories, but he came to grief when he invaded Russia. He led more than half a million soldiers into Russia, and pushed ahead as far as Moscow, thinking he might spend the winter there. The Russians, however, burned their great city, and the men of Napoleon did not have good shelter for the season of bitter cold. Back went Napoleon, and back went some of his troops. Only about 25,000 were left of the big army which had tried to conquer the Russians—the rest had died of cold, hunger or disease, had been killed by enemy bullets, or had deserted.

Not long afterward, Napoleon led armies in the Battle of the Nations, and in the Battle of Waterloo. Both times he was defeated, and both times thousands of men lost their lives. Napoleon's last years were spent as a prisoner on the island of St. Helena.

Far different was the life of Sir Walter Scott. He was born just two years later than Napoleon.

Scott's father wanted him to become a lawyer, and the youth studied law at Edinburgh. He became an attorney, but his heart was not in the work. He wanted to write. At the age of 34 his first famous work came from the press, a poem called "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." That was followed by "Marmion" and the "Lady of the Lake."

Scott later wrote historical novels which were widely read. Among these were "Ivanhoe," "Kenilworth" and "The Talisman."

Scott's writings have given much pleasure to people of the earth. When we think of that, we may feel that the man who wrote was greater than the man who dealt in war.

BALANCED FARM PLAN IS SEEN FOR GEORGIA

Chapman Says Diversified Program To Follow Athens Session.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Because of interest manifest in farm problems during the University of Georgia's farm and home week which closed today, Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the College of Agriculture, expressed the opinion the state is moving rapidly toward adequate agricultural development.

"We know that all efforts the college and co-operating agencies are exerting for a balanced program are having amazing influence, particularly with reference to livestock," Dean Chapman said.

"Farmers themselves firmly convinced me of this here this week. In the last few days I have also received letters which prove that Georgia is making great progress."

He said the program for breeding work stock on farms has gone forward unusually fast since its inception here at the college two years ago. A letter received yesterday from the United States Department of Agriculture announced that a southern conference on such projects will be held shortly, he said, adding:

"Already there are strong programs being promoted out of Augusta and Albany for progress with livestock. Now it is understood that the Macon Chamber of Commerce will soon organize a middle Georgia movement."

Dean Chapman said there is not one major Chamber of Commerce in Georgia which is not promoting livestock and that the College of Agriculture featured it during farm and home week because of prevailing interest "and because of the possibilities it offers for a better rural life."

"In this program, the college is stressing breeding work stock on the farm because it is needless for Georgia farmers to import mules. We are raising colts on the college farm so others can do the same thing."

Farmers studied feeds for livestock and poultry in a final farm and home week session for men. Women completed a short course on conservation and outstanding 4-H Club boys and girls studied wild life.

TRIAL DATE SET IN HOWE SLAYING

Brown Brothers Are To Get Hearing on September 14 in Dallas Court.

DALLAS, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Court officials today set September 14 for trial of Worth and Pinson Brown, brothers, in what the state terms the vengeance slaying of Harry P. Howe.

Howe was shot to death on the courthouse lawn here this week as officers led him from jail toward the courtroom for trial on a charge of killing his wife, sister of the Browns.

Officers said the brothers stepped from behind a cedar shrub and fired on Howe. He fell mortally wounded with six bullets in his body.

THOMAS B. YOUNG, 82, EX-LEGISLATOR, DIES

TIFTON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Funeral services were held at Brushy Creek church, in Irwin county, today for Thomas Beatty Young, 82, retired businessman of south Georgia and Florida. He died here wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. A. Youmans.

Young was a native of Irwin county and lived there for 50 years. He was prominent in business, and served also as ordinary of the county, and as state representative.

In 1904 he moved to West Florida and engaged in the naval stores business. He was instrumental in creation of Bay county, Florida, and was one of its first county commissioners.

He retired seven years ago and moved to Tifton to make his home.

MRS. W. T. THOMPSON PASSES AT QUITMAN

QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 14.—Mrs. W. T. Thompson, 72, died here this afternoon after a long illnes. She was formerly Miss Josephine Wade, daughter of Seaborn Wade, of Savannah, and her late husband was a son of the editor of the Morning News, Wall T. Thompson.

The family moved to Quitman about 30 years ago and was prominent in business and social life.

Mrs. Thompson is survived by two daughters, Miss Lila Thompson, of Quitman; Mrs. Walter Williams, of Haddock, and a son, Peyton Thompson, of Waynesboro. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. R. C. McCall, of Union, S. C., and Mrs. Fletcher Smith, of Savannah, and Quitman.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been announced.

RIVER PROJECTS TALKED AT ALBANY

Improvement of Flint and Chattahoochee Discussed by Group.

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Businessmen from three states met here today to formulate plans for gathering data on the Flint and Chattahoochee rivers preparatory to a hearing October 1 on a project which will include the development of these rivers for navigation.

C. L. Willis, president of the Carrabelle Civic Club, who was in charge of the meeting, said the meeting was also in the interest of the development of a port at Carrabelle.

The district office hearing on the port project will be closed August 15, Mr. Willis said. The hearing in Washington on the project will be held by September 1.

The importance of a free port which will serve the inland waterway system has been emphasized repeatedly at former meetings in the interests of these projects.

FINE PRICES ARE PAID FOR HIGH-GRADE LEAF

Most Growers Still Have Bulk of Crop To Sell, Is Belief.

TIFTON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Common and poor grades of tobacco appeared on the market here in greater quantities today. Good tobacco still commanded prices ranging up to 40 cents a pound and better. One pile of 174 pounds sold for 50 cents a pound.

From offerings on the floor this week, it was apparent that many growers were winding up their sales for the season, but most growers are believed by warehousemen to have the bulk of their crop to sell. Sales are expected to be heavy through next week.

Sales through Wednesday, including resales, were more than 600,000 pounds ahead of the 1935 season, amounting to 6,028,504 pounds at an average of 24.99, against 5,410,956, at an average of 23.55, for the 1935 period.

VALDOSTA WAREROOMS FILLED TO CAPACITY

The Tobacco Board of Trade reported 629,326 pounds sold yesterday for $139,334, an average of 22.14 cents a pound.

Much low grade tobacco was on the floors. Better grades remained in brisk demand at prices ranging from 25 to more than 40 cents a pound.

MANY TIPS APPEAR AT MOULTRIE MARKET

MOULTRIE, Ga., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Appearance of large quantities of tips, a low grade of tobacco, brought the average price down on the Moultrie market yesterday. The Tobacco Board of Trade reported sales of 686,636 pounds at an average of 19.13 cents a pound.

Warehouses continued crowded today. Most good tobacco in this area apparently has been sold.

BIG GAIN REPORTED IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

Official at Macon Session Says Increase Reflects Prosperity Return.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 14.—Calling attention to a tremenrous increase in postal receipts during the last year, J. W. Cole, deputy second assistant postmaster general, told Georgia postmasters here today that the increases were evidence of a return to prosperity. He was one of the first speakers at the Georgia meeting, at which a Georgia chapter will be formed.

Mr. Cole flew down from Washington to discuss the President's new civil service order concerning United States postmasters and the improved airmail service. He also stressed the value of organization among the postmasters of the state.

The two-day meeting which was called to order by State Director Wylie West, Decatur, this afternoon, was welcomed by Mayor Smart, Postmaster W. A. Pattillo and Lee S. Trimble, manager of the chamber of Commerce. Dr. Ed F. Cook pronounced the invocation.

A telegram from William A. McCarthy, of San Francisco, who is president of the National Association of Postmasters, was read by Mr. West expressing hope for the organization of a big chapter here.

During the session, a charter is to be adopted and officers elected. Plans call for a president, two vice presidents, secretary and treasurer and 10 directors, one from each congressional district.

Today's session was followed by a dinner and dance tonight.

The closing session will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and several speakers will be heard.

MANY ELKS JOIN WAYCROSS LODGE

After the initiation of the "Dave Sholtz" class of Waycross Elks, a wild duck supper and dance were held.

Governor Sholtz received an official welcome from Frank McDonald Jr., city attorney. Sholtz visit here launches a tour of the south and east to cover a month's period.

CARTERSVILLE RITES FOR JOHN R. ROBERTS

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14.—John R. Roberts, prominent Cartersville citizen and for years a court stenographer, died in a Rome hospital last night after a short illness. Mr. Roberts was stricken Thursday morning and rushed to Rome, where he died that night.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. W. W. Roberts, of Cartersville; three brothers, Wesley and Sam Roberts, of Cartersville, and T. M. Roberts, of West Point, and one sister, Mrs. L. T. McCollum, of Cartersville.

Funeral services were held from the home this afternoon. Rev. Sam Millsaps officiated. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

BROOKS RATE REDUCED.

QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 14.—The tax rate in Brooks county has been reduced two mills by the commissioners and will be 12 mills instead of 14 mills. This was made possible by the refunding of highway certificates by the state. Brooks has $360,000 in these certificates and will get a refund of $36,000 per year for 10 years. The digest for 1936 shows a property return of $5,030,818.

New Search for Redfern Plane Is Mapped

1,000 Executed by Rebel Forces In Badajoz, Include 100 Women

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mass executions of prisoners and slaughter by incendiary airplane bombs were stories of horrors told tonight by refugees from Spain.

The correspondent of Diario Noticias reported from Rosa De La Fronteria that rebel forces entered the town of Almendralejo in Badajoz province and executed more than 1,000 militiamen, including about 100 women, who supported the Madrid government.

The city of Badajoz, held by government fighters, was said to be in flames but still resisting the rebel attack.

Refugees pouring across the border into Portugal by the thousands said 19 incendiary bombs were dropped on Badajoz by rebel airplanes.

Observers in the fortified frontier town of Elvas, Portugal, witnessed the blazing bombardment.

Men identified with the Madrid government were arrested and disarmed as they crossed the border, but women and children were allowed to go free.

A major who commanded the government guards at Badajoz was among the refugees taken before the Elvas military government where he described the horrors of the bombardment.

Most of the victims were women, children and old people, he said.

The governor of Badajoz also was reported to be among the refugees. He was taken to a hospital suffering a heart attack and vowed never again to return to Spain.

Members of the Portugese Radio Club announced it had learned the Madrid government was endeavoring to obtain mediation through a foreign power.

The president of the club said the information was obtained from secretaries in Spanish embassies who recently resigned.

COUGHLIN CONVENTION SPLITS OVER LEMKE

"Banking a Racket."

The community banker, he said, has "a swell racket" under the federal reserve system.

Harold H. Burton, chairman of the credentials committee, reported that 7,645 delegates and alternates had been certified to the convention.

Father Coughlin's first appearance was the signal for a 15-minute outburst of cheering and, as the day wore on, the delegates seized every opportunity for showing their enthusiasm for him.

One such opportunity came when the radio priest declared:

"America hasn't failed, nor has the constitution, but it is sad to remark that sometimes Americans fail to preserve the constitution."

Holt Applauded.

The youthful Holt, "baby" of the senate at 31, evoked prolonged applause when, in discussing Father Coughlin's stand for abolition of the federal reserve system, he cried:

"The money changers have not been driven from the temple."

President Roosevelt arrived in Cleveland for a four-hour stay at about the time the convention opened.

Senator Holt, a critic of the Roosevelt relief policies, renewed his attack on Harry L. Hopkins, saying to the convention:

"Let me tell you that the WPA, as administered by Harry Hopkins, is one of the most disgraceful episodes in American history.

"I will not accept this wrong within my own party, whether it is my party or not. Millions of dollars of this fund for the needy of America have gone for political purposes—distributed to the bosses."

The West Virginia senator assailed what he called "the gouging of consumers and investors by utility interests.

"Not only," he said, "have they taken their toll from those who consume or invest but these same interests have invaded our elections in order that they might control those who make and administer the laws regulating utilities."

Bryan Quoted.

Holt quoted William Jennings Bryan in opposition to the federal reserve system, saying he could not comment better than did Bryan when he said that "the federal reserve banks that should have been the farmers' greatest protection has become his greatest foe."

"We cannot have prosperity," said Holt, "as long as the farmers of America cannot purchase, and those farmers cannot purchase as long as they have no money to spend and are confronted with the unparalleled mortgage debt which takes every penny of their money."

Some persons advocate a constitutional amendment so that wages and hours can be regulated, he said, "yet those so-called great friends of labor have not submitted a constitutional amendment on fair wages and long hours."

He predicted "more members of congress will be for the Frazier-Lemke bill in the next session than in the last. The farmer wants relief and the American people are going to give it to him."

Youth Problem.

Allen Blackburn, of Detroit, a member of the national union staff, who was announced as a speaker for the "youth of America," asked the convention:

"Are we, the youth of America, supposed to listen while the crooner of Hyde Park sings his broken record song of 'I Promise You, I Promise You'?

"The young men and young women of America are sick and tired of politics and politicians," Blackburn said. "We are sick of platforms, platitudes and promises, and of the men who talk and never act."

Father Coughlin in a surprise second appearance before the convention, declared, "I do not advocate the nationalization of banks and I never did advocate printing press money."

"I wish to give our feelings on the money issue once and for all," the priest declared.

Never Advocated Inflation.

"First, I do not advocate the nationalization of banks and never did. Secondly, I do not believe in inflation. I do not believe in printing press money. I have never advocated inflation of printing press money.

"Thirdly, I do not believe in the gold standard any more than I believe in a pig standard.

"Fourthly, I do not believe in licensing private individuals to create money.

"Fifthly, I do not believe in the practice of usury. Today, you cannot be a Christian and believe in the practice of usury.

"Sixthly, I cannot subscribe to the present existence, with its present setup, of the federal reserve banks because they are usurious."

CASA LOMA'S OWNER RAPS 'DOUBLE-CROSS'

Reeves Issues and Answers List of Questions for Prosecutor.

GULFPORT, Miss., Aug. 14.—Clay Reeves, who built the Casa Loma club near Conley, nine miles from Atlanta, which was raided in the early morning of July 31 while he was in Fort Worth, Texas, for medical treatment, tonight issued a list of questions directed to Solicitor General Claude Smith, of the Stone Mountain district, whom he claims had assured him the club would not be raided.

Reeves' Questions.

The questions, prepared in the third person, follow:

"Did he previously say he was trying to ascertain who the owners of Casa Loma were?"

"Did he know that Grady Moore acknowledged 20 per cent ownership at the hearing before Judge Davis when he placed Judge O. G. Coogler on the stand, followed by Judge Coogler's client, Moore, who admitted the interest?"

"Did he ever meet Clay Reeves?

"How long did he discuss the club with Reeves in his private office at the DeKalb county courthouse in Decatur?"

"Did he welcome Reeves to his office or home at any hour?"

"Did he draw a map of streets locating house 948 for Reeves' convenience?"

"If these are facts, who is the 'unmitigated liar'?"

"Double-Cross."

"There may be persons who do not know the meaning of 'unmitigated,' Reeves commented. "But all know the meaning of double-cross."

Reeves invites a comparison of Smith's replies to his own, which follows:

"He did know who owned Casa Loma.

"He did meet Clay Reeves.

"He did discuss with Reeves the building and operation of Casa Loma for three hours in his private office in the DeKalb county courthouse.

"He did welcome Reeves to his office or home at any hour.

"He did draw a map showing Reeves how to get to 948.

"He did say he was not a policeman and would not raid Casa Loma."

Reeves climaxed his queries and replies by saying Smith had ruined him financially, but could not keep him from telling the truth by threatening him with a liquor law indictment.

CLAYTON MAY INDICT CASA LOMA OPERATOR

Groundwork for the Clayton county grand jury investigation of the Casa Loma night club operations took definite shape yesterday as Solicitor General Smith announced his determination to have Clay Reeves, proprietor of the club, indicted Monday.

Smith, incensed by Reeves' charges of a double-crossing by the solicitor, announced:

"Certainly he shall be indicted. I don't know on just what charges other than liquor charges, but we shall place all the evidence we are able to collect before the grand jury, and indictments will be forthcoming."

Smith, in a supplementary statement denying Reeves' charges of immunity promised him by the solicitor, said:

"The Stone Mountain circuit has been for years one of the cleanest places in Georgia, and I am glad to have had a part in making it so. This is not the first time professional gamblers and bootleggers have hollered when caught."

Sheriff E. L. Adamson, of Clayton county, in a checkup yesterday of the 28 cooks, bartenders, waiters and croupiers caught in the raid, announced that six have paid their fines and been released; seven were released on suspended sentences; five have made bond and ten are still in jail.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Dolores Back on Screen, Featuring Fox Film

Dolores Costello Barrymore has come back to the screen, costarring with George Raft in the hit picture, "Yours for the Asking," now showing at the Fox.

It is another of the gambler-society pictures but entirely different in that "Yours for the Asking" stars two of the screen's best and boasts a supporting cast that includes Jimmy Gleason, Lynne Overman, Ida Lupino, "Skeets" Gallagher, Reginald Owen and Edgar Kennedy.

Comedy prevails as the "little gambler," George Raft, begins to get big-time ambitions and tries to crash the 400 with the aid of the society queen Dolores. All works well until his partners begin to fear Dolores means more to their friend than just a stepping stone. Then they introduce Miss Lupino to the boss after instructing her to make him fall hard. She succeeds—for a while—and Raft begins taking etiquette lessons from Dolores.

You guess the end.

"Yours for the Asking" is an excellent show and well worth seeing. Dolores has lost none of her charm and is found to be still very alluring. It's a great new team with the big-time gambler losing to Mr. Cupid.

Also featured at the Fox this week is Sam Allen, the former Atlanta theater doorman, who has mede good singing with the Olsen and Johnson revue. He sings as Homer Knowles plays the organ. —T.W.

"His Brother's Wife" Opens Week at Grand

Feminine hearts are in for another thrill this week as Robert Taylor makes love to beautiful Barbara Stanwyck in "His Brother's Wife," the current attraction at Loew's Grand.

Taylor gives an excellent portrayal of a young scientist who gives up love for his work and then comes back wanting love. But the girl, whom he loves, married his brother while he was in the African jungles—for spite.

Barbara again interprets the role of a beautiful girl in the tropics and wears her masculine clothes to the best advantage. Her fight to regain her lost lover is well enacted.

Jean Hersholt, Joseph Calleia and John Elredge (the brother) head an unusually good supporting cast. The picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, the man who made "San Francisco."

As the film opens, Taylor, scheduled to leave with a party for a scientific search, meets Barbara and falls in love with her and she with him. His brother, Eldredge, persaudes him to leave the girl, rather than ruin his chances of becoming a great scientist.

Barbara, knowing the only reason she is separated from her lover is because Eldredge wants her for himself, swears to make him regret sending her lover away. Revengeful, she marries the brother and leaves him on their wedding day. Taylor comes back—but spurns her because she is "his brother's wife."

JEWISH CONGRESS NAMES AMERICANS

Rabbi Stephen Wise Elected Chairman of Executive Committee.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Americans were named today to the four most important posts in the permanent organization of the World Jewish Congress.

Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, first president of the American Jewish Congress when it was founded during the the war, was nominated honorary president. There will be no president.

Rabmbi Stephen S. Wise, chairman of the American Jewish Congress and president of the Zionist Organization of America, was named chairman of the executive committee, which will direct the congress' affairs.

Louis Lipsky, vice president of the American Jewish Congress, was nominated for chairmanship of the central council, which will act between biennial congress sessions and supervise the executive committee.

Louis Sturz, chairman of the finance committee of the American Jewish Congress, was named treasurer.

Formal ratification of the names, unanimously offered by the nominating committee, was deferred when the congress adjourned. Their election, however, was regarded a formality.

SLEEPING S. C. COUPLE KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

ROCK HILL, S. C., Aug. 14.—(AP) A prowler entered the home of Arch Nunn and his wife in a mill village today and beat them into unconsciousness while they slept.

There was no apparent attempt at robbery, police said.

Mrs. Nunn regained consciousness and called police.

Physicians said they expected both Nunn and his wife to recover.

MARY ROUNTREE COX SINGS IN CAPITAL PLAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A Georgia singer, Mary Rountree Cox, a native of Summit, Ga., is in the cast of Gene Ford's production of "Going Native," which opened at Loew's Capitol theater here today.

A graduate of Agnes Scott College, Miss Cox appeared in the "Sextette from Lucia," and other numbers of the current production. The Georgia soprano is a veteran of concert work in New York and Georgia and appeared here for a season as soloist of the George Washington glee club.

Rialto Has Star Cast In 'Meet Nero Wolfe'

Edward Arnold surpasses, if possible, his excellent portrayal of "Diamond Jim Brady" in his most recent picture, "Meet Nero Wolfe," now showing at the Rialto theater.

Nero Wolfe is the most fascinating screen detective character we have witnessed in months. This jovial, beer-imbibing professional criminologist, though confined to his home, gathers the broken threads of a sensational murder plot, pieces them together as he would a jigsaw puzzle, sends out his stooge, and solves the murder after tricking the murderer into his own home.

Columbia, in turning out one of its best productions, has gathered together a perfect cast which includes Joan Perry, Victory Jory, Dennie Moore, Nana Bryant and Russell Hardie.

And to satisfy those who like a love story in their shows, there is the delightful little romance between Joan Perry and Victory Jory.

Actually three murders are committed in this thrilling and humorous mystery, but they are all solved by our hero, Mr. Wolfe, who sips his beer, maps his campaign, and sends out Stander to bring home the guilty party.

To those who enjoyed "Diamond Jim Brady," this show will be exceptionally interesting, for Arnold, always capable of a good performance, seemingly has outdone himself in putting all he has in "Meet Nero Wolfe." You'll want to make his acquaintance. —L. W.

New Paramount Film An Enticing Concoction

Add a dash of laughter, pour in a bit of underworld action, mix well with love and adventure, a beautiful lady and a handsome man. Your new concoction is the same that Dashiell Hammett got—"Satan Met a Lady," playing this week at the Paramount.

Bette Davis, at her best in a role characterized by humorous sophistication, is the leader of a band of croons who are trying to get possession of an ivory trumpet, presumed to have belonged to Roland, legendary hero of French history, and to be filled with a fabulous fortune of jewels.

Miss Davis, in her quest for fortune, stops at nothing—not even murder. She, naturally very beautiful, uses her charms to get men to help her secure the coveted trumpet. After double-crossing the other members of the gang, this fortune-mad lady engages a private detective to shadow one of her fellow conspirators in order to get him out of the way and throw the blame on the detectives.

Enter Mr. William. His is a role of few scruples and less morals. He takes advantage of the fact he is personally attractive to women and works his way into their confidence to obtain choice bits of personal secrets and habits. He ends up solving the mystery that has stumped police—to save his own hide—and then turns over to the police one of the girls to whom he has made love.

'REAL HOLIDAY' SPENT AT EXPOSITION—F.D.R.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt visited Cleveland and the Great Lakes Exposition today on what he termed "a real holiday" in the midst of his tour of flood areas.

"A great many people in this country are entitled to a good time after what they have been through," he said in gala mood at an informal luncheon address before leaving for Chautauqua, N. Y., for a speech on foreign affairs.

Mr. Roosevelt said his efforts to see personally "some of the work caused, not by depression, but by what we used to call the act of God," had led him to believe the country fully recognizes the great problems created by such catastrophes as floods and drouth.

"All these catastrophes affect those of us fortunate enough to live in areas free from them as well," he asserted.

4 ARE SHOT DOWN AT DOOR OF CAFE

Three Are Delegates to Hotel Workers, Bartenders' Parley in New York.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Three delegates to a hotel workers and bartenders' convention here and a woman companion were wounded by a fusilade of bullets tonight as they emerged from a downtown restaurant.

The others are Benjamin Paul, 34, of Philadelphia, shot in left leg; Jennie Graf, 49, Rochester, shot in right leg, and Jack Gold, Cleveland, shot in chest and arm.

The shooting came as the convention party left a restaurant. Witnesses said a dark car slowed up as the party emerged, and disappeared almost as soon as the flurry of shots had rung out.

The car was found a short while later, abandoned in a street not far away.

Police were told by a resident that two men had parked the machine there, jumped into a sedan following them, and driven away.

PRESS HEADS NAMED.

ETOWAH, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Miss Alma Woodfin, of the South Pittsburgh Hustler, was elected president of the East Tennessee Press Association here today. R. A. Smith, of the Dayton Herald, was named first vice president and H. V. Wells, of the Clinton Courier, second vice president. H. O. Eckels was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Next year's meeting will be held at Clinton.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McGill

Quite a story—that one of the trotting horse Rosalind.

Two years ago a father tried to arouse interest enough in his son to make him want to live and beat an illness. He gave him a yearling horse to be trained as a trotter.

In the Hambletonian a day ago, the father drove the filly to victory in the stake which annually is worth about $40,000—as much as the Kentucky Derby.

The harness horse game can produce stories which the running game can never supply. The touts and the racketeers who all but control most of the running game and who dominate it, are not present in the harness horse game. It is well out in front—the harness sport.

There are great drivers now. But none of them like Pop Geers, the Tennessean, who never lost a great stake. They used to say he could telegraph messages up the lines to his horses. And I guess he could. The horses learn the sensitive touch of the fingers on the reins.

THE MOST STAMINA.

The trotters and pacers have the most stamina in the horse racing business.

The running horse runs about once each week.

But the trotter runs more often. And he, or she, often runs three heats. Rosalind, the winner at Goshen, trotted but two, winning each. And she made the first mile in 2:02 1-4 and the second mile in 2:02 3-4. Had there been a third heat her time would have been within a second of the latter time. No running horse could equal that for stamina—three races of a mile each in one afternoon—and at that time.

There can't be much argument as to the stamina of the two types of racing horses. The harness entry is the winner.

GOLDSMITH MAID.

Greatest story of the harness horse sport is that of Goldsmith Maid.

She was a farm horse until six years of age. She never raced until she was eight years old.

Yet she pulled a sulky until she was 20 years old and during that span of years she won $364,200—just a few dollars shy of the mark set by Sun Beau, the greatest money winner produced by the thoroughbreds.

Goldsmith Maid is buried at Trenton, N. J. A monument over her grave carries this inscription: "Here lies Goldsmith Maid, queen of trotters for seven years. Born in Sussex county, 1857; died here September 23, 1885. Best record 2:14, made at Boston in 1874. Earned $364,200, the world's record. Driven by Bud Dobie. Owned by Henry N. Smith."

The filly couldn't be taught to trot and, after six buggies had been wrecked in the lessons, they were abandoned. The filly began to work on the farm. The farmer sold the horse for $350 and the new owner sold her for $460. He in turn, this was the era of horse trading and selling, sold her again for $650. Alden Goldsmith was the purchaser.

HER FIRST START.

Goldsmith gave her the name—"Goldsmith Maid." And he spent two months teaching her to trot and pace. And then came the state fair. His mare was six years old.

But she won the first start and a purse of $200. But she showed no great ability across six years of trying and a little later Goldsmith sold her to Bud Dobie, a great driver, and to an associate for a price of $20,000.

She was 12 years old. The horse world thought the two purchasers were slightly mad or had been well taken in.

They were just this mad—in the next two years Goldsmith Maid won more than $100,000.

THE OLD GRAY MARE.

At the end of the 1871 racing season Dobie decided the old mare wasn't all she used to be. So, he sold her, at the age of 15, to another "crazy man." The price was $37,000.

Goldsmith Maid earned him more than $80,000.

At the age of 20 she was still carrying on, winning an important stake at Toledo the year she reached the age of 20.

The turf has no story to match that one.

FIRST UNDER SADDLE.

All horses are natural runners. They must be taught to trot. The English were first to teach it.

All of the early trotting races were under saddle. The origin of the sulky is disputed but it came into being about 1845. And it brought new popularity and more speed to the game.

The old pioneer days produced some great trotters. Their records don't match the modern ones, because of the developments in building light sulkies and in other equipment.

Trotting races are popular in the middle west and in New England. They used to be popular features of southern fairs but the new generation, which isn't interested in horses, and which sees few races, and they all running ones, doesn't patronize them.

IT'S A REAL THRILL.

It's a real thrill—being in a sulky . . . behind a great, powerful horse.

Just once I was there. The late Billy Lotz helped me into the sulky, gave me the reins and I shook the horse loose and he got going.

The earth did not seem very far away. And it wasn't. It was on the old red track at Lakewood. I recall looking down and seeing that red earth go sliding by at a terrific speed.

The wind was in my ears and the great horse was really flying.

I knew something was wrong. He had quit trotting. He was running. And I let him go. There was nothing I knew to do. And running was more of a thrill.

But Billy Lotz was wild. As we made the turn I could see him clutching his fringe of hair and dancing. The horse pulled up, which was a relief. But Billy Lotz never quite forgave me. It was, it seemed, sinful for a trotter to run. But this horse Wanted to run. And I am a tolerant guy.

Pop Geers was over 70 years of age when he was injured in a race. They grow old—and wise—in the harness game. And the only rats in it are those that get into the barns after the corn and oats. Which is more than can be said for the running game.

Perrin Walker Runs Against Aces Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Track and field athletes who missed making the Olympic team begin competition at Randall's Island stadium tomorrow in a two-day "world labor athletic carnival."

Entries for the sprints include Eulace Peacock, of Temple University; Ben Johnson, of New York; Eddie Daigle, Southern Conference champion; Perrin Walker, of Georgia Tech, and Donald Bennett, of Ohio.

Porterdale Defeats A and A Cleaners

PORTEDALE, Ga., Aug. 14.—Porterdale defeated the fast A. & A. Cleaners baseball team here today by the score of 13 to 6. The feature of the game was the hitting of Murphy and Payne for Porterdale. King hit a home run for Porterdale.

FARMERS BLANK CAROLINA TEAM TO EVEN SERIES

Bolden Scatters Three Hits; Deciding Game Scheduled Today.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Aug. 14. (AP)—Harry Bolden, Carrollton's ace pitcher, handcuffed Spartanburg, 7 to 0, today, with three scattered hits and the Georgians evened the regional series with the Palmetto lads in the American Legion junior baseball series between the Georgia and South Carolina champions.

The deciding game will be played here tomorrow.

Bolden may take the mound again tomorrow for the Farmers in an effort to get the third game, while Spartanburg will pitch Suvern Wright, who won the opener yesterday, 16 to 2.

Spartanburg's infield combination was broken up when Martin, third baseman, was kept out by illness for the first seven innings and Fowler moved from first base to the pitcher's box when Thomas retired. The two runs Carrollton made in the first inning proved plenty for Bolden to work behind and he twirled fine ball.

Jackson Evens Nashville Series.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP) The Jackson, Miss., baseball club evened the series with Nashville today, winning the second game, 9 to 5, in the district American Legion junior tournament.

Nashville won yesterday, 13 to 6.

Carsley went the route for the victors, allowing six hits, striking out seven and walking 13.

Jackson went ahead in the second with five runs, all unearned, and made mainly through spotty pitching and fielding by the home town aggregation.

Charlotte Sweeps Series For N. C.-Va. Title.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 14.—(AP) Charlotte defeated Battlefield Park, Va., 8 to 2, today for the North Carolina-Virginia championship and qualified for the southeastern sectional tournament of the American Legion junior baseball series here next week.

The Charlotte team won yesterday's opener of a three-game series, 11 to 9.

Benjamin Lingle, cousin of Van Lingle Mungo, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, yielded only five scattered blows to the Virginia champions. Charlotte got to Eanes for seven hits in the first five innings to establish a lead the Battlefield Park club could not approach.

New Orleans Wins Texas-La. Series.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Jesuit Blue Jays of New Orleans won the right this afternoon to compete in the sectional series of the American Legion Junior Baseball league by winning the second game of a double-header from the Houston (Texas) team, 11 to 2. They dropped the opener today, 8 to 7. The Jesuits won the Texas-Louisiana series first game here Thursday night. They will compete with seven other regional champions August 19, 20 and 21 at Charlotte, N. C.

FIGHT SHIFTED TO EAST POINT

Ben Brown, Atlanta's own magnificent contender for Freddie Steele's middleweight title, polished off training for his Monday night bout with a ringing victory over Jack Baggett, of Chattanooga. Brown won all ten rounds of last night's bout at Rome.

Brown will meet Bob Allison in one of the feature ten-round bouts at East Point Monday night. Joe Lipps, the Ty Ty, Ga., heavyweight, will clash with Max Maxwell in the other ten-rounder.

Brown will be given the key to East Point by the mayor at ceremonies today.

The program, originally scheduled at the ball park for last Mondap night, had to be shifted, and will be held in the East Point auditorium. There are accomodations for 1,800, and East Point being Ben Brown's home town, capacity crowd is anticipated.

BROWN, YATES IN SEMI-FINAL BATTLE TODAY

Match Features Junior Chamber Tournament at West End.

By Roy White.

Kid Brown, Georgia's amateur golf champion, plays Charlie Yates, a member of the Walker cup team, at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the West End course in a feature of the semi-finals of the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce tournament. The winner will play Tommy Barnes at the same hour Sunday afternoon for the title.

Barnes defeated Forrest Fowler, 3-2, in a semi-final match Thursday afternoon.

The Junior Chamber matches will be the last for Brown and Barnes before they depart Tuesday morning for Albany, Ga., where they will participate in the annual Radium Springs invitation tournament next week.

RETURN FOR QUALIFYING.

Immediately following the Albany tournament the Atlantans will return home, play in the national amateur qualifying round August 25 on the No. 2 East Lake course and follow the rest of the week in the annual Atlanta amateur tournament on the Druid Hills course.

The Brown-Yates match will be the center of interest in Atlanta's golf for this afternoon.

The weekly blind bogey is scheduled at East Lake, Druid Hills, Ansley Park and Capital City Country Club.

BUSY DAY.

Several incomplete matches in various club tournaments also will be played today, while more than 50 other golfers will spend the week-end in the last round practices for the Radium Springs and the Atlanta amateur tournaments which follow in order next week and the week after.

Gene Dahlbender Jr., who has won 10 straight matches in three tournaments, will play the No. 1 East Lake coure today for the first time. He has been challenged by Bobby Mills, 10-year-old Knoxville star, for a match Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

PLAY SUNDAY.

Dahlbender, one of the city's most promising youngsters, accepted the match several days ago and it will be played at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. He has another challenged match for this morning.

The Sunday afternoon match resulted in a challenge by Bob Wilson, sports editor of the Knoxville News-Sentinel, and was readily accepted by Gene Dahlbender Sr., who has followed his 12-year-old son around hundreds of miles in tournament play.

SECOND FLIGHT.

Cliff Eley plays winner of Charlie Wilcox-Jimmy Flowers match.

THIRD FLIGHT.

Bert Adams beat John Parks, 2-1.
Sam Rumph plays Allen Littlefield.

FOURTH FLIGHT.

John Phillips beat Tom Hodges, 2-up.
Jake Crouch beat Ray Brown, 3-2.

FIFTH FLIGHT.

J. D. Evans beat Norman Frankel, 1-up.
C. C. Blancq plays Everett Jackson.

Warren To Meet Ten Pryor Today

The Warren Company and 10 Pryor Street building baseball teams will clash on the Warren athletic field this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

This will be the first Saturday afternoon game that the Warren team has played in Atlanta this season, as they have been playing the various amateur and semi-pro teams throughout the state, and should draw a very large crowd, as the 10 Pryor Street building has one of the best amateur teams in the city.

Sunday afternoon the Warren Company will play the fast East Thomaston nine a double-header on the Warren athletic field starting at 3 o'clock.

Ladies will be admitted free.

Warren Defeats Miller Service, 6-5.

The Warren Company defeated Miller Service, 6 to 5, on the Warren athletic field last night in a game that was close from start to finish.

Miller Service was leading, 5 to 4, when the game entered the last half of the ninth inning when Lanford led off with a home run over the right field fence and then singles followed in succession to put the Warren Company in the lead and to win, 6 to 5.

Joe Louis Takes Another Lesson

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—Before only about a dozen newspapermen and no other spectators, Joe Louis, the former "Brown Bomber," took another boxing lesson today in preparation for his comeback bout against Jack Sharkey next Tuesday.

Louis sparred with Paul Cavalier while Trainer Jack Blackburn gave instructions. It was the third lesson this week in teaching Joe how to defend himself against left jabs and right crosses. After coaxing Louis through two lively rounds of shadow boxing, Blackburn sent his charge against Cavalier for six one-minute rounds, climbing in and out of the ring to illustrate his instructions.

Buford Opens Fire At Wichita Sunday

Bona Allens Overshadowed by Crackers; Face New Orleans Comiskeys in National.

By Jack Troy.

Absorbed in the big Nashville-Atlanta series, sports writers permitted the great Buford Bona Allens to depart for the national semi-pro baseball tournament at Wichita, Kas., without so much as an editorial good-bye, good luck, or what have you.

Which was a deplorable thing, of course. The good people of Buford and the Bona Allens are due an apology. And all we can hope is that in view of the regrettable oversight, the Bona Allen nine will go right ahead and win the national title.

The Buford team has been a sort of stepchild all season. That is, from the standpoint of the press. We'll have to blame it on the Crackers.

One will have to admit that a team battling for its second straight pennant in 11 years is apt to take the edge off other things, or at least cause one to overlook other really meritorious achievements.

COME ON BOYS!

Anyway, it is past time to recognize the achievements of the Buford team and to start pulling for them to win the national title.

Buford set the semi-pro woods on fire this past season in the course of winning 76 games, losing only six and tying one.

The nine set an unofficial world's semi-pro record for straight victories. Buford won 35 straight, beating the former record of 31 straight.

Now the team is at Wichita waiting to start first-round play Sunday against the New Orleans Comiskys, a team of youngsters of college age. Buford is favored to win the opener.

In fact, the Buford team is rated as one of the half-dozen leading contenders in a field of 30 all-star teams from all sections of the country.

DESERVES HIGH RANK.

And rightfully so. You take a team that has whipped Sally league representatives, has won 35 straight and 76 games for the season without having lost a series and has dropped only six games—you take a team like that and it certainly deserves plenty of consideration.

It will take a lot of beating to get the Bona Allens out of the national tournament, considering that the team must lose two games to be eliminated.

The Bona Allen pitching staff includes Grady Bassett, Abe White, Leo Jeter, Gene Nix and Paul Harwell. It's quite a staff.

THE INFIELD.

The infield includes Fleming, first base; Jack Shipley, a former New York-Penn league star, second base; Chink Martin, former Petrel, shortstop, and Claud Herrin, former Petrel, third base.

Yes, sir, the Bona Allens will take a lot of beating. They're up against stiff competition but they have a team that can give and take with the best of them in semi-pro ranks. Or so their record indicates. The best wishes of Georgia fans are with the Bona Allens, who start play Sunday.

Buford Arrives For Big Meet.

WICHITA, Kans., Aug. 14.—A dozen teams arrived here today including one carload of Georgia boys, for the opening of the national baseball tournament. Four teams were scheduled for the opening of play tonight, which brings the 20th Century-Fox team of Hollywood, California champions, up against the Kansas champions, the Arkansas City Dubbs. The Elkin (N. C.) Chathams play Elgin (Ill.) Watchmakers in the second game today.

The Buford (Ga.) Bona-Allens will play their first game at 5:30 p. m., Sunday against the New Orleans Comiskys, a team of youngsters of college age. The New Orleans team represents a wholesale liquor importing house. Their advance record is good, although the team did not win its state championship.

The Buford team, which has a fine winning record, rates as one of the half dozen leading contenders. Other

DUCK HUNTERS AWARDED ONLY 30-DAY SEASON

But Georgia Among States Getting Slightly Longer Periods.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Duck hunters will have a 30-day season this fall under what the Department of Agriculture announced today as "rigid and drastic" restrictions.

The Biological Survey said the control regulations approved by Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt would "continue stringent restrictions on the hunting of waterfowl in order to cut down the annual kill."

"The restrictions put into force last year were intended to bring about a reduction in the kill and they accomplished that purpose," the announcement added.

Three zones, northern, intermediate and southern, were established for this season, instead of the two, northern and southern, last year.

Dates for the zones are: Northern, October 10 to November 8; intermediate, November 1 to 30; southern, November 26 to December 25.

CAN'T SHOOT 'EM.

Among the regulations announced were that:

Shooting of redhead and canvas back ducks and the Atlantic brant is prohibited.

Use of baiting, live decoys, sink boxes or batteries is prohibited.

Waterfowl and coot may be hunted in season from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. standard time.

The intermediate zone includes Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, including Long Island, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

States in the southern zone are Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

DAILY BAG LIMIT.

The daily bag limit and possession limit of 10 ducks of all kinds was continued. The limit on geese and brant remains at four.

Bag and possession limits on other species are: Rails and gallinules (except sora and coot), 15 in the aggregate of all kinds; sora, 25; coot, 15; snipe, 15; woodcock, 4; doves, 20, and band-tailed pigeons, 10.

Possession of a federal duck stamp, on sale at postoffices, is required by every migratory-waterfowl hunter over 16 years.

Last year's regulation which required that blinds be located within 100 feet of the shore line was eliminated this season. Federal officials explained this was intended to protect deep diving ducks and since canvas backs and redheads were on the restricted list this year, the regulation was not needed.

In a number of states the opening day for shooting of mourning doves has been set for September 1 by the regulations, but the season in general has been shortened one month.

Alabama, Pickens, Tuscaloosa, Jefferson, Shelby, Talladega, Clay, Randolph and all counties north, September 1 to September 30 and December 20 to January 31.

Georgia: Troup, Meriwether, Pike, Lamar, Monroe, Jones, Baldwin, Washington, Jefferson, Burke and all counties north, September 1 to September 30 and December 20 to January 31.

Mississippi: Washington, Humphreys, Holmes, Attela, Winceston, Noxubee and all counties north, September 1 to September 30 and December 20 to January 31.

In all other counties in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina, November 20 to January 31.

The woodcock season remains the same as in 1935 except in Wisconsin and New York. The Wisconsin season is October 17 to October 31, while the season in New York, north of the New York Central railroad from Buffalo to Albany and the Boston & Albany railroad from Albany to the Massachusetts state line, is the month of October, and south, including Long Island, October 15 to November 14.

Cravey Delighted At New Dates.

Sportsmen will enjoy dove shooting during the month of September in north Georgia, according to announcement made by Zack D. Cravey, Georgia commissioner of game and fish.

These dates announced give Georgia sportsmen a state and federal dove season which coincide in every respect.

"I am indeed delighted that the Washington officials approved this season as per our agreement reached at the March conference of southern game and fish commissioners and officials of the Bureau of the Biological Survey which was held in Atlanta at the time," Cravey stated. This spirit of co-operation between these two departments should be appreciated by the sportsmen of this state. Every effort has been made by this department to bring this about.

"In announcing these combined state and federal regulations I want to place the sportsmen of Georgia on notice that laws on baited fields and bag limit for dove shooting will be strictly enforced by game protectors of the Georgia department and game management agents of the Biological Survey. These regulations must be enforced in the interest of the future dove shooting."

EMIL ANNEXES NINTH VICTORY IN GREAT DUEL

Third Atlanta Triumph in Four Games Won With 3 Hits.

By Jack Troy.

Three-hit pitching by Lord Byron Speece failed to stop the Crackers yesterday as they won the final game, 2 to 1, and the series, three games to one.

The rout of the Vols ended whatever hopes they had of catching the Crackers, who are now seven and one-half games out in front.

And the play of the Vols in the series made one wonder how it is possible for Nashville officials to rate the current team as the best since the 1916 pennant-winning combination.

The Vols presented a club that shouldn't, because of its sloppy defense, be in second place. The Vols are a total loss in the field. True, they hit against the weaker clubs of the league. But they don't do any slugging against the Crackers.

13 OUT OF 17.

Yesterday's victory was the Crackers' 13th in 17 games with the second-place exchallengers.

Only a home run by Poco Taitt, his second of the series, saved the Vols from being blanked.

Emil Leonard, winning his ninth game of the season for the Crackers, pitched steadily. He was in serious trouble in only two innings, the seventh and the ninth.

An illustration of the Vols' power attack may be gleaned by the fact that they got three hits and a walk in the seventh inning but were unable to score.

Peacock led off with a double. Wasdell flied to Mailho. Wistert walked. Scharein then singled to right. Wistert kept going and Peacock was forced off the bag and in a chase which ended in Peacock being tagged out by Johnny Hill. Speece singled, filling the bases, and Outlaw grounded weakly to Leonard for the third out.

TWO SINGLES.

In the ninth, Wasdell and Wistert singled. Scharein attempted to sacrifice and Leonard, taking the roller, forced Wasdell at third.

Speece came up and hit a short fly to center. Peck Hamel raced in at full speed and made a brilliant one-handed catch off his shoe tops. It was a saving play. Then Outlaw popped weakly to Hooks and the game was over.

The so-called crucial series was just a breeze for the champion Crackers who haven't been, nor are likely to be out of first place this season. Seven and one-half games is a very comfortable margin at this stage of the season.

RODDA MISCUES.

Peck Hamel hit to Bill Rodda, who let the ball get through him in the first inning. Emil Mailho also hit to Rodda. But it was a slow roller and Mailho beat it out for a hit. Hooks struck out. Both runners moved up on a passed ball, another old Vol trick, and then Hamel scored on Lipscomb's infield out.

The final Cracker run came in the sixth. Mailho and Hooks singled, with Mailho going to third on Alex' blow. Lipscomb grounded to Sharein. Mailho was off to the plate. Scharein threw to Wistert and Wistert dropped the ball, giving Lipscomb life.

Richards came up and hit one to the bleachers. Taitt caught it right at the fence. Then Chatham grounded out, Scharein to Wistert, who held that one, retiring the side.

The Crackers threatened no more. Speece was in wonderful form. But he couldn't overcome the handicap of the usual Vol support.

ONE FOR BOOKS.

It's really one for the books. Speece allowed only three hits and was beaten, 2 to 1. The Vols secured nine hits, three of them in one inning, and scored only one run. The one run was the result of a home run.

Nashville officials must be mistaken. If this is the greatest team since 1916, it makes the 1934 club look pretty bad indeed. And the '34 club, before it was busted up by the Giants, was quite a ball club. It could field, too.

The Vols probably look better against other clubs. At least that hope is advanced for the sake of Lance Richbourg, a fine fellow. They simply can't stand the gaff against the Crackers.

ATTENDANCE 2,286.

Yesterday's paid attendance was 2,286, running the season's total of 260,182. The Crackers are now 24,111 paid admission behind last year, but stand a good chance of drawing almost 300,000 fans.

The Crackers departed last night for Memphis, where they will play a four-game series before leaving for Little Rock and another four-game series. They'll return home to play Knoxville a week from Sunday.

Ralph West will pitch today's game. Bobby Durham will pitch the first game of the Sunday double-header, with either Williams or Thomas pitching the second game.

Huskies' Amazing Rally Wins Eight-Oared Olympic Title

U. S. Nearly Cinches Men's Swim Honors

German Rowers Take Team Prize With 5 Straight Titles.

By Alan Gould.

GRUNAU, Germany, Aug. 14.—(AP) Paced magnificently by the curly-haired invalid, Don Hume, who rowed the last 200 meters on the verge of collapse, Washington's Huskies saved eight-oared Olympic supremacy for the United States under rain-soaked but highly dramatic circumstances today.

Trailing by a length with only 600 meters to go, the unbeaten American collegians came from behind in a thrilling drive which carried them across the finish line scarcely a quarter-length—exactly six-tenths of a second—in front of the heavyweight Italians.

Germany's hard-fighting crew was a close third in a finish in which only one second separated the first three shells after the hardest kind of a battle over the 2,000-meter course through a driving rain and against a severe head wind.

SWISS LAST.

The British and Hungarians, the European favorites, were beaten off, finishing fourth and fifth, while the Swiss brought up the rear in a race that saw the Americans barely outlast the battling blue-shirts from Livorno including three veterans of the crew that gave the University of California such a bad scare at Los Angeles four years ago.

Defying difficult conditions as well as sundry bronchial aches and pains, Washington had no chance to touch the Olympic record of 6:00.8 they set in winning their first test Wednesday but their gold-medal performance, clocked in 6:24.4, was equally dazzling from the standpoint of oarsmanship.

It was the fifth consecutive eight-oared victory for American college crews since the war and ended a regatta marked otherwise by Germany's unprecedented achievement in capturing five successive finals, thereby rowing off with the team title for the first time in Olympic history.

The sculler, Dan Barrow, of Philadelphia, had unexpectedly picked up the bronze medal in the singles final, finishing behind Schaefer and Josef Hasenoehrl, of Austria, and ahead of Canada's Charlie Campbell, but the Philadelphians, Bill Dugan and John Houser, had been badly beaten in the double sculls, finishing fifth.

The issue thus was strictly up to the Huskies from the Pacific northwest if the United States was to salvage any prestige in the German-dominated regatta.

The way the collegians came through under the stiffest pressure ever witnessed in the Olympic finals was something to write home about. Never before had more than four crews gone to the starting mark for the Olympic finals, so the Huskies, from the outset, faced heavier odds than any of their predecessors—Navy in 1920, Yale in 1924 and California in 1928 and 1932.

ITALIANS LEAD.

Passing the 1,000 meters mark, the halfway stage, little more than five seconds separated the six crews, but the Italians were slugging powerfully in front with the Americans over a length behind in fifth place, leading only the British, who showed the strain of their previous two days of competition.

Nearing 1,500 meters, the Huskies spurted into third place, trailing Italy by half a length and Germany by a few feet. Italy suddenly met this challenge by a sprint that carried them a full length in front again and nearly caught the Huskies napping.

"We thought we had the situation under control until that happened," said Bob Moch, coxswain of the American boatload. "How they got away from us so quickly I'll never know, but we weer in a tough spot, scarcely 600 meters from the finish."

It was 300 meters farther before the sustained Husky drive overhauled the Germans and also pulled the shell up on even terms with the hard-fighting Italians. From there on there never was much doubt about the outcome.

Moch insisted the Huskies never had more than a half length lead, but it looked to be nearly a length from the grandstand before the Italians spurted again in the last 100 meters. The margin narrowed as the two crews drove over the finish, both hitting 40 or more, but the Americans had enough left to give a final "10," which balked Italy's second straight bid for premier Olympic rowing honors.

Olympics At a Glance

By the Associated Press.

ROWING.

Washington won eight-oared title in 6:25.4 with Italy second in 6:26 and Germany third in 6:26.4.

Dan Barrow, Philadelphia, finished third to Gustav Schaefer, Germany, and Josef Hasenoehrl, Austria, in singles sculls, and Bill Dugan and John Heuser, Philadelphia, finished fifth in double sculls won by Jack Beresford and Dick Southwood.

Unofficial team point standings (on 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

Germany, 39; Great Britain, 18; United States and Switzerland, 16; Italy, 13; France, 11; Denmark, 10; Hungary and Austria, 7; Argentina, 6, and Poland, 5; Holland and Canada, 3; Yugo-slavia and Australia, 1.

SWIMMING.

Adolf Kiefer set new Olympic and world record of 1:05.9 for 100-meter backstroke, with Al Vande Weghe second and Taylor Drysdale fourth.

Holland won women's 400-meter relay with Germany second and United States third.

Unofficial team standings (on 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

Men's swimming: United States, 56; Japan, 43; Hungary, 14; Germany, 7; France, Great Britain, 1.

Women's swimming: United States, 48; Holland, 42½; Germany, 25½; Japan, 15; Denmark, 6; Argentina, 5; Great Britain, 8; Hungary, 26; Canada, 2½.

WATER POLO.

Germany tied Hungary, 2-2, in final round competition.

BASKETBALL.

United States won championship, defeating Canada, 19-8. Mexico beat Poland, 26-12, and Philippines whipped Uruguay, 33-23. Canada, Mexico, Poland, Philippines and Uruguay placed in that order behind the United States.

BOXING.

Jackie Wilson qualified for bantamweight final, beating Ortiz, of Mexico, but Lou Laurie, flyweight, only other American survivor, was beaten by Matta, Italy, in semi-finals.

FENCING.

HANDBALL.

Germany defeated Austria, 10-6, to win title. Switzerland took third place, defeating Hungary, 10-5.

FIELD HOCKEY.

Holland defeated France, 4-3, to win third place.

EQUESTRIAN.

Captain Ludwig Stubbendorf, Germany, led field in Olympic military dressage event with one more day of competition. Captain John Willems ranked 14th; Captain Earl Thomson, 16, and Captain Carl Raguse, 41st.

Adolf Kiefer Sets Record in 100-Meter Backstroke.

By Gayle Talbot.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—With water above, below and all around them, America's swimmers virtually wrapped up the men's Olympic team crown today by winning their third championship and taking an iron-clad option on the fourth.

Barring some unexpected development it seemed unlikely that Japan, their closest rival, could overtake them in the three remaining events to be decided tomorrow—200-meter breast stroke, 1,500-meter style and the 10-meter platform dive.

Pouring rain which left spectators drenched and pelted in his face failed to disturb Adolf Kiefer, of Chicago, as he swept to a record-smashing victory in the 100-meter backstroke over his teammate, Al Vande Weghe, of Paterson, N. J., and Masaji Kiyokawa, of Japan.

Marshall Wayne, of Miami, practically clinched the platform diving title when he led at the halfway stage with his favorite optional dives coming up tomorrow. The tall, blond-haired Floridan's only rival is the German, Erhardt Weiss, who was in second place, 56-100ths of points behind.

HOLLAND'S RECORD.

The only laurels that escaped the grasping hands from across the Atlantic went to Holland for a record-cracking triumph in the women's 400-meter relay free style championship. Even with Katherine Rawls, of Miami, drafted at the last minute and leading off, the American girls could do no better than third behind Germany.

This exciting victory, in which the inevitable Rita Mastenbroek again played the leading role as she caught and passed Gisella Arendt, of Germany, 200 meters before the finish, gave the Dutch their third gold medal of the competition against two gained by the United States due to the talents of her divers, Miss Mastenbroek, who also won the 100-meter free style crown and was runner-up in the backstroke final, is favored to cop the 400-meter free style championship tomorrow.

On the men's side, America's grip on team honors was menaced by the Tokyo terrors, whose only chance to overtake the Americans is in the breast stroke and long free style pull. With only Johnny Higgins, of Providence, opposed to them they appeared to have the former event well in hand but they had a couple of young men named Jack Medica, of Seattle, and Ralph Flanagan, of Miami, to contend with in the distance race. Medica, in fact, looked like he intended to add the 1,500 crown to his 400-meter title as he stroked serenely to victory in his semi-final in faster time than Noburo Terada, of Japan, 19:42.8 to 19:48.6.

DULL VICTORY.

About the only kick the crowd got was the way Kiefer made the turn, his time-saving under-water somersault bringing a burst of cheering and gaining him at least a yard on Vande Weghe and Kiyokawa, who were close in the running up to that point.

Kiefer's winning time, 1:05.9, marked the third straight time in two days he smashed George Kojac's eight-year-old Olympic record of 1:08.2 and splintered Vande Weghe's listed world record of 1:07.4. His first time out he was clocked in 1:06.9. Timers caught him in 1:06.8 in yesterday's semi-finals.

All in all, the Americans' showing in the dorsal-stroke event was the strongest they've made in the water. Vande Weghe, taking second, was clocked in 1:07.7, while Taylor Drysdaye, of Detroit, fourth, was timed in 1:09.4. Japanese captured the other three places.

GIRLS SUPPLY THRILLS.

The girl relayers were the ones who provided the day's excitement. It was a three-team race all the way with Germany, United States and Holland alternating in the lead. Bernice Lapp, swimming the second leg, sent American hopes soaring when she touched the 200-meter mark slightly ahead of her two rivals, but Mavis Freeman and Olive McKean couldn't quite match their opponents' pace in the last half, slowly losing distance until it was a strictly German-Dutch duel the final 50 meters.

Lenore Kight Wingard, of Homestead, Pa., qualified for the final, placing second behind Miss Mastenbroek in 5:42.2. Mary Lou Petty and Miss Wagner, of Holland, were tied as the fastest fourths in 5:45.9 and both advanced to the championship race, making it an eight-girl final.

During the course of the day Uncle Sam lost three swimmers via the elimination route. Ray Kaye and Jack Kasley were eliminated in the breast stroke semi-finals, and Jim Christy, of Chicago, fell by the wayside in the 1,500 penultimate tests.

WEYMAN JONES DEFEATS ELEY

Shooting sub-par golf for 28 holes, Weyman Jones won the Bobby Jones municipal club championship with a 9-8 victory over Cliff Eley, Friday afternoon.

Jones finished the first nine with a par-equalling 35 and was two up. On the back nine he ran into trouble, and required one stroke over par but maintained a two-up advantage at the turn.

Jones fired a 33, two under par on the third nine to gain his biggest majority and closed out the match on the 28th green with a par 3. He was one under par for the 28 holes played.

Eley played Jones on even terms from the tee and in the fairways, but faulty putting, with several three-putt greens, cost him the match.

The tournament has been in progress several weeks so that none of the matches had to be defaulted, and was sponsored by Billy Wilson, the club professional.

Herbert Pruett, the medalist plays Chub Kyle at 9 o'clock this morning on the Bobby Jones municipal court for the club caddy championship. Pruett had a 79, to win medal honor and advanced to the finals with consistent play.

Kyle, only a couple of strokes back of Pruett also has played steady golf to gain the finals.

LOWLY MACKMEN HANDCUFF YANKS FOR 10-5 VICTORY

Grove Gains 14th Win, Shutting Out Senators, 9-0.

By The United Press.

The runner-up Cleveland Indians reduced the gap between them and the pace-setting New York Yankees in the American league to 10 games, defeating the St. Louis Browns, 12-10, as the Yankees lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 10-5, yesterday.

The Cleveland-St. Louis game was a slugfest in which the Indians collected 17 hits off five St. Louis pitchers, and the Browns walloped four Cleveland pitchers for 18 safeties.

Philadelphia hammered a trio of New York pitchers for 17 hits, including home runs by Niemiec, Bob Johnson and Hayes. Lee Ross, who pitched the first seven innings for the Athletics, being removed for a pinch hitter, got credit for the victory. Ruffing, New York starting pitcher, bore the brunt of the Philadelphia assault and was tagged for the loss.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Washington Senators, 8-0, behind Lefty Grove's four-hit pitching. Grove fanned five and allowed only one extra-base hit, a double by Ben Chapman, as he registered his 14th victory and sixth shuotout of the season. The victory moved the Red Sox to within one game of the fourth-place Detroit Tigers, whose game with Chicago was postponed because of wet grounds.

BUFORD OPENS FIRE SUNDAY

favorites are Bismarck, N. D., which won the 1935 championship; the Hollywood team, which took part in a state-wide elimination of 168 ball clubs; Gadsden (Ala.) Goodyears; Elkin (N. C.) Chathams; Duncan Halliburtons, of Oklahoma, runner-up last year; the Kingdans, of Indianapolis, Ind.; the Mount Pleasant Texas State champions and the Forest City, Iowa, team.

All told, there will be 30 teams here, representing 23 states. Only six of the 30 were in the 1935 tournament here, so that the dope is precarious.

The system is double elimination, and a team must lose two games to be eliminated. Winners play winners. Losers in first games go into the losers' bracket to go back up in the bracket. Teams are paired off at discretion of the tournament committee.

Scouts representing practically all the major league clubs are arriving here. Last year about two dozen younsters were signed from the tournament. All clubs here have veterans mixed with youngsters, some of the experienced players having won fame in the majors. Reb Russell, the Old White Sox star, is managing the Indianapolis club and serving as pinch-hitter.

BUDGE ENTERS FINALS AT RYE

Grant, Hall Lose Doubles Match to Allison and Van Ryn.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Donald Budge, flame-topped Davis cup star from Oakland, Cal., advanced to the men's finals of the eastern grass courts tennis championship as expected today, but the women's part of the competition again provided a surprise when Helen Pedersen, unseeded player from Stamford, Conn., eliminated the second listed star, Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, 6-4, 3-6, 6-0.

Budge encountered surprisingly stiff opposition from Frankie Parker, the Spring Lake, N. J., youngster. But after dropping the first set he came back strongly to win, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 8-6. The victory sent him into the final, where he will meet the winner of tomorrow's encounter between second seeded Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, and Robert L. Riggs, the youthful clay courts champion from Los Angeles.

Miss Pedersen reached the final of her second successive major tournament, joining another unseeded player, Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France. Mme. Henrotin entered the last round yesterday by defeating top-seeded Alice Marble, of Palm Springs, Cal. Mrs. Ary J. Lamme, of Rye, eliminated early this year, won the 1935 women's title.

Mrs. Van Ryn came back, however, and paired with Carolyn Babcock, of Los Angeles, to reach the women's doubles final with a 7-5, 7-5 victory over Eleanor Dawson, of Piedmont, Cal., and Gussie Raegner, of San Francisco. They will be opposed by the brilliant young California pair of Miss Bundy and Dorothy Workman, of Los Angeles, who conquered Mme. Henrotin and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, of New York, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Two pairs of Davis cup players, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn and Budge and Gene Mako, reached the men's doubles final. Allison and Van Ryn beat Bryan Grant and J. Gilbert Hall, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, while Budge and Mako routed Robert Harman, Berkeley, Cal., and Robert Underwood, Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-1, 7-5.

REESE REACHES NET SEMI-FINALS

Plays Heldman for Right To Face Sutter in Western Finals.

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Ernest Sutter, of New Orleans, displaying the power and steadiness that brought him the national intercollegiate singles title, reached the finals of the Western Lawn Tennis Association tournament today by defeating Ramsay Potts, of Memphis.

Sutter, ranked second in the tournament, outsteadied the fourth-seeded Potts in a four-set semi-final match, 6-4, 3-6, 10-8, 6-2. Potts made his bid for victory in the deuced third but was forced into errors that blasted his chances.

The other finalist for the title play Sunday will be determined in a match Saturday between William Reese, of Atlanta, seeded No. 1, and 17-year-old Julius Heldman, of Hollywood, Cal.

TOURNEY STARTS AT CANDLER PARK

Qualifying rounds for Candler Park's annual invitation golf tournament will open this afternoon and continue through Sunday afternoon, August 23. The tourney is being sponsored by Wallace Linquist, the club professional, and will be played over a period of several weeks.

Every amateur golfer in the city is eligible and invited to participate, regardless of their club affiliations.

Linquist recently ran the largest municipal tournament ever held in the city with 131 entries and already more than half of that group have signed up for the tourney opening this afternoon.

ATLANTA LEAGUE.

Two headline games are on the Atlanta league schedule for today. Central Cafe and Mountain View play one of them at the latter's diamond, while Brookhaven and Avondale mix at the Clarkston diamond in the other. Avondale has been going strong this half and should take the Brookhaven Bruins of Hub Huddleston.

SCHEDULE.

Central Cafe vs. Mountain View at Mountain View. Green, umpire.
Brookhaven vs. Avondale at Clarkston. Anchors, umpire.

SCOTT LEAGUE.

Southern Railway and Scottdale are slated to play the best game in the Scott league today, but they are not at the top of the list, so they will probably not draw the crowd that will see Fulton Bag romp on Whittier, or the number that will turn out to see the American Can team meet Clarkdale. The Cans and Fulton are both going great right now, but in last week's game, the Cans beat the Baggers by one run so they are now the favorites for the second half.

SCHEDULE.

Whittier Mills vs. Fulton Bag at Fulton Bag. Wallace, umpire.
Southern Railway vs. Scottdale at Scottdale. Bell, umpire.

FLINT RIVER LEAGUE.

After being rained out for two Saturdays, the Flint River league teams will try to get started again with games at Ola, Jonesboro and Porterdale. The game with Fayetteville at Porterdale stands out as the feature.

SCHEDULE.

McDonough at Jonesboro.
Milstead at Ola.
Fayetteville at Porterdale.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

Cobb Jenkins and Charlie Brumbelow will meet in a pitchers' duel at Piedmont park this afternoon as Center Street Methodist and Ankyra Class clash in the second game of a three-game series for the baseball championship of the Southern league. The game is scheduled at 3:30 o'clock.

Center Street and Ankyra finished the first half of the Southern league tied for the flag. Each team won six games and lost one. The Southern league was combined wtih the Western league at the close of the first half. The winner of the Southern league will meet the Gordon Street Berean Class in another series for the championship of the Sunday School Amateur Athletic Association.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE.

Gulf Refining faces a test in the Atlanta Commercial baseball league this afternoon as it meets White Provision at Glenn field in the first game starting at 2 o'clock.

This game and a twin bill with Dixisteel next week are the only obstacles between Gulf Refining and the last-half championship. While a victory over White Provision will not cinch the title for Gulf it will at least give them a tie with Dixisteel, now in second place. Gulf has not been defeated in six starts this half and Dixisteel has dropped two games.

Standard Oil will meet Dixisteel in the second game of the program starting at 4 o'clock.

BEN BROWN WINS.

CHICAGO DOWNS PEACHES DAVIS; GAINS ON CARDS

Giants Advance Within 2 1-2 Games of Leaders, Beat Phillies, 3-0.

By The United Press.

The runner-up Chicago Cubs and third-place New York Giants both moved up a notch in the National league standings while the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals, who had an open date, were playing an exhibition game Friday.

The Cubs reduced the Cardinals' lead to half a game by defeating Cincinnati, 7-5, in a free-hitting contest in which seven pitchers saw action. Frank Demaree, with a home run and two singles, and Ethan Allen, with two doubles, led the Chicago attack. Larry French, who pitched the final 4 1-3 innings for the Cubs, succeeding Curt Davis and Roy Henshaw, got credit for his 13th victory. Lombardi hit a home run, double and single to pace the Cincinnati attack.

New York defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-0, behind Clyde Castleman's effective pitching. Castleman, who has pitched 17 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings, scattered nine hits, all of them singles. The Giants collected only eight but bunched five of them with a hit batsman, an error and a long fly to score single runs in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings. Passeau, who was replaced by Johnson in the seventh, was the losing pitcher. The victory left the Giants two games behind Chicago and only 2 1-2 games behind St. Louis.

The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Boston Bees, 4-2, Freddy Frankhouse pitching the victory over his old mates. Babe Phelps, burly Brooklyn catcher, hit two doubles and two singles in four trips to lead the Brooklyn assault on three Boston pitchers. The Dodgers scored three runs in the sixth on three hits and two walks.

St. Louis played an exhibition game with the St. Paul club of the American association, scoring seven runs in the first inning to win, 8-5.

Jack Ross Meets Wild Bill Collins

Jack Ross, the bald Greek, returns to town next Monday night to meet Wild Bill Collins in the feature wrestling match at the Key arena.

Ross, a villian of the mat, has been absent for a goodly spell. His return will be welcomed, with the fans pulling for Collins to tear him "from limb to limb," as the saying goes.

Young Londos meets Honey Boy Hackney, the flying leg scissors star, in the semi-windup.

Sammy Miller and Tiger Long clash in the opener. The card leaves nothing to be desired. All principals, with the exception of Long, who hails from Miami, are well known.

Crackers Face Test In Tough Schedule

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The championship hopes of the Atlanta Crackers apparently hinged today on their effectiveness away from home.

For in the stretch duel with the Nashville Vols for the 1936 pennant, the Crackers will be forced to seek their laurels in enemy camps.

A revised schedule from August 15 to September 13 compiled by Herbert Caldwell, director of the Southern League News Service, including new dates for postponed games, shows the Crackers have only 12 homes games while the Vols play at home 19 times.

The situation, too, may affect the scramble for first division places and the ultimate Shaughnessy play-off, the home game situation favoring Little Rock and New Orleans.

Little Rock and New Orleans each have 21 home games during the period. Birmingham, a first division possibility, nas 17; Knoxville has 13 and the cellar-dwelling Memphis Chicks 21.

Homesickness would be fatal for the Chattanooga Lookouts, candidates for a Shaughnessy role, for they have only nine home games and 25 on the road.

The compilation shows 17 postponed games.

The Southern League News Service revised schedule from August 15 to September 13, including postponed games:

Atlanta at home: Knoxville, August 24-25-26; Memphis, August 27-28-20-30; Little Rock, September 1-1-2-3; Birmingham September 13.

Atlanta on road: Memphis, August 15-16-17-18; Little Rock, August 19-20-21-22; Nashville, September 4-6-7-7 (one postponed game); New Orleans, September 8-9 (one postponed game); Birmingham, September 10-10-11-12.

Birmingham at home: Chattanooga, August 19-20-21-22; Nashville, August 23-24-25; New Orleans, August 26-27-28-29; Knoxville, September 8-9; Atlanta, September 10-10-11-12.

Birmingham on road: Nashville, August 15-16-17-18; Chattanooga, September 1-2 (one postponed game); New Orleans, September 4-5-6-7-7; Atlanta, September 13.

Chattanooga at home: New Orleans, August 23-24-25 (two postponed games); Birmingham, August 30-30; September 1-2 (one postponed game).

Chattanooga on road: New Orleans, August 15-16-16-17 (one postponed game); Birmingham, August 19-20-21-22; Nashville, August 26-27-28-29; Knoxville, September 5-6-7-7 (one postponed game); Little Rock, September 8-9-10; Memphis, September 11-12-13 (one postponed game).

Knoxville at Home: Little Rock, August 27-28-29-30 (two postponed games); Memphis, September 1-2-3; Chattanooga, September 5-6-7-7 (one postponed game).

ANN LEAF—Diminutive Ann Leaf, organist, will feature extracts from the ballet "Schoterezade," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, on her program to be heard over WGST at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Another number heard later in the program will be Peter de Rose's modern tone poem, "Deep Purple."

SWING SESSION—Rhythms in the old jazz styles will be heard when Willard Robinson, "Evangelist of Rhythm," and Miff Nole, trombonist, perform as guest stars on the "Saturday Swing Session" broadcast with Bunny Berigan's orchestra, to be heard over WGST at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

Robinson will sing and play two of his compositions, "Barrel House" and "Religion in Rhythm." Mole will play a selection in the style of the old jazz school, "Slippin' Around." "Otchi Tchornya," introduced as a swing trumpet specialty on a recent program by Berigan, will be repeated.

YOUR HIT PARADE—"When I'm With You" nosed out "These Foolish Things," which had held the lead for two consecutive weeks, and will be played by Harry Salter's orchestra during the "Your Hit Parade and Sweepstakes" broadcast, to be heard over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight.

The former leader dropped to second place, while "Take My Heart," which was second last week, is third. "You Can't Pull the Wool Over My Eyes" is fourth position and "On the Beach at Bali Bali" went back from third to fifth.

The vocals to the currently popular numbers will be offered by Buddy Clark, Edith Dick and the Leaders, male trio.

LEON TROTZKY CHARGED IN ANTI-SOVIET COUP

Russia Jails 16 Suspected Receiving Foreign Aid; Plot Largest in Decade.

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The soviet government tonight charged its one-time war minister and revolutionary zealot, Leon Trotzky, sought to foster a rebellion from his Norway exile and it jailed 16 of his asserted colleagues.

Direct responsibility for the assassination of Sergei Mironovich Kiroff, colleague of Dictator Joseph Stalin, was attributed to Trotzky, Leon Kameneff and Gregory Zinovieff. Kiroff was slain in 1934.

The three, most powerful enemies of Dictator Stalin in his fight for power after the death of Nicolai Lenin, were charged with planning a campaign of terror and attacks upon leaders of the soviet regime.

The government asserted under "the direction of Trotzky and the leadership of the so-called united centers, the Trotzky Zinovieff gang, prepared a number of terroristic actions against communist leaders."

"Trotzky sent five agents from abroad into the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics," the government charges. The communique did not name leaders against whom the new plot allegedly was directed.

Both Kameneff and Zinovieff now are serving ten-year prison sentences for counter-revolutionary activities coincident to the assassination of Kiroff.

Bitter opponents of Stalin in party councils, Zinovieff and Kameneff joined with him to direct the nation after the death of Lenin in 1924.

Drove Trotzky Into Exile.

Working first against Trotzky, who struggled from poverty in New York to great power in the soviet state. Stalin drove him into exile. Then he succeeded in ousting Zinovieff and Kameneff from the party and laid the foundation for his dictatorship.

The asserted conspirators, the soviet communique said, had been organized since 1932.

In addition to Kameneff and Zinovieff, four others indicted today were involved in the Kiroff assassination and already were now in jail. They are Evdokimoff, Professor Smirnoff, Bakaieff and Mirachkovsky.

Others Arrested.

The others arrested today were V. Olberg, K. Berman-Yuri, Fritz David, M. Lurie and N. Yurie—all of whom were allegedly dispatched to Russia by Trotzky—G. Evdokimoff, T. Smirnoff, T. Bakaieff, T. Reingold, R. Pickel, S. Mirachkovsky, V. Tervoganian, E. Dreitzler and E. Golzman.

Trotzky, who has taken refuge in a half-dozen countries during his years of wandering exile, has been in Norway for the past few months.

Only last week he was charged by a young Norwegian fascist and acquitted by the Norwegian government of endeavoring to foment revolutions in France and other European countries.

LINDY, WIFE WILL FLY BACK TO BRITAIN TODAY

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh plan to fly back to England tomorrow, Captain Andreas Dam, their host here, announced tonight.

The American flyer revisited the medical congress where he recently displayed the "artificial heart" he and Dr. Alexis Carrel invented. After a short inspection of other scientific exhibits he returned to his hotel and retired early.

The Lindberghs postponed a scheduled flight today after their plane had been wheeled from its hangar. The colonel announced the postponement to await a trans-Atlantic telephone call which came later in the day.

Two "Star Boarders" Picked Up by Police

Two "star boarders" of police station, Jerry Rooney and Margaret Brooks, "called" on police again Thursday night.

Rooney, 60-year-old World War veteran and ex-pugilist, who has been arrested 33 times this year and is police station's "first guest," was picked up by police at Marietta street, near Simpson street. He was cut and bruised and mumbled to police that he had been beaten by a woman. He was charged with intoxication.

Margaret, strong contender for Jerry's title, was arrested near Pryor and Edgewood avenue. Police said she was entertaining a group of bystanders with a dance. She also was charged with being drunk.

CANAL FUND VOTED

Jacksonville Marks $4,100 for Promotional Work.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 14. (AP)—The Jacksonville city council voted today to appropriate $4,100 to be used for promotional work in behalf of the Florida ship canal.

Two councilmen, R. C. Latham and J. R. Permenter, voted against the award. Councilman Marvin Sweat passed without voting.

Latham said he would not vote for the fund until canal proponents disclosed what they would do with it. Another member, J. C. Merrill, said the money would be used to "follow up" the engineers' report so that it would be filed with the War Department.

Previously the council had approved an expenditure of $20,000 by canal proponents for promotional work, but had diverted part of it for other purposes.

FRED FAIR WILL HEAR FATE AGAIN MONDAY

Judge Howard Also Plans To Resentence Sisk in Lord Killing.

Fred Fair, condemned slayer of Patrolman J. E. McDaniel, now a prisoner in Fulton tower after six years of life as a fugitive, will be resentenced Monday by Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court to die in the electric chair.

As soon as Fair is resentenced, Judge Howard will again pass the death sentence on S. W. Sisk, convicted in the slaying of David A. Lord in the hold-up of a Center Hill filling station.

Fair was returned to Fulton tower Thursday night from Enid, Okla., where he was captured six years after he escaped. He was identified through fingerprints and was brought here by Deputy Sheriff J. D. Bazemore and T. C. Hutcheson.

It is understood attorneys for both Fair and Sisk will seek commutation of sentences as soon as the men are resentenced. Fair's plea will be based on his statement in trial court that the shooting was accidental; that he did not know the policeman was struck, and that he voluntarily accompanied him to the police station.

Fair has said he will die without telling how he obtained saws which made possible his escape from Fulton tower in 1930.

CRASH INJURIES FATAL TO GIRL FLIER, 13

ANGOULEME, France, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Collette Loup, a 13-year-old girl who took an airplane aloft for a fantastic solo flight without knowing how to land it, died of her injuries today.

Investigators thought the girl inadvertently had touched the controls after she had returned from a flight over the city with the plane's regular pilot and he had dismounted. It whipped off the ground and flew wildly for several minutes before crashing.

RUM CAR CHASE NETS 131 PINTS, 16 QUARTS

After a wild automobile chase through a north side residential section late Thursday night, DeKalb county police arrested a man listed as Jim Cooley, 30, of a Boulevard, N. E., address, and confiscated 131 pints and 16 quarts of bonded liquor.

Officers making the arrest were Captain A. L. Hutchins and Patrolmen C. M. Cloud and A. B. Curtis. Cooley was released on a $300 bond.

Miss Mitchell Weds Clarence H. Parker At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Lillian Leona Mitchell and Clarence Hillard Parker was solemnized Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell, in West End Park, in the presence of the immediate families. An altar was arranged in the living room before which the vows were taken. Palms and ferns formed the background and at intervals were tall floor baskets filled with varicolored gladioli. White tapers burned in seven-branched cathedral candelabra at either side of the altar, and were lighted by the bride's sister, Miss Suejette Stewart Mitchell.

The Rev. Harold Shields, pastor of the Gordon Street Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, and a program of music was given by Miss Dorothy Sturgis. The couple was attended by Miss Jean Davis and Clifford Seay Jr.

The bride was lovely in navy blue triple sheer chiffon made on the fashionably tailored lines, with a shirred bluose were in harmonizing suggly at the neckline, and her accessories were in harmonizing blue. A shoulder spray of bride's rosebuds and valley lilies completed her costume.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell entertained at an informal reception. The home was decorated throughout with summer garden flowers. In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth, and gracing the center was the beautifully decorated cake. Crystal candlesticks held burning white tapers and at either end of the gracefully appointed table were low crystal bowls of swainsona.

SOCIETY EVENTS

My Day

By

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Thursday.—At 9:45 this morning Mrs. Morgenthau and I left in my car to go to Woodstock, N. Y., an artists' colony back of Kingston. We wanted to see the sketches for the murals which Charles Rosen is doing for the postoffice at Beacon, N. Y.

Anyone who knows Woodstock will agree, I think, that it is a charming place. It shows what good taste and imagination can do to create a delightful atmosphere.

In the first place, there are a number of attractive spots where you may stop and eat out of doors if you wish. I can say nothing about the food, but I know that if I could eat on a little terrace back of a stone house which we saw, I could be satisfied with very simple fare.

I have always loved the Catskill mountains and here they loom up very near at hand. In every direction there seemed to be attractive spots to paint. We saw one or two easels up and painters so engrossed that they did not even look at passing cars.

We found our artist's house quite easily and spent a delightful time in his studio. The map, which is to go the length of the lobby, is not only lovely in color, but interesting in design. The other paints harmonize in color and give additional views which are historically interesting as well as scenically.

From here we motored down Route 9-W to Milton, which is just below the Mid-Hudson bridge. We lunched with Mrs. Edward Young, who has, for a long time, been a great influence in farm life in New York state. She had asked us to come over and talk over certain matters of interest to farm women.

I feel that it is very important to knit our town and farm women more closely together. We are such a large country that it is sometimes hard for us to realize that we are one nation, and that the interests of one part of the country, though they may be at variance with other parts, must react on each other and are therefore of interest to all men and women everywhere in the United States.

By 3:15 we were back at the cottage in Hyde Park, where I found some mail awaiting me. However, this is my day for gadding, and in a little while Mrs. Scheider and I are going to cross the river again and will have tea with Henry Junge, who lives at Middle Hope, N. Y. In the winter we have frequent contacts wtih him as we arrange all the entertainments for the White House.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBE..TSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

KNOW YOUR OPPONENTS.

The cest bids and plays at contract cannot be appraised on a purely academic basis, apart from their personal or psychological raison d'etre. For in the last analysis, a splendid play against one type of player might be a rotten play against a different type, and vice versa. This fact accounts for the almost infinite variety of knowledge that must be gained by players who aspire to the topmost rung of the ladder. Consider declarer's problem in the following hand:

South, dealer.

♥8 8 2
♦5 4 3

WEST
♥K J 9
♦10 9 8 7
♣Q 7 4 3

EAST
♠J 8 4
♥Q 10 7 4

SOUTH
♠A K Q 9 6 5
♥A 6 5
♦A K Q J
♣None

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 diams.	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Declarer was fortunate in that West opened the ten of diamonds instead of a heart, which would have nipped the slam contract in the bud. (Obviously West could not be criticized for failing to lead from the K J 9 of hearts.)

But when dummy appeared declarer had a slight sinking sensation. How to use those beautiful club tricks? How to avoid losing two hearts?

There was only one way, or rather one way that really had two bypaths. Declarer immediately led the nine of trumps. When the jack failed to go up from West's hand dummy played low, and East, with somewhat of a stupefied expression on his face at his "good fortune," pounced on the trick with his jack. Declarer breathed a loud sigh of relief, won the diamond return, entered dummy with the ten of trumps, and ditched his losing hearts on the A K of clubs. He then claimed the rest.

I was kibitzing the play, and whispered to the declarer: "Would you have played exactly the same way against any defenders?"

He whispered back. "Of course not! You and I know that an expert in East's position would have sensed what I was doing—establishing dummy's spade ten for an entry—and would have refused to win my nine lead. He would have seen through my dodge and immediately concluded that there was some darn good reason for any such openhandedness on my part as to present him with a jack that must be subject to capture. Therefore he simply would let me hold the nine spot, sacrificing his jack to a good cause. If I'd thought that East was an expert I would not even have tried to fool him. Then my only hope would be to play West for the jack of trumps. If he had it the ten would be a sure entry, either on the first or the second round. It was simply a case of guessing who had the jack and when West failed to put it up, second hand, I felt reasonably sure he didn't have it."

"One hundred percent!" I murmured.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

♠A ♥A2 ♦AK865 ♣AQ542

Answer: Same number of losers and honor tricks; not a good opening two bid.

PROGRAM FRAMED TO PURCHASE SEED

Administration Officials Plan $10,000,000 Expenditure for Next Season.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A $10,000,000 seed purchase program to help farmers whose grain for next season's planting was destroyed by drouth was framed today by administration officials.

While the seed program was discussed, the drouth's devastating effects were reflected on many fronts. Increased farm and food products prices pushed the wholesale commodity price index up one per cent. The forest service reported 1,078 fires during the first 10 days of August. Shortages of red spring and durum wheat foreshadowed continued imports.

Looking toward a long-range solution of the arid west's problems, the great plains drouth area committee headed west for a 3,000-mile trip through the hardest hit regions, winding up with a report to President Roosevelt at Pierre, South Dakota.

Plans for purchasing grain seed through the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation on funds from the farm credit administration were made at a conference this afternoon between F. R. Wilcox, president of the corporation, and W. I. Myers, farm credit governor.

NANCY PAGE

Alas! Children Do Not Like Useful Gifts.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Ann's aunt had come to pay the Miller family a visit. She brought gifts to all the family. For Ann there was a pair of extremely good-looking socks. Ann opened the package with dancing eyes. Her face fell when she saw the socks. "Oh, Auntie," she wailed, "I have socks. I don't want any more." Lois was upset over her child's lack of manner and reproved her. After the children had gone out to play Lois and her sister talked it over.

"I suppose we are rather thoughtless when we bring children articles of clothing. They have never felt the want of clothes. It means nothing in their young lives. As grown ups we enthuse over a good quality in a material or in a new color arrangement or an adorable style. But that is quite foreign to the child at this stage.

"I suppose really we would be wiser to bring children toys. But they may have all the toys they need and by giving them socks you do save the parents spending some money. Children ought to take what is given them and be thankful.

"I suppose so. By the same token, grownups ought to do the same thing, but we don't. We often rebel at gifts we receive, only our years and experience have taught us to repress our real thoughts. I believe the answer to the matter is this: Bring the child some small toy. It may come from the dime or quarter store. Put such a small amount of money into that and you can still buy the clothing that you wanted to get. In this way your money serves a real purpose. The child is pleased and so are the parents.

"When Nancy was told about this episode she recalled a visit Joan's godmother had made her. Joan was eager for white buckskin shoes and godmother brought them for her, but what really took her fancy was a small and inexpensive pocketbook. She was so afraid that the store would close before the pocketbook was in her hands that she was most impatient during the shoe fitting. Grownups have their feelings hurt by children so frequently because they expect grownup reaction from immature minds. And any one who looks upon gratitude as his due is doomed to disappointment. And this applies, mused Nancy, to reactions from grownups as well as from children."

Nancy's leaflet on "Train Etiquette" will be of help to those who are starting on trips for the summer holidays. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page care of The Atlanta Constitution.

YOUTH IS BOUND OVER ON LOTTERY CHARGE

Lottery runners were issued a warning yesterday by Recorder John L. Cone, who fined Oscad Handspite, 19-year-old negro, $102 on a speeding charge and bound him over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on charges of lottery violation.

Handspite was arrested Thursday afternoon by Detectives J. H. Crankshaw and J. B. King and Deputy Sheriff R. N. Nelms, after a chase of several blocks. Police said the negro had more than $1,500 worth of lottery tickets.

CLOCKS STOOD STILL ALL OVER COURTHOUSE

Time stood still for Fulton county employes yesterday.

All the clocks in the courthouse stopped at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning. But the danger of allowing some employe to work overtime through lack of knowledge of the hour was averted by superhuman effort and the clocks were back in order shortly before 5 o'clock. The lost time was caused by a mishap in the master clock which controls the time system.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution

If you haven't read "Around the World in Eleven Years," by the Abbe children, run quickly to the nearest bookstore or lending library and grab a copy. Patience, the oldest of the authors, has a flair for putting her small fingers on the funny bones of her readers. In the artless fashion, common to children, she tells the truth and shames the family.

Few things are more hilarious than a stiff family fight and the reading public owes Patience a debt of gratitude for having filmed and released several prize bouts between her papa and mama. Perhaps the parents Abbe should have some credit for permitting the pictures to be circulated, uncensored and uncut. Here's a sample Abbe round, unembarrassed by Queensbury:

When mama gets very mad, papa says, 'Well, you still think you are a show-girl. You just won't forget that. You didn't get anywhere on the stage.'

"Mama says, Is that so! If I hadn't the misfortune to meet you and you hadn't run all over the place after me, maybe I'd have got somewhere. If you hadn't been in the way I might have married the Ambassador.'

"Papa laughs and says, 'Poor mama!'"

Papas and mamas, doesn't that sound natural? Despite the fact that there are some sentimental sisters who swear that they have never exchanged cross words with their better halves, bouts do take place in the best regulated families. Insignificant incidents precipitate them. The combatants will go to any lengths to get the better of one another and, each being in the know about the other's weaknesses, they have a long way to go. There is no referee to call time on them, or penalize them for fouls. There is no audience to boo them when they hit below the belt. They fight until one or the other capitulates or until they are both exhausted and move to continue at a later date.

Husbands and wives so darned indifferent to one another that they don't get their feelings hurt or their tempters heated to exploding points are pretty well washed up. Husbands and wives who suffer their hurts in silence and let their unexpressed angers fester and spread beneath the surface, will, will sooner or later be consumed with hate for one another. When the volcano smolders and smokes, look out for molten lava! The pairs that fight and fall out, laugh and forget, give pretty good evidence of health and happiness in their married lives.

So here's to bigger and better family fights that blow up like thunderstorms and clear and cool the family atmosphere!

See how quickly you can select the Name represented by today's cartoon on this page. Pick the name from the list printed below the cartoon. To obtain the previous cartoons, mail the coupon in the lower left corner of the page, and you will receive them immediately.

THE RULES

1—The "GREAT NAMES" contest is open to every reader of The Atlanta Constitution, being a bona fide resident of either the state of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama or Florida, with the exception of employes of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and members of their families and with the further exception of any person who has won $1,500 or more in any previous newspaper contest. NOTE: You do not need to be a regular subscriber, you may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your newsstand.

2—Beginning Sunday, June 14, 1936, and continuing each day for 12 weeks, The Atlanta Constitution will publish a cartoon. Each cartoon will in some way suggest or represent a name. The name may be that of a person, city, state, nation, book, song or motion picture.

3—The Atlanta Constitution will award a First Prize of $4,000 as part of $6,000, in prizes to the person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate name to each of the 84 cartoons and in all other ways conforming to these Official Rules. The person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate names to all 84 cartoons and otherwise complying with these Official Rules shall be eligible for First Prize. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solution to the 84 cartoons and otherwise complying with all these Official Rules shall be eligible for additional prizes in order of the correctness of their answers.

4—Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers. Just name the cartoons in accordance with the rules.

5—In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are persons tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more persons tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct names to the 84 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them and will be awarded in the order of the correctness of such contestants (without cost) to a second and, if necessary, a third or fourth series of cartoons. In the event of final ties, a prize identical with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

6—To expedite filing, answers or solutions in this contest should be submitted as follows: At the end of each week, during which a series of seven cartoons will have been printed in The Atlanta Constitution, the contestant is requested to mail or bring the answers to the seven cartoons to the Great Names Editor, care of The Atlanta Constitution, in a unit. Solutions to this contest are to be submitted in a series, seven at a time. The answers to the cartoons printed during any week may be submitted during the following week.

7—In order to qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each of the 12 series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin in payment for a special print of the week's featured cartoon, purchase of which is a condition for entering the contest. The Special Prints, suitable for framing, will be mailed to the contestant in one set, at the close of the contest.

8—Any person entering the contest, and by the submission of answers, agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution and the contest editor, on all matters affecting the conduct of the contest, the making of the awards, and procedure and policy, with regards to the acceptance of submissions during the contest.

9—Answer Forms to which no names are signed will not be considered nor will any claims to the ownership to such answers be recognized. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for answers or communications unduly delayed or lost in transit either from the contestant to The Atlanta Constitution or from The Atlanta Constitution to the contestant.

10—A contestant is permitted to submit as many sets of 84 solutions as he or she chooses, provided same are properly qualified, and each will be judged as a unit, but no person will be awarded more than one prize. When submitting additional sets of answers, all series must be identified as sets A, B, C, etc.

NO SUBSCRIPTIONS REQUIRED

Inclose 10c in Coin With Each Weekly Series

Answers are to be submitted in weekly series of seven. A series consists of cartoons appearing each Sunday through Saturday consecutively. Square Dance Climaxes Activities At Y.W.C.A. Camp This Evening

The Y. W. C. A. program this week-end marks the close of the 1936 Camp Highland summer season, which has been most successful from the standpoint of large attendance, greater service and an enlarged program of activities. Evidence of Camp Highland's value to the community is shown by the fact that the camp grounds will be used by various churches and organizations almost every week-end between now and winter. This evening, as climax to the week's fun and frolics, campers and their escorts will enjoy an old fashioned square dance, with R. D. Johnston calling the figures. The dance will be held in the open air pavilion.

Sunday there will be an early morning swim, followed by horseback riding. Dr. Lavens Thomas, of Emory University, will be guest speaker at the morning worship service. During the afternoon, campers are free to enjoy rest and relaxation or to ramble through the woods or wade in Nickajack creek. Miss Sarah McKinney will direct twilight vespers which will feature trumpet duets by Miss Betty Tucker and Carl Chandler. Miss Tucker was formerly voted the best musician in Fulton High band and Mr. Chandler plays in the Georgia Tech band and other orchestras.

August 21-23, Camp Highland will be rented to the Rainbow Assembly. According to custom of long standing, the Salvation Army will be at camp over Labor Day week-end. Miss Anne Pridmore will hold a reunion of junior campers September 12-13 and on this Saturday evening board members of the First Christian church will hold a supper meeting at Highland. On September 19-21, the Y. W. C. A. industrial club will hold its annual setting up conference with club leaders planning fall classes, leaders and entertainments. Miss Charlotte Califf, secretary, will assist with program planning. The setting up conference for the business girls' department will be held the following week-end, September 26-27, and for the Girl Reserves October 3-4.

October 10-11 has been reserved for the Bird Club; October 17-18 for the Tech Y. M. C. A. Adult campers will have a reunion on October 24-25 and Girl Reserves will hold open week-end October 31 and again November 14-15.

Miss Parks Becomes Bride of Mr. Nix.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 14.—The marriage of Miss Era Marguerite Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Parks, to Joseph Nelson Nix, of Commerce, took place on Sunday at the First Methodist church, with the Rev. Roland Q. Leavell, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Clifford C. Porter, organist, and Mrs. Claude Williams, cousin of the bridegroom, soloist. Ushers were Attis Crowe and Robert Nix, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was married in a fall gown of brown crepe, fashioned with tunic and long sleeves, and combined with gold. She wore a close fitting hat of brown felt trimmed with a single gold ornament. Her flowers were Johanna Hill rosebuds tied with gold ribbon.

Mrs. Nix is an alumna of Brenau College where she was a member of the class of 1934. She is a sister of Miss Myrtle Parks, Miss Emma Parks, Edward Parks Jr. and Curtis Benjamin Parks, all of Gainesville.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dilliard Monroe Nix, of Commerce. Since graduation he has been associated with his father in mercantile business. Mr. Nix is a brother of Lloyd Nix, Dilliard Nix Jr., Mrs. Donald Wright, all of Commerce; Mrs. Lewis Braselton, of Braselton, and Robert Nix, of Gainesville.

Among the out-of-town guests present were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Nix, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wright and daughter, Miss Martha Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nix, Dilliard Nix Jr., all of Commerce; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Braselton and children, Louis Braselton Jr. and Miss Pamelia Braselton, of Braselton, and Mrs. Thomas Lawson, of Trion, formerly Miss Florence Lilly, of this city.

Miss Frances Upchurch Weds Andrew DeFoor at Church Rites

Miss Frances Upchurch became the bride of Andrew Lynn DeFoor at a beautiful ceremony taking place last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Central Presbyterian church. The Rev. John Melton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Rome, and a close friend of both the bride and the groom, officiated in the presence of friends and relatives. Arthur Davis, organist, gave a program of nuptial music prior to and during the ceremony.

The church was handsomely decorated with a green and white color motif carried out. Palms and ferns were banked in front of the altar and tall floor baskets of lilies and other white blossoms were placed at intervals. Seven-branched cathedral candelabra held burning white tapers and the pews reserved for the families were marked with clusters of white blossoms.

Mrs. W. E. Upchurch, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Ruth DeFoor, sister of the groom; Miss Winifred Maddox and Mrs. Albert S. Happoldt were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of gold chiffon, fashioned along straight lines and trimmed with Miami tan. The pleated waists were trimmed with ruffles of Miami tan, which were caught in the back to form trains over the full skirts. They carried bouquets of yellow roses, orange gladioli and blue delphenium, tied with yellow ribbon.

J. W. Carroll, Albert S. Happoldt, W. F. Humphries Jr. and W. B. Horton were ushers.

The bride entered with her brother, Dr. W. E. Upchurch, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, C. M. Daniel. She was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin, fashioned along princess lines with leg o'mutton sleeves. The rounded neckline was outlined with orange blossoms and a row of satin-covered buttons were used down the back to the built-in train. She wore a veil of illusion tulle that was worn by her sister, Mrs. W. E. Upchurch, at her wedding. The veil was trimmed with real lave that was brought to her mother from France by her father, the late Dr. W. A. Upchurch, the lace forming a halo over her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, valley lilies and swainsona.

Mrs. W. A. Upchurch, mother of the bride, wore white chiffon, made on Grecian lines, and a corsage of orchids and gladioli. Mrs. J. B. DeFoor, mother of the groom, was gowned in light green silk lace, fashioned on princess lines, and wore a corsage of pink gladioli.

"ATLANTA'S WHO'S WHO IN THE ZODIAC."

MISS KATHERINE BLECKLEY.

Miss Katherine Bleckley, clerk of the supreme court, and granddaughter of Judge Logan E. Bleckley, was born under the influence of the Zodiacal sign Cancer, July 15 marking her natal date. Cancer is the sign of love of home, conservatism, tenacity. Add to these good points the intellectuality and desire for study that is induced by the influence of the sign's governing planet, Moon, and the reason why those born under this sign can achieve distinction is not hard to find. They are truly endowed with wonderful possibilities.

Bernice Denton Pierson.

Four planets in air signs denote not only keen intellectuality, but bestows a sense of beauty in all forms. This configuration gives friends, social ability, and becomes the promise of continued and lasting success.

The Dragon's head (Ratu according to Hindu astrologers) is in the place of marked attainment in some specific way. It likewise has the influence of Jupiter, and contributes to her continued success.

You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best-known astrologers. Mrs. Pierson does not profess the ability to tell fortunes, to foretell the future, or to solve personal problems, but she can give you a complete and accurate rendition of the position of the sun and planets at the time of your birth, carefully worked out, according to the strict rules of astrology. All you have to do is to fill in the coupon below, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the sun at the time of your birth, called a sun-chart, and with this sun-chart, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpreations, which will be published in The Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology. When you have checked each of your numbers your forecast will be complete.

Mrs. Bernice Denton Pierson, Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga

Planetary Interpretations.

Below are planetary indications, according to the rules of astrology, one of which may apply to your forecast. Every day these interesting interpretations will be published, descriptive of the influence of the planets at the time of your birth. Your astrological forecast includes a sun-chart and planetary interpretations, designated by numbers on your sun-chart. Watch carefully day by day for your numbers.

Number 511—You have many loyal friends who will continue to show their loyalty throughout life. You will number some important people among your friends who will always help you. Your financial prospects are excellent, providing you save and do not squander the money that you have the ability to make. Avoid extremes and all will be well.

Number 309—The indications are that you will have the opportunity to make trips or journeys to various parts of the world. Your trips or journeys will bring you great benefit. A trip seems to be the best method for you to gain control over yourself and your emotions. In religious views you are tolerant and philosophical. You are friendly to all creeds but loyal to your own. You should mingle socially as much as possible, as you are likely to make acquaintances that will benefit you financially as well as in wisdom.

Number 407—You are a home lover and will do all that you can to create a congenial home. You have the type of mind that regards all contracts seriously and you will do your best to fulfill promises that you make. You should be on guard against over optimism and financial disappointments at this time. Practice patience and things will work out well.

Number 812—Practice tolerance and you will be surprised how the circle of your friendships will increase. It is not always diplomatic to be fiery and domineering. You are intuitive and your "hunches" are usually good. You are under excellent vibration for the good things of life.

MRS. JOEL WINN WOOTAN.

Miss Katherine Ruth Harper became the bride of Joel Winn Wootan last evening at the home of Dr. A. T. Allen, who performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the presence of members of the two families and a limited number of close friends.

Miss Lillian Harper, sister of the bride, and W. A. Richardson were the only attendants.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms and ferns with cathedral candelabra on either side. An appropriate program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Hazel Fowler, of Gainesville, who sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Cumming.

The attractive young bride who is a lovely blond and possessing a winsome personality, wore a becoming model of navy triple sheer with a smart felt hat and matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip after the ceremony and upon their return will reside at 650 Barnett street.

Mrs. Wootan is youngest daughter of Mrs. J. E. Harper and the late Mr. Harper. She is sister of Miss Lillian Harper, Mrs. C. C. Cross, Mrs. H. M. Abercrombie and Earl Harper. The groom is only son of Mr. and Mrs. Berry M. Wootan, and brother of Miss Hazel Wootan, Mrs. George W. Horn, Mrs. Joseph Reynolds and Mrs. Jack Letton.

room, in front of an improvised altar

Centering the cordial interest of a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Louise Irene McCain and Eugene Maxwell Boyce, of Polkton, N. C., which was quietly solemnized yesterday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. McCain, on Candler street, in Decatur. Dr. Ross Lynn, of Clinton, S. C., cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The vows were said in the living of palms and ferns, interspersed with tall baskets filled with pink and bronze gladioli. Silver candelabra, holding white candles, were placed on the mantel back of the altar. Miss Louise Young, of Soo Chow, China, cousin of the bride, gave a musical program.

The lovely bride was gowned in a tailored model of brown alpaca, fashioned with a coat and worn with a smart hat and other accessories of brown. She wore a shoulder cluster of talisman roses.

Mrs. Boyce is the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. McCain, her father being president of Agnes Scott College. She was graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1934. She taught at Erskine College, in South Carolina, and was a member of the Atlanta school system last year. Mr. Boyce is a graduate of Erskine College, in Due West, S. C., and is principal of Hannah High school, in Florence.

A. H. Chapman Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Chapman entertained with a delightful party on Wednesday celebrating Mr. Chapman's 69th birthday.

In the center of the table, placed in the yard, was a large birthday cake with 69 candles on it. Mr. Chapman was presented a basket of gifts by his friends.

Guests included E. Powell Lee, Powell Lee Jr., Jack and Dixie Lee, of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. W. E. Harrison, Miss Olivia Harrison, Mrs. R. R. Chapman, Raburn Chapman Jr., James and Donald Chapman, Mrs. J. E. Tippins, Mrs. Virgie Chauncey, Miss Addie Mabry, of Hapeville; Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Marchman, Miss Margaret Marchman and Charles Marchman, of Hampton.

Heard was shot when he was spotted by police driving a car reported to have been stolen from F. B Levy, of 1303 West Peachtree street. Attempting to flee investigating officers, police said, Heard drove away. Police fired upon him.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

STRONG MUSCLES MAKE YOUNG FIGURES.

Toneless abdominal muscles are about as much help to your figure as a girdle that has lost its elasticity. With four strong bands of abdominal muscles correlated in action to form an efficient girdle, why is it so difficult to maintain a straight front line? The answer is, you don't use your muscles. These muscles become lazy from inactivity and allow the whole body to sag. Furthermore, lack of tone in the abdominal wall favors a rapid deposit of fat.

IDA JEAN KAIN

When you were young, these important muscles were kept in excellent tone with such exciting activities as running, reaching, jumping, skipping, skating, diving, etc. The average adult lets her figure age through failure to replace these youthful activities with exercise.

In the youthful figure, there is a well-developed chest and a slim hipline, but with sagging muscles the figure appears narrow through the chest and wide through the hips and abdomen. If the trunk muscles are used and kept strong, the body retains its youthful proportions. The dreaded "middle age spread" is the sign of inactive muscles.

Sports bring elation, which stimulates muscle tone and circulation. If we had only learned to carry some of our early activities over into the thirties, our figures would never grow bulky! Since we didn't, remedial exercise is necessary.

All abdominal exercise should be progressive, beginning easily and working into strongly contracting movements. Most exercise begins too vigorously and lasts too short a time. Here is a strong abdominal exercise which involves no strain and is excellent for the beginner:

Position: Sitting on the floor, back to the wall, hands on hips and legs extended.

Movement: Flatten the lower back against the wall by contracting the abdominal muscles and the gluteal muscles of the buttocks. Hold. Release. Repeat ten times. With the lumber curve straightened in this sitting position, the pelvis is held at its correct angle, with the trunk at right angles to the thigh.

To progress with this exercise, sit away from the wall with the knees flexed so that the soles of the feet are flat on the floor. Now, contract and relax the abdominal and gluteal muscles, always lifting upward with the lower abdominal wall.

Everyone needs abdominal exercise. With excessive weight, fat is deposited on the abdominal wall and exercise must straighten the supporting muscles as the fat is removed. Otherwise, the organs which have been held in place by fat will sag. It is equally important for the weight-gainer to strengthen these muscles to repel fat deposits in this area. Normal weights who have good figures except for the abdominal area will find these exercises valuable.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern markets was 12.15 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling f.o.b., 30 points lower, at 13.00.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A dollar a bale was slashed off cotton values today when foreign selling touched off a decline that had not subsided by the end of trading.

Opening prices were off around 50 cents a bale on poor cables and a decline in the price of foreign growths. The market met little support on the way down and the remainder of the session was spent in a gradual point-by-point drop well under the 12-cent level.

October closed at 11.73, December at 11.77 and March at 11.82. Spots dropped an even dollar a bale with middling at New Orleans quoted at 12.19.

A contributing factor to the unsteady tone was a pick-up in hedge selling as new crop cotton began moving more briskly to interior points.

The weather was ignored almost entirely today as a market factor, but there was little change in the general conditions throughout the belt to warrant recognition.

Mill takings reported by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange declined during the past week. Spinners acquired 178,000 bales of American cotton during the period, compared with 202,000 bales in the preceding week. The movement into sight, reflecting the new crop coming to market, increased to 122,567 bales from 78,933 bales last week.

The trade was followed ginning figures closely as an indication of the crop in Texas. Reports were that ginnings had been heavy in the past week, although the movement to ports had not reflected this.

Port receipts 13,952; week 53,215; season 92,282; last season 110,254. Exports 4,103; week 29,017; season 70,739; last season 84,927. Port stocks 1,198,576. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 26,258; last year 20,495. Spot sales at southern markets 5,945; last year 8,264.

COTTON PRICES DROP ON FOREIGN SELLING

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A decline of approximately $1 a bale in cotton today was attributed to foreign and domestic selling in anticipation of increasing new crop receipts and the failure of bullish weather news to bring in more aggressive buying.

December sold off to 11.79 and closed at 11.81, with the general market steady at net losses of 18 to 21 points.

After opening barely steady, at a decline of 6 to 12 points, in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, the market worked up slightly on reports of continued dry hot weather in the southwest.

Houses with foreign connections were good sellers here, however, and there was considerable local liquidation. Prices weakened under the pressure with active months about 20 to 22 points net lower in late trading.

Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest with December at 11.79 at the low point of the afternoon showing a decline of 36 points from the high price of yesterday. Exports today 5,738, making a total of 67,396 for the season. Port receipts 13,728. United States port stocks 1,197,720.

PLAUCHE'S WEEKLY COTTON STATEMENT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Plauche's New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement for the first 14 days of the season showed today an increase in the movement into sight in round figures of 11,000 bales over the 14 days ending this date last year and an increase over the year before last of 21,000 bales.

The amount brought into sight for the week was 122,567, against 111,250 bales last year and 101,633 bales year before last. For the 14 days of August it was 201,500, against 247,304 last year and 234,280 year before last.

The movement since August 1 shows receipts at all United States ports 92,282, against 135,817 last year and 128,381 year before last; overland to mills and Canada 20,089, against 15,058 last year and 27,565 year before last; interior stocks under those held August 1 71,871, against a decrease of 37,571 last year and a decrease of 59,666 year before last; southern mill takings net 161,000, against 134,000 last year and 138,000 year before last.

Exports of cotton, including Canada, since August 1 have been 71,000, against 111,000. The total takings of American mills north and south and Canada thus far for the season have been 231,000, against 180,000. These include 54,000 by northern spinners, against 32,000.

Since the close of the commercial year stocks at American ports and 102 leading interior towns have decreased 17,262, against a decrease during the corresponding period last season of 17,455 and are now 128,110 smaller than at this date in 1935.

Including stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop and the number of bales brought into sight thus far for the new crop the supply to date is 2,736,891, against 2,851,715 for the same period last year.

Spinners' takings of American cotton during the past week were 178,000 bales, against 182,000 last year and 186,000 year before last, making the total takings of American cotton thus far 380,000, against 391,000 last year and 469,000 year before last.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—On the reaction of the volume diminished in comparison with previous days this week we still favor purchases on these setbacks.

BEER & CO.—We see no reason for the liquidation of existing investments.

PIERCE & CO.—Irregularity expected to continue, but afer two days of decline stocks now at point where greater resistance should be encountered from day to day.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe consideration might be given the advailability of extending long lines over the medium term future.

DOBBS & CO.—We expect the market to continue easy.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—The present dribbles of hedges should logically increase resulting in lower prices unless a speculative demand suddenly develops.

BEER & CO.—We think cotton should be purchased at current levels.

PIERCE & CO.—Anticipating increased hedge pressure.

FENNER & BEANE—We think it advisable to await further developments before buying.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—Friday's decline has probably improved the technical position of the market and the possibility of August crop scares would seem likely to attract increased buying should prices work lower.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Pressure of new wheat at Winnipeg tends to hold down prices so we would stand aside until a break out of the recent range gives some indication of trend.

BEER & CO.—We remain bullish, especially on corn at present levels.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe consideration might be given the advisability of extending long lines over the medium term future.

PIERCE & CO.—Strong word statistical situation and firm domestic cost premiums together wih hot dry southwest weather and considerable feed demand for wheat seemingly indicate ultimately higher prics.

DOBBS & CO.—We feel that purchases of our wheat should be made at least for moderate turns on all sharp breaks.

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Huge rural deliveries of wheat at Winnipeg, together with next to no export buying, did much to tumble Chicago prices down 2 cents late today.

Wheat closed unstable at almost the day's bottom figures, 1 3-8 to 2 cents under yesterday's finish, September 1.10 1-4 to 1.10 1-2, December 1.10 1-4 to 1.10 3-8, May 1.08 3-4 to 1.08 7-8. Corn, 7-8 to 1 7-8 off, September 1.07 5-8 to 1.07 3-4, December 94 5-8 to 94 3-4, May 91 to 91 1-8. Oats 5-8 to 1 cent down, September 43 1-2 to 43 5-8, and rye showing 1-4 to 3-8 decline. The outcome in provisions ranged from 12 cents drop to 5 cents gain.

For the most part, provisions were higher, responsive to hog prices the maximum of the season.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, September 1.08 1-2 to 1.08 5-8, 1.11 7-8 to 1.12; December 1.08 5-8 to 1.08 3-4, 1.11 5-8 to 1.11 3-4; May 1.07 1-4 to 1.07 3-8, 1.10 1-4 to 1.11 1-8. Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM.

(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Discomforting news from abroad plus a discouraging earnings report by Union Pacific brought further selling into the stock market today and left the list nervous.

Losses in the general list extended to more than 2 points while Union Pacific dropped 4 1-2 and J. I. Case slumped 7 points. Trading was dull with only 1,070,000 shares exchanged. The only activity was in the fourth hour.

The various disturbing factors include:

1—The threat of international complications as result of the Spanish revolt. Some selling in cotton, which dropped about $1 a bale, was attributed to this factor.

2—The continued tenseness over France's economic position. The French franc again dropped back to around the gold point.

3—Continuation of the drouth, which undoubtedly will make serious inroads on farmer spending.

The selling again was entirely professional. Brokers reported big holders do not want to disturb their commitments and that therefore the market's position remains favorable.

Union Pacific started the decline when the company reported earnings of $2,976,519 for six months, about 44 cents a share, compared with $3,573,848 or 71 cents a share last year.

One other business discouragement occurred in the Cram's report on automobile production for the week was placed at 56,679 compared with 81,704 in the preceding week, a decline or 25,025. It is purely a seasonal move as the companies shut down to begin operations on 1937 models, but still did not encourage trading.

There were favorable factors, however. The chief one came from the steel industry. The price of scrap made two 25-cent jumps in Pittsburgh today, reaching the highest level since 1930.

The price of export copper rose to 9.75 cents a pound, equaling the domestic price. This undoubtedly will lead to higher domestic price, possibly 10 cents a pound.

By FRANK MacMILLEN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Traders with stock to sell looked in vain for buyers for a while today and the stock market slid briefly into reverse.

Financial circles said the lack of bids in some sectors reflected merely the withdrawal of professionals anxious to appraise the outlook in terms of a somewhat slower rate of industrial activity.

The Associated Press average of 60 shares receded 1.0 to 67.9. Transactions shrunk to 1,070,640 from 1,397,780 Thursday.

Down fractions to 2 or more points were United States Steel at 66 1-2, Westinghouse Electric at 141 3-8, Allied Chemical at 236, American Telephone at 174 1-4, Bethlehem Steel at 60 1-4, American Can at 118 5-8, Consolidated Edison at 42 1-2, Douglas Aircraft at 70 5-8, Radio at 10 3-4 and Union Carbide at 98 1-8.

Lower by fractions to 2 points or so were Baltimore & Ohio at 22, New York Central at 40 1-2, Santa Fe at 84, Southern Pacific at 40 1-2, Southern Railway at 20 7-8 and Illinois Central at 24 5-8. The recent pressure on Pennsylvania lifted and the stock advanced 1-8 to 37 5-8.

Although Wall Streeters realized the sharp drop in automobile output this week to 56,679 units from 81,704 a week ago reflected preparations for new model manufacture, the motors slipped with the rest of the list. Chrysler was down 2 1-4 at 113 1-2 and General Motors yielded 3-8 to 65 5-8.

Bank Clearings

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A lowered aggregate appeared in bank clearings for the latest period, compared with the previous week's total, but a gain was shown over the 1935 comparative for the first time in three weeks. The total reported to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., for 22 leading cities in the United States for the week ended Wednesday, August 12, was $4,785,771,000, against $4,545,189,000 for the similar period of last year, an increase of 5.3 per cent. This contrasted with a loss of 2.6 per cent in the same comparison a week earlier.

At New York City, clearings fell to $2,874,301,000, as contrasted with $3,385,118,000 last week, but they were only 2.2 per cent under the $2,937,893,000 recorded a year ago. Last week New York city was off 11.1 per cent from the 1935 level. The total of $1,911,470,000 for outside centers represented a gain of 18.9 per cent over last year's total of $1,607,296,000.

Total celarings were lower by $665,489,000 than those of the preceding period. Between the two similar weeks of 1935, there was a loss of $1,051,131,000.

Increases over the 1935 figures appeared at all cities with the exception of Richmond and New York. The main rises occurred at Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Atlanta, New Orleans, Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis, San Francisco and Seattle.

Figures at leading cities, compared with those of 1935, are printed herewith; also, daily bank clearings for June and July, and for August to date:

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The bond market slipped down hill a step or two today as traders took profits and bullish aggressiveness was lacking.

United States Governments, leaders in recent upward moves, displayed strong resistance to the downward current and closed mixed, 4-32 of a point higher to 3-32 lower. Several treasury issues climbed to new 1936 highs before backtracking near the end.

On the losing end were such issues as Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s at 87, Missouri Pacific 5 at 36 5-8, Southern Railway 4s at 77, Walworth 4s at 78, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s at 21 1-4, and Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s at 78. Convertible bonds reflecting losses in stocks included Allis-Chalmers 4s and International Cement 4s.

Hudson & Manhattan refunding 5s were exceptionally strong following decision of the directors to increase the interest payments on the income bonds.

Foreign dollar bonds were less active than in the last few days but held to a fairly steady course. Fractional gainers included Brazil 6 1-2s, Cuba 5 1-2s, German 5 1-2s, Poland 6s and Italian 7s.

Sales of all bonds totaled $9,114,000 par value, compared with $11,754,000 on Thursday. Governments accounted for around $1,000,000 of the aggregate.

The Associated Press averages ranged from an advance of .1 of a point in the foreigns to a loss of .2 of a point in the rails.

CURB SHARES RECEDE; LATE STRENGTH SHOWN

Few Issues Run Counter, Including Lake Shore Mines, Sherwin-Williams.

A scattering of issues which were able to buck the general downdrift of prices engendered by a similar trend on the big board included Lake Shore Mines at 57 3-4, Baumann at 6, Northern States Power "A" at 32 5-8, Pan American at 56, Sherwin-Williams at 135 and Pepperell at 84, all up 1 to 2 points or so.

Aluminum Company of America at 130 3-4 and Newmont at 85 1-2 were the heaviest losers in the active group with declines of around 3 points each. Other shares showing losses of fractions to more than a point included American Gas at 45 1-8, Creole at 21 3-8, Gulf Oil at 88, International Petroleum at 34 1-2, United Light & Power "A" at 7, Electric Bond & Share at 22 7-8 and New Jersey Zinc at 81 1-2.

On very light turnover Babcock & Wilcox dropped 5 points to 90.

After the close of trading the curb exchange announced that the short interest as of July 31 had risen to 50,644 shares compared with 36,465 shares on June 30. Today's transfers approximated 244,000 shares compared with 330,000 the day before.

This was a decrease of 19,258 cars, or 2.6 per cent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 146,216, or 25.1 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 124,325, or 20.6 per cent, compared with two years ago.

"WEEK OF STUDY"

Baptists Plan Preparatory Period of Prayer.

Preparing for the "week of study," which begins August 24, junior members of the Baptist Training Union will meet at six rallies to open a week of prayer at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The rallies will be held at churches in the following districts: Edgewood Baptist, district 1; Druid Hills Baptist, district 2; Tabernacle, district 3; Capitol Avenue Baptist, district 4; Oakland City Baptist, district 5, and East Point First Baptist, district 6.

Climaxing the week of prayer and opening the study week, the entire union will hold a joint meeting to hear Dr. John L. Hill, of Nashville, book editor of the Baptist Sunday School board, at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

'Biggest Hunting Liar' Effective as Address

A letter addressed to "The Biggest Fox Hunting Liar in Fulton County, Care Marshal's Office, Courthouse, Atlanta, Ga.," found its way to its destination yesterday with no difficulty.

It was delivered to Deputy Marshal T. A. Poole as rapidly as though it had borne his name, since the fox hunting reputation of the deputy is so well known among his courthouse friends. The epistle was from a fellow fox hunter at Forsyth, Ga., inviting him down to a hunt Saturday night.

TVA ATTORNEYS ASK PRIVATE SUIT DISMISSAL

Authority Lawyers Maintain Case Reveals Lack of Jurisdiction.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP) Attorneys for the TVA filed a motion in the United States district court here today asking that a suit brought against the Authority by 19 private power companies operating in the Tennessee valley be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

The motion said a civil suit against the Authority can be brought only in the northern district of Alabama and quoted from the act creating the TVA which says:

"The corporation shall maintain its principal office in the immediate vicinity of Muscle Shoals, Ala. The corporation shall be held to be an inhabitant and resident of the northern judicial district of Alabama within the meaning of the laws of the United States relating to the venue of civil suits."

Identical suits against the TVA were filed in chancery court here and in federal court at Birmingham on May 29. They asked that the TVA and its power be declared unconstitutional and that the Authority be enjoined from further operation.

The Knoxville suit was transferred to federal court on petition of the TVA. Attorneys for the Authority have filed a motion in Birmingham asking that the suit there be dismissed on grounds that all questions raised in the suit have been passed on by the United States supreme court.

In their original bill the power companies asked for a permanent injunction at the conclusion of a hearing. This week an amendment was filed allowing the complainants to apply for a temporary injunction against the Authority at any time before a hearing.

FINCH IS INDICTED IN CARSON KILLING

Accused of slaying Grady Carson, son of "Fiddlin' John" Carson, George W. Finch, white, was indicted yesterday by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of murder.

Finch claimed in recorder's court, from which he was bound over to the grand jury, that Carson was going with his daughter and had threatened him. He is held in Fulton tower.

Two persons were indicted on charges of forgery as the grand jury completed the week's routine business and virtually finished its investigation of alleged misuse of county-owned automobiles by county employes while off duty.

Mose Holland, county purchasing agent, was questioned during the morning and it was understood he was asked about the money Fulton spends in maintaining county cars for workers.

Jesse S. Jenkins, chairman of a special five-man committee appointed by the grand jury to conduct the probe, said the jurors will confer with the county commissioners soon, as requested in a resolution offered at the last commissioners' meeting by Commissioner George F. Longino. No definite date has been set, it was said.

Forty-seven pages of testimony recorded during the investigation by the grand jury will be studied by Jenkins and the committeemen, and it was considered probable that special presentments will be returned before the end of the grand jury term.

Those indicted for forgery were J. C. Hankinson, 44, and C. W. Griswell, both of whom had previous records.

MAN FOUND SLAIN; SISTER, 35, IS HELD

Woman Suspect Arrested in Midnight Killing in Rooming House.

J. L. Black, 53, was found dead last midnight in a rooming house at 373 Pryor street, S. W., by a fellow lodger, and the dead man's sister, Ethel Brooks, 35, was arrested on charges of suspicion of murder.

Radio Patrolmen C. R. Allen and F. J. Aycock, who answered the call, were told by Jerry Loneigan, a boarder, that about 30 minutes before he found the body he and other tenants heard a woman scream. "I guess —— —— ——, you'll lay there now."

Policemen said Black had a deep gash on the left side of his head and his left eye was black and closed. The dead man was said to have been tubercular.

The Brooks woman was drinking heavily, police said. Patrolman Aycock said while he was in the room, investigating the death, he picked up an iron. While he was examining it, he said, the Brooks woman screamed several times, "I didn't kill him."

Harry G. Poole took the body of Black.

HALLS OF COURTHOUSE REVERBERATE IN SONG

Fulton county courthouse's nine floors reverberated yesterday to the harmony of its annual singing convention.

Doremefasolatedos in profusion swept through the corridors and filled the empty superior court rooms. They came from the criminal court room on the second floor, where the three-day B. F. White singing convention began yesterday morning. County employes found surcease from work by joining in or listening.

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY FOR BEAUTY CONTEST

Entries in the 1936 Miss Atlanta Junior contest, to be staged in front of the grandstand at Lakewood park at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, close at noon today.

More than 30 youthful aspirants to the title have been registered. Rules limit the ages of competitors to between 5 and 9. First three winners will receive loving cups, the park management said.

COUNTY POLICE SEIZE LARGE LOAD OF LIQUOR

County police captured 137 gallons of corn whisky and a white man who gave the name of J. B. Lowry, of a Eugenia street address, yesterday afternoon.

Officers caught the man on McDonough boulevard, near where 60 cases of government taxed liquor were captured Thursday, they said. The police caught Lowry in an automobile without a chase, and found the corn stacked in the rear. Lowry made $100 bond at Fulton tower.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS No. 42

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Sullenly the Indian boatmen rowed ashore, casting hostile glances at the newcomers, for they resented any intrusion into their remote country. Neither Raglan nor any of his party spoke their dialect, but by signs he conveyed to them his desire for the boats.

When the Indians shook their heads, Raglan offered them various objects in barter; but they only gazed at him menacingly. The white man flew into a rage. He had overcome many obstacles in his quest of the Green Goddess, and he would not be balked now.

From his holster leaped his revolver, spitting fire and lead. Two of the Indians fell dead. The others, though armed with bows, fled from the firedeath. Then Raglan and his men swooped down on the kayukas and paddled away before the Indians could counter-attack.

Deep in the forest the savages assembled and there they swore to take a terrible vengeance upon any white man who should come henceforth into their country. In bitter tones the chief announced: "The next will be crushed and devoured by the Terrible Destroyer!"

HUMAN RIDDLES

That Have Vexed the World

By VINCENT TOWNE.

LEANORE PIPER—WHAT WAS HER POWER?

A masked man entered a modest cottage on the outskirts of Boston. He proceeded to a room where an unconscious woman leaned over a table, her head buried in a pillow, her hand clutching a pencil whose point rested upon a pad of paper. The woman's hand commenced to write messages to the masked man—communications alleged to be from his relations beyond the grave.

This mysterious visitor returned to the New England cottage day after day, being always announced as "Mr. Smith." At length, he became convinced that the information written to him by the unconscious woman was such that no living person but himself could possibly have known. Much to the astonishment of his brother savants he announced his belief in the power of the living to communicate with the dead.

The masked man was Dr. James H. Hyslop, professor of logic and ethics at Columbia University, New York, and the mysterious woman who converted him to the spiritistic hypothesis was a modest and retiring New England housewife, Mrs. Leanore Piper. Unlike her predecessors, she had assumed her uncanny role unwillingly, had never given public seances, never demonstrated her powers before other than scientific investigators.

The strange woman was the discovery of Professor William James, of Harvard, brother of Henry James, the noted litterateur. Nearly a half century ago Professor James, delving into the mysteries of psychic research, learned that she suffered now and then from peculiar aberations of consciousness, during which it had been accidentally discovered by her family that she could reveal certain truths that could not possibly have come to her from any living personage.

Professor James tested her powers and communicated results to Dr. Richard Hodgson, an English psychologist living in Boston, and in order to subject her to an acid test, Dr. Hodgson conspired with Professor Hyslop, whom he knew to be a skeptic and a careful scientific investigator. Thus it was arranged that Professor Hyslop should mask himself, disguise his voice and proceed to the Piper homestead unknown and unannounced, entering the presence of the alleged medium only after she had lapsed into one of her spells of unconsciousness.

In the course of these experiments, during which the woman of mystery never saw his features or heard his natural voice, Professor Hyslop alleged the pencil in her hands wrote a secret password from his dead father, a word unknown to any one else, and which he was sure could never have been communicated to Mrs. Piper by any living consciousness. Reams of paper, bearing alleged messages written by Mrs. Piper in Professor Hyslop's presence convinced him that her demonstrations were absolutely above fraud, and he had her subjected to medical tests proving that while writing these communications she was beyond question in a state of anesthesia, insensible to pain.

Having convinced these men of science that the dead could communicate with the living, Mrs. Piper received an invitation to visit England and subject herself to tests arranged by the famous London Society for Psychic Research.

After some persuasion she went abroad, stopping in Liverpool, where, at the residence of Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the University of Birmingham, she was subjected to a rigid examination. A committee asked the alleged medium to communicate to them just what two persons, whom they knew to be utter strangers to her, were doing minute by minute in London at that precise time. Mrs. Piper, entering the trance state, wrote a description of these persons' acts during the evening and comparison later divulged that she was correct.

Proceeding to London, she underwent a long course of investigation at the hands of a committee of the Society for Psychic Research, and many more learned savants capitulated to her. Describing his experiences with Mrs. Piper, Professor Hyslop said:

"I wore a black mask covering my face from my forehead to below my beard when I began to visit Mrs. Piper. I remained masked in this way for a year and thus hid my identity from her until after the results of those experiments had been obtained. She goes into a trance while seated in a chair, her head resting on pillows piled on a stand before her. She turns her face to the left so that she cannot see the writing executed with her right hand, which, holding a pencil, rests upon a pad on another table to her right. She talks on various subjects until suddenly dropping forward on the pillows."

An example of the testimony alleged to have been communicated by Mrs. Piper to him was described to me by Professor Hyslop as follows:

"Once while I was having a sitting with Mrs. Piper, a 'message' was received from a man, a stranger to me, who gave his name and that of his home town. He also stated that he had lost a finger. I made inquiry in the county and town mentioned as his home and found that the oldest residents of the same name, people 75 and 74 years old, had never heard of him. Later I found a cousin of those people's father who had had the same name and had died before I was born. Pursuing my inquiries still further, I found that this man had lost a finger in the War of 1812."

This mysterious woman succeeded in retaining the confidence of all who investigated her, and because of her persistent refusals to make public demonstrations of her alleged phenomena, she retained the respect even of the skeptics who refused to capitulate to her. She disclaimed any theories as to the source from which her alleged "messages" were derived.

What was her power? Will any one ever know?

Mother Whips Son, 44, Wants Him To Leave City

Because he had taken a jar of jelly from her, an aged mother said yesterday afternoon in Recorder A. W. Callaway's court that she was whipping her 44-year-old son when he was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, and added that she would whip him again unless he left the city immediately.

The mother, Mrs. Lucy Brittingham, 76, of 785 Lake avenue, said her son, J. B. Brittingham, of the same address, had taken the jam in order to sell it. Tearfully she asked the judge to reprimand him and order him to leave town.

Brittingham was given a suspended fine of $10 and ordered to leave.

$150 PIN, $10 TAKEN BY APARTMENT THIEF

A burglar entered the apartment of Mrs. J. R. Roseberry, of 250 Moreland avenue, N. E., early yesterday afternoon, and took a diamond bar pin valued at $150 and $10 in cash during the owner's absence, according to police.

Mrs. George Conklin, who resides in the same building, told police she saw a negro youth leave the Roseberry apartment through a rear door at about the time the burglary occurred.

OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED IN WAR MOVEMENT

ALLEGAN, Mich., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Regular troops of the invading "red" army launched a night attack tonight against positions along a 12-mile front held by the defending "blue" forces composed of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin national guardsmen participating in the western Michigan war games.

Umpires announced that so far the "red" invaders have suffered the heaviest losses in the operations which started yesterday morning.

The first "box score" of the war games disclosed that the "red" losses included 87 killed and 57 wounded, in addition to the destruction of three armored cars, 15 combat cars, five airplanes and seven scout cars.

The losses of the defending "blue" national guardsmen, included 43 killed and 80 wounded, and one tank, one truck and two airplanes destroyed.

U.S. OFFICIALS ACCUSED BY EX-WPA ACTRESSES

Trio Refused To Entertain 'Federal Men' at Boston Stag Party.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Through counsel, three former WPA actresses accused drama project officials of firing them because they refused to entertain "federal men" at a stag party at which they were ordered to model clothes.

Four men, joining in a general complaint to WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, complained of discriminatory treatment in being dropped from the drama project rolls.

All seven sought the ouster of Leonard L. Gallagher, appointed five months after the alleged irregularities and discrimination occurred. Gallagher replied that the complaining actors and actresses were among those dropped from the rolls when a federal order required a cut in quotas.

They had been discharged, he said, because they were unable to prove before a hearing that they had any standing as professionals in the theater.

Charge Admitted.

Gallagher admitted the charge of one girl actress, who reported several months ago being annoyed by the advances of a minor official, had been substantiated and the offical dismissed.

The charges of the seven were relayed to Administrator Hopkins by Attorney Harry Lewin who claimed a hearing had been denied in the matter by a state supervisor, and requested an investigation.

One of the three women, Miss Ruth Colby, related the tale of being forced to appear at a hotel stag party, and asked to stay and "entertain" the men.

Men Very Drunk.

When she reported at the hotel, ostensibly to participate in a "style show," she said she found "the room littered with bottles of liquor, and several of the men very drunk."

The men told her, she declared, they were members of the "federal survey board" from Washington.

A WPA spokesman in Washington said the matter was in the hands of Paul Edwards, Massachusetts WPA administrator.

Edwards replied the matter was not within his jurisdiction, the drama division being directed by the Washington offices.

Washington officials of the drama division said they had had no communication with Lewin, reported on his way to the capital, to present the protests of the dismissed actresses.

Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, director of the WPA theater, was reported not in Washington and John Farnsworth, her assistant, declined comment.

To Asia by Panama or Suez Canal? Cain Ponders Problem in Ireland

"Bonnie Ireland" now stretches before the eyes of Arthur Cain, Atlanta's world traveler and sea-going thumb artist, who left here more than a year ago to roam the world and write for The Constitution and its readers of his adventures on the sea and in distant lands.

ARTHUR CAIN.

Yesterday, in a story in The Constitution, Cain told of his arrival in London. The new letter, written in Dublin, Ireland, on July 15, says:

"Having satisfied our desire to ramble about dear old London and having conquered the Irish sea along with two attendant villains upon the packet which brought us from Holyhead, we stand bruised and battered upon the shores of bonnie Erin.

"An ear, once shapely, looks ragged and unkempt. An evil leer replaces the usual countenance of one who considers this to be the best of all possible worlds and its inhabitants to be strictly upright and honorable.

"It all began upon our arrival from London in a huge carryall. Having determined to visit Dublin while so close at hand, we decided that immediate action was indicated and without further delay carried the nearest piece of baggage aboard the craft which next sailed across the briny deep.

Ruse Works Perfectly.

"We were no little surprised to find that no questions were asked and once safely aboard we proceeded to make our person exceedingly scarce.

"As soon as the ship tied up, Cain's name led all the rest in the procession down the gangway. Here trouble loomed large in the form of many officials who seemed intent upon reading passports until their very pages fell out.

"Depending upon the supposed fogginess of our British cousins, we stalled and stalled and searched in vain for our nonexistent papers until Mr. Customs, in exasperation, directed us to stand aside for further investigation.

"At this point, Cain spied an imaginary friend waiting at the gate and rushed joyously past the whole congregation.

"The ruse worked to perfection until two of Ireland's most patriotic citizens endeavored to return us to the arms of the law. I am sure that our old hero, Father Lumpkin, never went through a line any harder than did the slim but desperate Cain when encountering this barrier. Freedom was obtained, but our respect has been considerably increased for Irish might and brawn.

Where Goldsmith Trod.

"We have gazed reverentially at great Trinity and have passed through the same crooked, cobbled streets which More and Burke and Oliver Goldsmith trod years ago. We have journeyed to Tara where the romantic Queen Mab was buried. Here is the place where St. Patrick held forth.

"Ireland is indeed a place of wars and romance and it will be difficult to tear ourself away and sail for other lands.

"This brings us to the important question of our next goal in this tour of the great green earth.

"Our circuitous course so far has landed us in a position where most any distant port is as handy as the other. Scandinavia and Russia lie northward. South America to the southwest. China lies at the ultimate end of either course. So it will probably narrow down to a choice between Panama and Suez as an entrance to far Asia.

Maker of Peace.

"Past experience has given Cain a rightful claim to the champion peacemaker of all time. The moment we headed for the Red sea, Ethiopia promptly surrendered to Italy. In a moment of indecision while in Turkey we decided that the Rhineland offered the most excitement and headed north. A day later peace and goodwill prevailed between France and Germany.

"Now with trouble seething in the orient, there seems nothing for this peace ambassador to do except speed straight for the far east and arrange amiability throughout.

"Thus, if a silence follows this most recent outburst of correspondence, you will know that the writer is once again toiling away upon some vessel bound for China or Japan.

"Then, with the grace of the gods, we will turn the footsteps homeward."

Craft Unions Preferred by Poll Taken in Steel Industry Sections

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Ballots in a nation-wide poll to be released tomorrow by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicate that the drive of John L. Lewis and his committee for industrial organization to organize the steel industry meets a sharp conflict of public opinion in the Pittsburgh, Chicago and southern steel areas.

Allegheny county ballots, which include votes from Pittsburgh, Homestead, Braddock, Aliquippa and other neighboring steel towns, show an exactly even division—50 per cent to 50 per cent—between those who favor industrial unions of the Lewis type and those who prefer the craft organization traditional with the American Federation of Labor.

PA.
Pittsburgh
INDUSTRIAL UNION DRIVE

Ballots from Pennsylvania as a whole, the institute reported, tip the balance in favor of craft unions. The vote is 53 per cent to 47 per cent.

In Cook county, Illinois, where the Lewis industrial union drive is opposed by an independent labor group as well as by the old-line A. F. of L., the vote is 63 per cent to 37 per cent in favor of craft unions.

A special tabulation is not available for Birmingham, Ala., the institute reported, but ballots from that state as a whole favor craft unions by 58 per cent to 42 per cent.

Craft versus industrial union balloting in other large cities was reported as follows:

	Craft	Industrial
New York City	52%	48%
Philadelphia	55	45
Detroit	52	48
Los Angeles	54	46
Cleveland	53	47
St. Louis	56	44
Baltimore	52	48
Boston	53	47

The results of the institute's complete national poll will be released tomorrow exclusively in The Constitution.

NEW RULES GOVERN PRIVATE PLANE PILOTS

Commercial Flying Regulations Will Apply to All Licensed Aviators.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The private airplane pilot—who now goes up and comes down when he feels like it—must listen for the whistle of the air traffic cop after tonight.

The same flying regulations which have governed commercial transport ships for months will be imposed on him by the United States Bureau of Air Commerce starting tomorrow.

It's all part of Uncle Sam's effort to keep the growing traffic on the skyways from developing the constant jumble of wrecks and tragedies which beset earth's highways.

When traffic conditions are bad—of less than a mile visibility low ceiling, or stormy weather—the private pilot will be required to report to his point of destination the type of his ship, the altitude he will fly, his speed and his route.

Whenever possible, his plan will be permitted to stand. When a collision appears possible, however, he may be instructed to change his speed, his altitude, his route, or even to stay on the ground.

The laws apply to the average "free lance" pilot, who handles the stick of his ship from takeoff to landing, only in bad weather.

When a pilot wants to fly his ship with an automatic pilot—"blind flying"—the laws apply in all weather. But first the flyer must pass a special examination, and his plane must have a two-way radio.

The air traffic cop idea was launched by the commercial airlines in a voluntary safety movement last year. The first control tower was placed at Newark, N. J., the New York city port. In April another was opened in Chicago. On July 6, 1936, the United States Bureau of Air Commerce took over the system, and a third station was set up in Cleveland.

Controls will be added at Detroit, Washington, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and San Francisco in the near future.

INVITATION FOR BIDS ON $160,000 OF SAVANNAH AND ATLANTA RAILWAY EQUIPMENT TRUST CERTIFICATES.

Savannah, Ga., August 6, 1936.

Charles E. Gay Jr., as Receiver of Savannah & Atlanta Railway, herewith invites bids on $160,000 of Equipment Trust Certificates to be issued under the usual form of equipment Trust Agreement and Lease and to be known as "Savannah & Atlanta Railway Equipment Trust." The certificates are to be dated October 1, 1936, and issued in denominations of $1,000. The said certificates will be payable to bearer and may be registered as to principal in the name of the holder thereof, and shall bear interest at the rate of four (4) per cent per annum, payable quarterly, and shall fall due in quarterly installments over a period of five years, each of said quarterly installments being for $8,000. The said certificates will be subject to redemption by the Receiver upon three months' notice, in whole or in part, on any quarterly interest date, at par and accrued interest, after the date designated for redemption. There will be a covenant in the Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease, and appropriate reference thereto in the Equipment Trust Certificates issued thereunder, to the effect that upon the termination of the Receivership of Savannah and Atlanta Railway, the reorganized corporation, or any corporation which succeeds to the properties of the Railway at the termination of the Receivership, may be substituted for and in the place of the Receiver as to the guaranty of principal and interest of the certificates, and be substituted under the Trust Equipment Agreement and Lease upon such corporation agreeing to be so substituted and assuming all the obligations and covenants of the Receiver thereunder, and thereupon the Receiver shall stand discharged therefrom. The Certificates are to be issued by the Trustee under the Equipment Trust Agreement, and are to be unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Receiver.

The Vendors under the Equipment Trust Agreement will lease to the Receiver 196 box cars, steel frame and under-frame, of approximately 80,000 lbs. capacity each. These cars were formerly held by the Florida East Coast Railway Co., and have been lately acquired by the Bankers Trust Co., as Trustee, as a result of a public sale under judicial proceedings at St. Augustine, Florida. The Receiver has had these cars inspected and estimates that the total cost, including the purchase price, the cost of repairs necessary to place them in Class A condition, and the cost of transportation to Savannah and delivery to Savannah and Atlanta Railway tracks, will not exceed $180,000.

The Trustee under the Equipment Trust Agreement and the Lessor will be a trust company or bank having power so to act, and having capital and surplus of not less than two million dollars.

When and as the cars are placed in Class A condition and delivered to the Receiver for service under the terms of the Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease, the Equipment Trust Certificates will be delivered in definitive form in amounts proportioned to the cars delivered.

Your bid is invited for the entire issue of $160,000 of certificates, but not for a part thereof, at a specified price plus accrued dividends from October 1, 1936, to date of delivery. Bids will be received up to 12 o'clock noon, August 25, 1936, at the office of Charles E. Gay Jr., Receiver of Savannah & Atlanta Railway, in Savannah, Georgia, the bids to be submitted in conformity with the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission made pursuant to the Clayton Anti-Trust Act. The bids shall be addresed to the Receiver and marked on the outside of the envelope. "Bid under proposed contract No. 1." The bids will be opened immediately after 12 o'clock, noon, on August 25, 1936, at the said office of the Receiver, and by the Receiver or under his authority.

Copies of the proposed Agreement and Lease, and of the certificates to be issued thereunder, will be furnished to any person desiring to bid, upon application directed to the Receiver at his office in Savannah, Georgia.

The Receiver reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The acceptance of any bid is subject to the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the issue and sale of the Certificates.

Notice of acceptance, subject to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be mailed to the successful bidder not later than August 27, 1936. If the Interstate Commerce Commission shall not have approved the issue of these Trust Certificates and the sale thereof to the accepted bidder on or before October 1, 1936, the successful bidder may, by delivering notice to the Receiver at his said office within three days after October 1, 1936, terminate the application to purchase such Equipment Trust Certificates.

CHARLES E. GAY, JR.,
as Receiver of Savannah & Atlanta Railway.

MOTHER OF TRIPLETS CLAIMED AS DAUGHTER

Philadelphia Woman Believes Florida Trio Her Grandchildren.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Another patch was added to the crazy-quilt pattern of confusion surrounding Mrs. Lois Miller's triplets today when a Philadelphia woman indicated the 10-month-old baby boys may be her grandchildren.

Mrs. Andrew Soyer, of Philadelphia, wrote Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth saying she believed Mrs. Miller is her missing daughter, Ella Soyer.

It was the second letter written the judge since he recently awarded Mrs. Miller custody of the children, without deciding whether they were the sons of her present husband, T. J. Miller, West Palm Beach barber, or Louis D. Pierre, Miami mechanic. Pierre brought habeas corpus proceedings seeking custody of the triplets.

Afterwards, Aubrey Johnson, of Perry, Fla., who was the estranged husband of Mrs. Miller at the time of the babies' birth, wrote Judge Chillingworth complimenting him on his decision and indetifying himself as the real father of the babies, despite similar claims by Miller and Pierre.

The Philadelphia woman wrote Judge Chillingworth that she had seen a newspaper picture of Mrs. Miller and that it looked like her missing daughter who left home March 9, 1931. Mrs. Soyer said her daughter would be 22 years old now.

Mrs. Miller, who is about 26, testified at the habeas corpus hearing here that her father lived in Miami.

"Dear judge," Mrs. Soyer said in her letter, "please write me if you think she is my daughter for she is my only child."

SCHOOL AID IS SEEN FOR DROUTH AREAS

Probable effects of Georgia's drouth on enrollment in schools and colleges during the coming school year will be discussed at a conference today that Richard R. Brown, deputy executive director of the National Youth Administration, will hold with 20 Georgia secondary school and college educators.

The educators have been called together by D. B. Lasseter, state director of NYA. Brown is holding a series of such conferences in drouth areas to determine the need for additional allocations of NYA school and college aid funds.

The NYA will help many student victims of the drouth between the age of 16 and 25, as well as other students of insufficient income, to continue their education through provision of funds for part-time employment on suitable projects selected and supervised by school officials.

The conference will be held in the office of the NYA, Ten Forsyth Street building, Atlanta. Other officials who will attend include Dr. L. R. Alderman, director of the WPA education division, Washington; Garth Akridge, regional director of NYA, New Orleans; Thomas F. Neblett, member of the national advisory committee of NYA, Washington, and R. R. Paty, state WPA education director, Atlanta.

RISING TEMPERATURES, NO RAIN LIKELY TODAY

Temperatures are expected to mount a trifle higher today under partly cloudy skies and with no rain in prospect for the week-end, according to the weatherman.

Yesterday Atlanta awoke to temperatures at 73 degrees. The climb during the day was to 87 degrees. Today the predicted range is between 72 and 90 degrees.

TREASURY CANCELS NAZI IMPORT DUTIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The treasury today withdrew all countervailing duties imposed upon imports from Germany. It acted upon the receipt of assurances from that country that the subsidization of exports would cease.

The added tariff rates were imposed upon receipt of advices from abroad that subsidies granted to German manufacturers by the German government gave German-made goods an unfair advantage over American manufacturers in the domestic market.

GANNETT MANAGER, ROY KATES, 59, DIES

SILVER CREEK, N. Y., Aug. 14. (AP)—Roy C. Kates, 59, general manager of the Gannett newspapers in Rochester, died this morning at the home of his wife's family here.

The newspaper executive was regarded as almost recovered from an attack of pneumonia which followed an appendicitis operation last April.

NOTED N. Y. PRIEST PASSES AT HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The "priest of a million dead" himself is dead.

The Rev. John P. Lonargan, for 25 years chaplain of Calvary cemetery in Long Island city, died after a long illness in a hospital last night. He was 74.

He once remarked humorously that he had the largest Catholic parish in the world after that of the Pope and pointed to the 100,000 burial rites at which he had officiated.

10,000 SEE NEGRO, 22, HANGED IN KENTUCKY

Woman Sheriff of County Fails To Appear at Scene of Execution.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Aug. 14.—(AP) A crowd of 10,000 white persons—some jeering, others festive, but generally orderly—watched a prayerful black man put to death today on Daviess county's "pit and gallows," authorized by Kentucky law for the hanging of a convicted rapist.

The county's matronly, plump sheriff, Mrs. Florence Thompson, saw to it the court's sentence that Rainey Beathea, 22, negro, "be hanged by the neck until dead" for the assault-murder of a 70-year-old white woman, was carried out. She did not appear publicly, however, before the milling throng in the three-acre lot, scene of the first public hanging in the county's history. Arthur L. Hash, former Louisville policeman, sprung the trap, dropping the stocky negro to death in the pit of the double-deck gallows.

Despite precautions of county officials who placed a cordon of guards about the scaffold, a few persons near the gallows grabbed bits of the hood as souvenirs after two physicians pronounced Bethea dead from a cleanly-broken neck.

PAUL S. ETHERIDGE SPEAKS AT RALLY

Judgeship Candidate Promises To Be 'Positive Force.'

Promising to make the people of Fulton county the best judge a human can be, if they elect him, Paul S. Etheridge, candidate for judge of Fulton superior court to succeed Judge G. M. Howard, who is retiring, addressed a sixth ward political rally at the Bass Junior High school last night.

"The judgeship is the most sacred of public positions, with the possible exception of the church," Etheridge declared. "If you elect me your judge, I promise to be a positive force and, with my conscience guiding me, I will fill the office that 35 years of practice before the bar has qualified me to fill to the best of my ability."

The candidate emphasized the necessity of a judge knowing the law and studying it. He said he did both, urged the voters to study his record, and ended his speech with a plea to the voters assembled that they pay close attention to the platforms of the candidates for city posts that were to speak after he concluded.

Etheridge was introduced by Starr Peck, chairman of the central Etheridge-for-judge committee, as a student of law who "looks every inch a judge."

WATL Injunction Dissolved With Consent of Both Parties.

A fight in Fulton superior court over ownership of the Atlanta Broadcasting Company's station, WATL, ended yesterday when Judge John D. Humphries dissolved a temporary restraining order upon consent of both sides.

The temporary injunction was obtained three weeks ago by C. A. Cisler Jr. in his cross action and answer to the petition of J. W. Woodruff to have himself declared sole owner of the station and its federal license.

The order enjoined the station from moving from the Shrine mosque to an address on Cain street or changing its status until a hearing on Woodruff's petition. Cisler claimed he and Woodruff purchased the station from Oglethorpe University for more than $16,000 and that Woodruff was to own 70 per cent of the stock and himself 30 per cent.

Differences between the two men were not brought out further in court and both consented to dissolving the restraining order.

Plans for expansion of the station have already been announced.

MRS. A. C. CLACK DIES AT HOME IN CHAMBLEE

Mrs. A. C. Clack, of Chamblee, died yesterday morning at her home there at the age of 66.

Surviving are her husband; four sons, A. C. Clack Jr., Dewey Clack and Vernon and Summie Clack, and four daughters, Mrs. J. D. Baughcum, Mrs. Henry Lusk, Mrs. Roy Mitchell and Mrs. Lester Turner.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Midway Baptist church, with the Rev. P. F. Fields officiating. Interment will be in Midway cemetery. A. S. Turner, funeral director, will be in charge.

Triplets Will Observe 1st Half-Year Today

Atlanta's triplets will celebrate their "first" birthday this morning, for they will be six months old today, and tomorrow morning they will be formally christened Phyllis, Patricia and Virginia.

Babies of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Turner, of 637 Lawton street, S. W., the triplets are plump and rosy-cheeked and have been healthy and good-natured since their birth February 15, 1936. They will be christened at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Park Street Methodist church, with the Rev. Fred L. Glisson, pastor, conducting the services.

It is probable they will celebrate today by taking an extra glass of tomato juice.

In describing their daily routine, Mrs. Turner says they are given their first bottle between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning, and tomato juice at 9 o'clock. There is a 30-minute sunbath during the morning, and then another bottle. After a nap, they have their "dinner" of vegetables pulverized and mixed with broth.

At 6 o'clock they are given their "last" bottle and placed in their cribs for the night.

EVIDENCE CONCLUDED IN BANNISTER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Opposing counsel summed up their evidence for and against three men charged with extorting $1,800 from Harry Bannister today and the case was adjourned until Monday when it probably will go to the jury.

Counsel for the defendants, Jerome Jacobs and Harry S. Hechheimer, lawyers, and Raymond Derringer, a motion picture operator, called Bannister's story a "piece of fiction."

Bannister contended he was forced to pay the money to the three men when they threatened to expose him to shame while he was engaged in a child-custody fight with his former wife, Ann Harding, screen actress.

31 ARE FEARED LOST WHEN SHIP CAPSIZES

ALGIERS, Algeria, Aug. 15.—(Saturday.)—(AP)—Ten passengers and 21 seamen were believed lost early today after the steamer Oranaise capsized suddenly 35 miles off Mostaganem, Algeria.

Two seamen who reached shore after a seven-hour struggle with the sea on a raft were thought to be the only survivors of the catastrophe last night. They said the cause of the sinking was not apparent and the craft went down rapidly.
